Tension Grips West Berlin As Power Struggle Begins

Red Squeeze Tightens As German Communist People's Police Nip Isles Of Freedom On Outskirts Of City

BERLIN, May 31 (AP)—A new Red squeeze tightened on West Berlin today. The German Communist people's police nipped two little islands of freedom on the outskirts of the city.

West Berlin was gripped by its worst case of jitters since the Russian blockade of 1948-49 as the hamlets of Buergerablage and Steinstuecken fell victims of the program to seal the Soviet occupation zone from the Allied sectors and Allied West Germany.

The People's Police moved into Buergerablage, just inside the Russian zone but administratively attached to the British sector of Berlin, and ordered its 43 families to get out. Later the police slammed a blockade on the 50-family hamlet of Steinstuecken and cut it off from the American sector, to which it has belonged.

The worst could come tomorrow when the East German Communist government has announced it will institute new rules requiring special passes for all Germans traveling in the Soviet zone.

This could mean a virtual blockade if the Communists decide such passes also are required of truckers, bargemen and railmen who carry on Berlin's lifeline traffic with the west across 110 miles of the Soviet zone.

When the Communists announced their new transit visa requirements Tuesday, they said details would be disclosed later. So far there has been no elaboration and people were on edge.

It's all part of the Communist campaign against the peace contract to ally West Germany in Western Defense, which the Reds say will mean civil war. They contend they are setting up security belts "to keep out Western spies, saboteurs and black marketeers."

In the wake of Allied protests yesterday, Gen. Thomas T. Handy fired another complaint at Soviet Gen. Vassily I. Chuikov against the still unexplained stoppage of Allied military patrols on the Berlin-Helmstedt Autobahn.

The commander of U. S. Forces in Europe told the chief of the Soviet Control Commission in Germany "these repeated acts of interference are malicious as well as completely without justification."

"Such interference with my forces in the execution of their instructions cannot be condoned," he said. "I insist, therefore that you initiate without further delay whatever action is necessary to in-

American 'Bungling' Assailed By British

LONDON, May 31 (AP)—British papers and Laborite members of Parliament today lambasted what they called American bungling in handling Communist war prisoners on Koje Island off Korea.

Some of these critics suggested American "mismanagement" might be blocking the way to a Korean truce.

Communist refusal to accept American figures on screening prisoners and the United Nations principle of not repatriating prisoners who do not want to return to their Red-controlled homelands are regarded here as the chief obstacles in the truce negotiations.

Three laborites introduced a motion in the House of Commons asking that Lord Alexander, defense minister, propose a check of American prisoner screening when Alexander makes his forthcoming visit to Tokyo.

Another Laborite M. P., Emanuel Shinwell, who was defense minister in Clement Attlee's government, proposed that the whole prisoner problem be dropped into the U. N.'s lap.

The influential Times of London joining a week-long chorus of criticism of the U. S. on the prisoner question, urged the Allied powers to clean up the Koje Island camps. It said the prisoners should be screened anew, if need be, in the presence of Chinese and North Korean representatives.

Lord Beaverbrook's conservative and imperialist-minded Evening Standard called for wholesale return of Red prisoners, regardless of their personal wishes. This is

MEN RELEASED ON $5,000 BONDS

Robert Fuller, 30, driver for a taxicab company here, and Howard Ramsey, 29, owner of a cab company were released from the parish prison on $5,000 bonds yesterday. Both were charged with receiving stolen goods. Investigators were the Ouachita Parish Sheriff department and city detectives.

Alvin Richardson, Jr., alias Junior Crow, 24-year-old Negro of Sterlington, was apprehended for investigation and later charged with burglary. One burglary allegedly committed by Richardson netted a haul of $1,700 worth of whiskey.

Helen's Place, Highway 80 robbed the night of July 27, 1951, of whiskey, some bonded, valued at $1,700, set off the series of thefts. Second occurred October 21, 1951 when Frank's Grocery, DeSiard Street, owned by Frank Mistello, reported four cases of whiskey and a large quantity of cigarettes were stolen. Estimated value was $500.

Two other robberies have been charged to Richardson. He acknowledged robbing Jones' Bar-B-Q Stand, DeSiard street, of beer and cigarettes, and Hendrix's Grocery, West Monroe, where he said he stole some money and cigarettes, Sheriff Bailey Grant said.

Richardson allegedly made the cab company his selling headquarters with Ramsey and Fuller acting as buyers, Sheriff Grant said.

No bond has been set for Richardson late last night.

SPARKS WILL OPPOSE TWO COLLEGE BILLS

State Senator James D. Sparks said Saturday that he "will lead the fight in the Senate to maintain Northeast State College as a four-year college," if the pending bills are brought onto the floor.

Sen. Sparks made the following statement on bills pending in the Senate which would reduce Northeast Louisiana State College and McNeese College at Lake Charles from a four-year college to a two-year junior college:

"These bills will be assigned Sunday night to the Education Committee of the senate. I do not believe the bills will be reported favorably by this committee; but, if for any reason they are reported favorably and reach the floor of the senate, I feel certain we can defeat both bills.

"Considering the large population in this area, I am firmly convinced a four-year college is essential to the continued progress and growth of Monroe and surrounding parishes.

BILL TO EXTEND BENEFITS TO VETERANS READY

Measure Comes Up For House Action Monday

WASHINGTON, May 31 (AP)—A bill extending veterans' benefits to men and women who joined the armed forces since fighting began in Korea on June 27, 1950, comes up for House action on Monday.

The measure — carrying help along the lines given veterans of World War II—is subject to 40 minutes' debate. Then—with no opportunity for any change to be made—it can be voted up or down. But if a roll call is required this will not be taken until Thursday.

The "take-it-or-leave-it" method of presentation grew out of the only controversial provision in the bill.

The measure provides that education benefits shall be paid directly to the veterans instead of to the colleges as is the practice presently.

Rep. Teague (D-Texas), author of the bill, claims it was written "out of consideration for the veterans and the taxpayers" and as a remedy for abuses discovered in the present veteran training program.

But Rep. Springer (R-Ill) claims it discriminates against the private colleges of the nation. Springer's plan to offer an amendment to the bill on the floor was stymied by the committee's decision to ask the House to suspend its rules and pass the bill in one action.

The bill provides an education allowance of $110 a month for veterans without dependents or $150 for those with dependents who enroll in a full-time institutional course.

The half-time schooling allowance would be $50 to $70.

From these allowances, veterans would have to meet all of their education costs, including subsistence.

For apprenticeships or other on-the-job training, allowances of $70 and $85 would be made, On-the-farm training allowances would be $95 and $120.

Other provisions:

Education benefits would be given on the basis of 1½ days of training for each day of service since July 27, 1950, regardless of where it was performed, with the maximum period amounting to 36 calendar months.

Distillate-Chemical Plant At Dubach Is Authorized

Southwest Gas Producing Co. Inc., and Feazel interests have been granted a certificate of necessity by the federal government for construction of a petro-chemical plant at Dubach, in Lincoln parish, it was disclosed here Saturday. Announcement was made following publication of the issuing of the certificate of necessity in the Wall Street Journal.

The certificate of necessity granted rapid amortization on a total of $3,960,000, with part of the amortization to be at the rate of 90 per cent, part at the rate of 65 per cent and part at the rate of 45 per cent. A later estimate, however, has placed the cost of the proposal plant at $4,250,000 and it is likely that a request for amortization of an additional sum will be made later.

When constructed, the plant will consist of an extraction unit, which will extract several by-products of distillate gas, and of a platform processing unit, which will upgrade raw gasoline and raise it to a high-

Crossett Delegation Arrives

By ELGIN HUDSON

Eleven boats arrived at the Howard-Griffin boat dock yesterday afternoon between 4 and 5 p. m. after completing a nine-hour down river journey which began early Saturday morning at Crossett, Ark.

The boats were manned by a group of boating enthusiasts from Crossett who made the trip to "arouse interest in boating and to spotlight the necessity of the system of locks and dams being maintained on the Ouachita River."

Several of the visitors pointed out that the river would only be a trickle of small streams in the vicinity of their city if the locks were not maintained.

Several mishaps occurred on the trip down river, with boats turning over and motors overheating, but no one was injured. One accident, a collision between two of the boats, occurred just south of the old traffic bridge when one boat failed to heed another oncoming boat and turned into its

PHARMACY UNIT WON'T OPPOSE SCHOOL HERE

An executive committeeman of the Louisiana State Pharmaceutical Association, which is the official organization of pharmacists, said today that the group would not oppose the establishment of a School of Pharmacy at Northeast Louisiana State College.

Fred M. Grant, who is also a past president of the association, pointed out that the L. S. P. A. at a recent executive committee meeting, decided to take a neutral stand, thereby "complying with the charter and by-laws, also worked for the promotion of a system of education in pharmacy in the state. Any direct challenge to a proposed school of pharmacy or antagonistic stands in this line, he believes, will be "essentially a violation of the charter and by-laws themselves."

Recently the Louisiana Society of Hospital Pharmacists made public a resolution against the establishment of the proposed school. However, this organization, several local pharmacists pointed out, was composed of less than one-hundred members and the majority of these located in Orleans parish. Very few of the relatively small group represent parishes not immediately adjacent to the Orleans area.

At Loyola University in New Orleans, where the only School of Pharmacy is located in Louisiana, only one person, J. W. Barren, was graduated this spring with a Bachelor Degree in Pharmacy.

According to reports from New Orleans, statements have been circulated to the effect that the Loyola school of pharmacy will become defunct should the new school be established. These statements, which are said to be creating "quite a bit of excitement" in the New Orleans area, are being attributed to persons opposing the proposed school.

Housing Discussion Scheduled

A meeting to discuss the merits and demerits of public housing, sponsored by the Monroe citizens committee, will be held on the third floor of the Ouachita parish court house Thursday at 2 p.m.

Discussion will be centered on the cost of public housing to the local community, governing of the projects, irregularities and political implications, public housing and slums.

Local housing projects, which were built solely from funds furnished by the federal government, have recently been completed. The United States government has a $20,000,000,000 stake in housing through ownership and mortgage guarantees and proposes in the future to build even more housing units. The exact amount which the federal government has spent on local housing projects is not known.

American housing is at an all time high and getting better every year, although this fact is somewhat obscured by population growth and migrations, as well as by artificial forces, such as income inflation and rent control.

All citizens are invited to attend the discussion.

Debate Over Expense-Paid Trips By GOP Delegates To Meet Eisenhower Looms As Issue In S. D. Primary

By The Associated Press

The hot fight stirred up over plans for expense-paid trips by Republican convention delegates to meet Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower continued today (Sun) and was made an issue in Tuesday's Hot South Dakota primary.

There was no word from the homeward-bound Eisenhower as to whether he had given his personal okay to the plan, announced by his Washington campaign headquarters on Friday, to invite the 1,200 delegates to the GOP presidential nominating convention to [illegible] tight race for the GOP nomination, raised cries of "scandals . . . close to efforts for bribery." Eisenhower backers retorted that the Taft forces displayed "desperation and lack of good morals."

Taft, whose differences with Eisenhower have been most evident in the foreign policy field, arranged to take to radio and television this afternoon with two broadcasts which his campaign headquarters billed as a major foreign policy speech.

Contention between Taft and Eisenhower forces continued yesterday (Sat) as three states held conventions to name a total of 22 delegates to the national convention opening in Chicago on July 7. Democrats held a state primary and opened a state convention.

In advance of yesterday's selections, Taft held a 431 to 386 edge over Eisenhower in the Associated Press tabulation of convention delegates already chosen. It is based on commitments, pledges, instructions and avowed preferences. Nomination requires 604 delegate votes.

Among the Democrats, Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee holds the lead with 150 votes to 86½ for Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia and 25½ for W. Averell Harriman, the Mutual Security administrator. Nomination requires 616.

Yesterday's lineup:

New Mexico — A closely-divided GOP state convention met at Santa Fe to pick New Mexico's 14 delegates to the national convention. Taft backers went into the convention with a slight edge, but the margin was so close it appeared the delegation might be sent to Chicago uninstructed. That has been the traditional practice in the state.

A fire that lasted three hours and a half did "extensive" damage to a huge two-story building at 1400 Riverfront late yesterday afternoon.

Engine Companies 101 and 103, Ladder Truck Number Two, and Emergency Truck Number One, received the alarm at 5:55 p. m., and reported back to the station at 9:25 p.m.

Firemen said last night that the fire, which apparently originated in the attic, had damaged the south side of the roof pretty badly but that the rest of the building was saved.

The house was owned and occupied by James S. Fox.

BILL TO EXTEND BENEFITS TO VETERANS READY

Measure Comes Up For House Action Monday

WASHINGTON, May 31 (AP)—A bill extending veterans' benefits to men and women who joined the armed forces since fighting began in Korea on June 27, 1950, comes up for House action on Monday.

The measure — carrying help along the lines given veterans of World War II—is subject to 40 minutes' debate. Then—with no opportunity for any change to be made—it can be voted up or down. But if a roll call is required this will not be taken until Thursday.

The "take-it-or-leave-it" method of presentation grew out of the only controversial provision in the bill.

The measure provides that education benefits shall be paid directly to the veterans instead of to the colleges as is the practice presently.

Rep. Teague (D-Texas), author of the bill, claims it was written "out of consideration for the veterans and the taxpayers" and as a remedy for abuses discovered in the present veteran training program.

But Rep. Springer (R-Ill) claims it discriminates against the private colleges of the nation. Springer's plan to offer an amendment to the bill on the floor was stymied by the committee's decision to ask the House to suspend its rules and pass the bill in one action.

The bill provides an education allowance of $110 a month for veterans without dependents or $150 for those with dependents who enroll in a full-time institutional course.

The half-time schooling allowance would be $50 to $70.

From these allowances, veterans would have to meet all of their education costs, including subsistence.

For apprenticeships or other on-the-job training, allowances of $70 and $95 would be made, On-the-farm training allowances would be $95 and $120.

Other provisions:

Education benefits would be given on the basis of 1½ days of training for each day of service since July 27, 1950, regardless of where it was performed, with the maximum period amounting to 36 calendar months.

Distillate-Chemical Plant At Dubach Is Authorized

Southwest Gas Producing Co. Inc., and Feazel interests have been granted a certificate of necessity by the federal government for construction of a petro-chemical plant at Dubach, in Lincoln parish, it was disclosed here Saturday. Announcement was made following publication of the issuing of the certificate of necessity in the Wall Street Journal.

The certificate of necessity granted rapid amortization on a total of $3,960,000, with part of the amortization to be at the rate of 90 per cent, part at the rate of 65 per cent and part at the rate of 45 per cent. A later estimate, however, has placed the cost of the proposal plant at $4,250,000 and it is likely that a request for amortization of an additional sum will be made later.

When constructed, the plant will consist of an extraction unit, which will extract several by-products of distillate gas, and of a platform processing unit, which will upgrade raw gasoline and raise it to a high-

Crossett Delegation Arrives

By ELGIN HUDSON

Eleven boats arrived at the Howard-Griffin boat dock yesterday afternoon between 4 and 5 p. m. after completing a nine-hour down river journey which began early Saturday morning at Crossett, Ark.

The boats were manned by a group of boating enthusiasts from Crossett who made the trip to "arouse interest in boating and to spotlight the necessity of the system of locks and dams being maintained on the Ouachita River."

Several of the visitors pointed out that the river would only be a trickle of small streams in the vicinity of their city if the locks were not maintained.

Several mishaps occurred on the trip down river, with boats turning over and motors overheating, but no one was injured. One accident, a collision between two of the boats, occurred just south of the old traffic bridge when one boat failed to heed another oncoming boat and turned into its

By The Associated Press

The hot fight stirred up over plans for expense-paid trips by Republican convention delegates to meet Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower continued today (Sun) and was made an issue in Tuesday's Hot South Dakota primary.

There was no word from the homeward-bound Eisenhower as to whether he had given his personal okay to the plan, announced by his Washington campaign headquarters on Friday, to invite the 1,206 delegates to the GOP presidential nominating convention to talk with him. The Eisenhower national committee said the expenses of trips to New York, Denver or Abilene, Kans., would be paid by local Eisenhower committees or clubs, or by the delegates themselves.

Backers of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, leading the general in a tight race for the GOP nomination, raised cries of "scandals . . . close to efforts for bribery." Eisenhower backers retorted that the Taft forces displayed "desperation and lack of good morals."

Taft, whose differences with Eisenhower have been most evident in the foreign policy field, arranged to take to radio and television this afternoon with two broadcasts which his campaign headquarters billed as a major foreign policy speech.

A couple hours later, at 3 p. m. (EST), Eisenhower was due to land at Washington National Airport. He left Paris at 8:04 a. m. (EST) yesterday, with a scheduled overnight stop at Stephenville, Newfoundland.

In a brief farewell to the people of France, he did not touch on U. S. political questions.

Eisenhower will spend two days in Washington, reporting on his tour of duty as supreme commander of Western Europe's Defense Forces, and will go to Abilene for his first civilian dress speech and news conference on Wednesday and Thursday.

Contention between Taft and Eisenhower forces continued yesterday (Sat) as three states held conventions to name a total of 22 delegates to the national convention opening in Chicago on July 7. Democrats held a state primary and opened a state convention.

In advance of yesterday's selections, Taft held a 411 to 386 edge over Eisenhower in the Associated Press tabulation of convention delegates already chosen. It is based on concessions, pledges, instructions and avowed preferences. Nomination requires 604 delegate votes.

Among the Democrats, Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee holds the lead with 150 votes to 86½ for Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia and 85½ for W. Averell Harriman, the Mutual Security administrator. Nomination requires 616.

Yesterday's lineup:

New Mexico — A closely-divided GOP state convention met at Santa Fe to pick New Mexico's 14 delegates to the national convention. Taft backers went into the convention with a slight edge, but the margin was so close it appeared the delegation might be sent to Chicago uninstructed. That has been the traditional practice in the state.

North Carolina — Democrats held a primary to nominate for governor, 12 congressional seats and other state offices. In most instances nomination in the Democratic primary is equal to election; in

PHARMACY UNIT WON'T OPPOSE SCHOOL HERE

An executive committeeman of the Louisiana State Pharmaceutical Association, which is the official organization of pharmacists, said today that the group would not oppose the establishment of a School of Pharmacy at Northeast Louisiana State College.

Fred M. Grant, who is also a past president of the association, pointed out that the L. S. P. A. at a recent executive committee meeting, decided to take a neutral stand, thereby "complying with the charter and by-laws, also worked for the promotion of a system of education in pharmacy in the state. Any direct challenge to a proposed school of pharmacy or antagonistic stands in this line, he believes, will be "essentially a violation of the charter and by-laws themselves."

Recently the Louisiana Society of Hospital Pharmacists made public a resolution against the establishment of the proposed school. However, this organization, several local pharmacists pointed out, was composed of less than one-hundred members and the majority of these located in Orleans parish. Very few of the relatively small group represent parishes not immediately adjacent to the Orleans area.

At Loyola University in New Orleans, where the only School of Pharmacy is located in Louisiana, only one person, J. W. Barron, was graduated this spring with a Bachelor Degree in Pharmacy.

According to reports from New Orleans, statements have been circulated to the effect that the Loyola school of pharmacy will become defunct should the new school be established. These statements, which are said to be causing "quite a bit of excitement" in the New Orleans area, are being attributed to persons opposing the proposed school.

Housing Discussion Scheduled

A meeting to discuss the merits and demerits of public housing, sponsored by the Monroe citizens committee, will be held on the third floor of the Ouachita parish court house Thursday at 2 p.m.

Discussion will be centered on the cost of public housing to the local community, governing of the projects, irregularities and political implications, public housing and slums.

Local housing projects, which were built solely from funds furnished by the federal government, have recently been completed. The United States government has a $20,000,000,000 stake in housing through ownership and mortgage guarantees and proposes in the future to build even more housing units. The exact amount which the federal government has spent on local housing projects is not known.

American housing is at an all time high and getting better every year, although this fact is somewhat obscured by population growth and migrations, as well as by artificial forces, such as income inflation and rent control.

All citizens are invited to attend the discussion.

FAMED SINGERS APPEARING HERE

Oak Ridge Quartet To Give American Legion Stadium Program

Wally Fowler and his famous Oak Ridge Quartet for several years one of the stars of the Grand Old Opera in Nashville, Tenn., will be one of the groups to be at the Legion Memorial Stadium Thurs - day night, June 5 in the Black - woods Brothers first monthly midnight song programs here. Wally Fowler began playing in the Grand Old Opera several years ago with a hillbilly band. After using several sacred and spiritual numbers with his band, Wally saw the demand for Gospel singing was growing in leaps and bounds and desired to organize a gospel quartet. Several of his boys came from a place called Oak Ridge in Georgia and so it was decided to name the quartet the Oak Ridge Quartet. The demand continued to grow for gospel and spiritual music and so in the fall of '47 Wally began his on-all-night singing program from the Rynman auditorium in Nashville, Tenn. the first Friday night each month.

These all night singings became so popular that large cities throughout the south and up the east coast began calling on Wally to begin these monthly singings in their towns. Wally being unable to take care of all the demands, started working with the other leading quartets helping place these singings throughout the south. The Blackwood Brothers being one of these groups, have been the group to head the midnight singing in Monroe each month.

The Blackwood Brothers are bringing to Monroe for this first monthly midnight singing the famous Statesmen's Quartet along with Wally Fowler and the Oak Ridge Quartet to make this one of the greatest singing spots in the south. These three quartets are working together through the month of June in nearly every large city in the south. Due to the fact that most of the large auditoriums in these cities do not have cooling facilities the groups have arranged their public address systems to give their audience the same quality performance in the large ball parks throughout the south and are working outside in ball parks through the summer months.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

"Everybody seems to love it, it's the talk of the town." If I may plagarize for a line or two from a certain song and apply it to "Kiss and Tell." Never, not ever, have I heard so much happy comment about a Little Theatre play. And that's as it should be.

Our esteemed critic, Lady Stahl, had a most glowing review of the theatrical affair earlier in the weeks, and then yesterday morning Jes Ramblin came up with a real terrific comment on it. Those are the published accounts. All over town it's the topic of conversation. "Have you seen "Kiss and Tell", "When are you going to see the play?" How can I get tickets to "Kiss and Tell"?

Little Theatre has a long list of outstanding comedies to its credit, but I cannot remember one which has received so much happy criticism and comment. The Playhouse has not played to an empty seat since the opening, which is the most gratifying experience to an amateur actor who has knocked his brains out for four long weeks in rehearsal for just this sort of reception. They deserve your attention.

And on it goes, through next Wednesday, which will be truly an unhappy night for the whole cast and crew of "K & T." Not only does it mark the end of the run, but it closes the season until next September.

And in answer to the many, many phone calls asking about a performance tonight, the answer is yes. There will be a Sunday night performance. And as I write this, there are still some seats available, so if you have not got your reservations in yet, come on out tonight. Just call the Playhouse at 3-4263 today between 2:00 and 7:00 p.m. and June Pilgrim will take care of you. Little Theatre members and non-members alike are invited to help us celebrate the end of the 20th anniversary season with a bang. The cast, the crew, the Board of Directors and Stocker Fontelieu, our director, want as many people from the Twin Cities and its environs as possible. Come on out. You'll be glad you did.

And don't forget, there will be a performance at the usual time tonight, 8:30. I'm going. Come on out.

William M. Smith of Baton Rouge has been added to the faculty of Northeast State, President Lewis C. Slater announced Saturday. He will begin his duties as director of teacher education at the opening of the summer school.

Smith, who has been associated with the college of education at Louisiana State University, comes to the local college with wide experience in the field of education.

As an assistant professor at the university, he has been closely identified with the laboratory school there.

Special positions which he has held include serving as consultant in numerous workshops in this country and aborad, U. S. specialist in teacher education to Germany, Austria and Switzerland, and lecturer at professional and lay meetings here and in foreign countries.

Smith will be a consultant in high and junior high school social studies during the Ouachita Parish Teacher work conference scheduled September 2-4, announced Mrs. S. Willis Williams, parish supervisor.

He has also contributed professional articles and teaching materials to periodicals, and is currently under contract with a publishing company to write a civics textbook.

The addition of Smith to the Northeast faculty is in connection with the expansion of the general program which included the addition of student teaching at the beginning of the past spring semester.

The addition of Smith to the Northeast faculty is in connection with the expansion of the general program which included the addition of student teaching at the beginning of the past spring semester.

CHICKEN — KILLERS

VANCOUVER, B. C. (UP)— Two vicious dogs were captured and killed by police when they returned to the scene of the crime—the chicken coop in which they had killed 155 birds a few days before. The marauders were a German shepherd dog and a sheep dog.

Editorials and Comment

Louisiana's Relief Rolls

Louisiana's legislature has been looking into the matter of the state's relief rolls and quite a good deal of hot argument has developed in both house and senate.

The senate approved, 15 to 13 a resolution hitting at leniency in welfare eligibility requirements and a house committee voted, 7 to 1, to open the multi-million-dollar welfare rolls to public inspection on Jan. 1, 1953. Both actions met with strenuous objections. The senate resolution was offered by Senator B. H. Rogers of Caddo and DeSoto parishes and the house bill introduced by Rep. Claude Kirkpatrick of Jefferson Davis parish.

Consideration of the state's relief rolls by the legislature is fully justified, regardless of what final action may be adopted. Some of the arguments made by those seeking more stringent regulations seem to be sound, while others may be faulty.

Our immediate impression is that the proposals made in the house measure, providing for public inspection of the relief rolls, is likely to do more good and is fairer than the suggestions made in the senate resolution, which actually has no legal effect.

Under the senate resolution, the author proposes to refuse relief to any one owning an automobile, unless that person can prove specifically that he has real need of a car. This provision seems objectionable for at least three reasons, namely that it would entail additional red tape, which might more than offset the small amount of money that might be saved; that, once a person's need has been established, it seems unreasonable and unjust to take away that person's rights to decide for himself what items he shall buy with the $50 a month that may be allotted to him; and that decision on whether there was sufficient need for the automobile could be based on political considerations.

As a matter of fact, it is difficult to say that anyone does not need an automobile. Most people own automobiles and think they need them, so who can say that anyone does not need a car? Of course, a person on relief may need something else worse than he needs a car, but who can say? He may need the car only for the purpose of going to church but going to church may be more important to him than a lot of material things which he appears to need more.

Also, if the state starts specifying what items a reliefer may buy, it might say he should eat cornbread instead of lightbread or that he should buy canned milk instead of fresh milk. No actual good can come of trying to let the state do all the thinking for the reliefer and this fact is realized and acknowledged by social welfare workers. The only actual accomplishment that would result from this system would be to impose humiliation upon the recipients, and those who would be most humiliated would be the ones in real need and not the ones trying to milk the state government.

On the other hand, opening the relief rolls to public inspection should serve a useful and money-saving purpose. Not many worthy and needy relief recipients have any strong objection to having the fact known that they draw the pension to which old and worthy persons are entitled. It is those who know they are drawing money to which they are not entitled who do not want the fact known.

We have stated frequently and we state again that there is nothing in the world that schemers and connivers dread as much as they dread laying all the facts before the people. Any number of official investigations will never reveal half as much crookedness as the public will perceive and reveal when all official actions are placed on public view.

Koje Still A Sore Spot

Eighth Army's board of inquiry has completed its investigation of the seizure and release of General Dodd, but this does not indicate that the Army's troubles on Koje Island are ended. Indeed, there is every likelihood that more incidents will take place, perhaps not of the kind in which Dodd was involved, but all calculated to cause this country embarrassment and to provide new propaganda for the Communists to use.

General Boatner, the new commandant of the prison camp, senses this possibility. It is almost certain, he says, that the 70,000 "neurotic hysterical prisoners" will be hard to handle and he can only "hope and pray" that he will be able to reestablish control without any bloodshed.

The fact that 10,000 unauthorized personnel on the island have been ordered evacuated indicates the uneasiness with which U. S. forces view the future.

In spite of enemy charges of brutality toward the prisoners, it is clear that the U. S. Army has erred on the side of leniency. Communist flags are still flying from the compounds—in direct violation of orders—and the prisoners, using tent poles instead of rifles, are holding military drill—also against orders.

General Boatner has an Army reputation for toughness. To restore something resembling tranquility on the island he will apparently need all the resolution he can muster and he will find good use for the 3,000 hardened paratroopers who have just been added to the forces in his command.

Communists are of a kidney, whether they are boring from within in the continental United States, facing American troops at the front, or are incarcerated behind barbed wire. It is surprising that the Far East command had to learn this fact the hard way.

Fear In Washington

There is a curious situation in Washington. Some of the bureaus are under fire as unnecessary, or as over-extended, and many in these bureaus are looking for jobs in other bureaus that seem to offer a more secure future.

There are at present 2,550,000 persons on the government payroll in a civilian status—300,000 more than a year ago. It is estimated that there will be an additional increase of 200,000 by the end of 1952.

Let a spirit of insecurity get started among an important part of a crowd of that size and the milling about for security can develop into a sight to behold. If there is danger Congress is about to eliminate a bureau or whittle down its appropriation, an affected worker just naturally starts looking around. Workers in private industry have a similar sinking feeling when they see the business to which they are attached withering.

This situation is noted in other fields, notably in the output of some of the newspaper columnists who have been fawning over the new and fair deals but lately are slightly less blessed. They are haunted by the fear that the "deals" will fall apart next November and don't want to be tagged by the incoming administration as slavish adherents of the [illegible] government.

Their fears may be groundless. Perhaps the voters next November, as the result of some incomprehensible quirk, will affirm everything that has happened in Washington and order continuation of the present course. There is a [illegible] that, in the words of the greatest "dealer" prophet of them all, the government payrollers have nothing to fear but fear itself.

[illegible] jet fighters burn as much fuel per hour as an [illegible] World War II fighter squadron. They do if the [illegible] is rationed for them, that is.

BASCOM TIMMONS
In Washington

All of this talk about Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois being offered the Democratic presidential nomination on a silver platter may turn out to be slightly exaggerated.

Careful inquiry begets information that contradicts the impression given by Truman Democrats that the Illinois governor can walk off with the nomination, if he will consent to be drafted.

Authentic sources in the middle west say that it just is not so — and some of them are the governor's friends.

The governor's build up, it should be noted, is chiefly out of Washington, and from sources close to that administration. So far, there has been no great wave of enthusiasm for him in his own state, where he is a third generation political leader. Illinois seems to accept his present decision to run for reelection in order to finish the difficult job he has worked on for the past four years.

Since many important Democrats in Washington have achieved their present status by riding President Truman's coattails, and have no experience in running for office, it is understandable that they should be swept away by the president's preference for Governor Stevenson, — provided that he cannot put over his first choice, W. Averell Harriman, who has not been running very fast up to this time.

In the states surrounding Illinois —Wisconsin, Iowa, Indiana, Missouri and Michigan — there has been no enthusiasm of measurable proportions for Governor Stevenson, despite the trumpeting out of Washington that he can have the nomination just by raising his finger. That was true before he announced that he would be a candidate only for reelection as governor. Now it is even more evident, for the nod in that extensive dent, for the nod in that extensive and politically powerful territory seems to go to Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee. He has the support of Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois, who will have a strong voice among the 60 delegates from that state.

The most probable reason cited for lack of enthusiasm about Stevenson in states adjoining his own is that his painstaking efforts to reform Illinois state government have not been rewarded with complete success. As he says himself, another four years will be required to accomplish the reforms he has in mind.

Meanwhile, the gross corruption which is Chicago's trademark has continued, though no one believes that the governor has winked at it. On the contrary, he has hit hard to clean up such scandals as the 13 million collar counterfeiting of state cigarette stamps, and the sales of horsemeat for beef, engineered by the old Capone "syndicate". But his own appointees were involved in those scandals, and the disclosures were the result of local rather than state investigations.

The people of Illinois seem to understand the governor's difficulties and the way he has met them. But other states apparently do not grasp the situation as does Illinois. Their impression is that so long as Illinois has corruption, it is the governor's responsibility to clean it up, and they do not have full information as to how much he has accomplished.

On the other hand, they know that some of the most amazing sisoldcu xxvbz zbg&&g k?k?q%q% disclosures by the Kefauver crime investigating committee were in Cook county (Chicago) and that sticks in their minds. It probably accounts for the Tennessee senator's reported popularity in the neighboring state of Indiana, which is almost as tributary to Chicago as is Illinois.

In Illinois, Senator Kefauver's chief foe is former Sen. Scott Lucas, once majority leader of the United States senate, now a Washington lawyer and a registered lobbyist, who still thinks he could have been reelected in 1950 if it had not been for the disclosure of the Kefauver committee in Cook county.

The Illinois delegation will go to the Democratic convention without instruction, though Senator Kefauver received the preferential primary vote in that state.

The Truman Democrats have still cling to the belief that as a last resort, Governor Stevenson may be prevailed upon to accept the nomination. They say that if Harriman cannot be nominated, Stevenson will accept the designation to save the party from defeat. But from the grass roots of the middle west comes word that local Democratic leaders do not consider him a particularly strong candidate, and that either Senator Taft or General Eisenhower would "take" him in that section.

PLOW 'LORD'S ACRES'

PARADISE, Ill. (AP)—In this southern Illinois community called Paradise there's a project known as the "Lord's Acres."

The Paradise Baptist Church members this spring manned 20 tractors and in about two hours plowed, smoothed and fertilized 40 acres for corn planting. All was given freely. Corn profits in the fall go for the church and parsonage.

Louisiana—Its Community Life

By Ethel McIntyre

THE EGRET

At one time the egret in Louisiana was near extinction, owing to the fact that it's plumage was in demand for feminine ornamentation. Hunters stalked the marshes in their search of the birds, whose plumes could be sold for a dollar each. With each adult bird sprouting twenty plumes on each shoulder at mating time the forty dollar birds provided a worthwhile income for hunters.

The egret is a non-game migratory bird and today if a hunter is caught even looking like he wanted to shoot one, he is likely to get in trouble with the federal game agents.

Fifty years ago Mr. McIlhenny, the famed bird lover of Avery's Island who gave the nation its first bird sanctuary, is credited with the preservation of this particular species. In his desire to preserve the bird life of Louisiana, he trapped eight egrets in cages, on Avery's Island, fed and cared for them during the summer, then released them when cool weather came and it was time for them to wing their way south, across the Gulf of Mexico to a warmer climate. Each year the herons returned and brought more birds with them. Today they can be seen, wading in the streams, by the side of highways, feeding on tadpoles and crawfish.

Reading the history of the habitat of these birds, we are told that they seldom build their nests in northeast Louisiana. However, this is not always true. At McCrea Lake on the Williamson farm, located on the west side of Beouf River, seven miles south of the Winnsboro-Monroe highway, in Richland parish, is a natural rookery for egrets. Each spring they can be seen winging their way to the row of trees and bushes bordering the lake. This year the more venturesome came in March. They fly at different levels, singly or by groups of twelve or more. Observers, watching the birds, in their journey north, realize that each bird knows exactly where he is headed. Tourists, glancing in the direction of the lake, while driving along the near-by highway, late in the afternoon, have the impression that the water is surrounded by some tropical plant, bearing huge white flowers. Among the colony of white egrets seen on Mr. Williamson's farm are a number of blue heron. They build their nests in the bushes near the waters edge, where they lay four greenish blue eggs, which take about eighteen days to hatch. During the day the birds visit other waterways in the district in search of food. Just before dusk they can be seen returning to the willows by the side of McCrea lake. As darkness closes in around them, their weird cries can be heard from a distrance, as they settle in the trees for the night. Mr. Williamson and his family watch for the coming of the egrets each spring and no hunter is allowed to molest them during their stay at the farm.

When the crisp, cool air of the fall nights, warn of coming frosts, they leave on their long flight back across the Gulf of Mexico. They take off in much the same fashion as they came: two or three at a time or in groups, in a formation similar to that of ducks and geese.

The re-establishment of the almost extinct egret, proves that conservation of Louisiana wild life does pay off.

What Others Say:

EDITORS' ROUNDTABLE

IMMIGRATION POLICY

The similar immigration bills passed by House and Senate are disapproved by a large majority of editors. Principal objections are that retention of our 1920 quota system continues, in effect, racial discriminations ended in principle, and that provisions for security screening of aliens are unnecessarily harsh and arbitrary. The bills are approved by a considerable minority of editors, who argue that the people favor no general changes in our immigration policies, and that caution is the best policy today in security screening of immigrants.

Kansas City (Mo.) Star (Ind.): "The new immigration bill now almost through Congress is not a perfect act of legislation but in various respects it is an advance over the hodgepodge of laws the country has today. Without substantial change it has passed the Senate with a voice vote after its approval by a heavy majority in the House. . . . It could hardly be expected that all the groups concerned would be satisfied with any action that could be taken. But the nation's well-being is the top consideration and the support accorded the present bill in Congress would indicate that . . . principle had been taken into account."

Washington (D. C.) Post (Ind.): "The immigration bill which Senate and House conferees will finally produce by blending the Senate's McCarran bill with the slightly less offensive Walter bill passed by the House will be a sorry testimonial to the four years of thought and effort that have gone into it. . . . The result of this major effort is a law designed to keep foreigners out of the United States instead of a law to select and welcome the best among those seeking to come here — in proportion to this country's ability to receive them."

Dallas (Texas) Morning News (Ind.-Dem.): "The McCarran-Walter bill . . . lifts most of the immigration bans based on race and sex. But it retains the quota principle and will not let in many more immigrants than enter now. It tightens security screening and gives preference to those applicants whose skills are needed here. . . . Primarily an effort to codify and modernize old rules, the new measure will not open the flood gates or make much change in our immigration policy. In that, it carries out the will of the people. There is no need for any general lifting of immigration bars."

St. Louis (Mo.) Post - Dispatch (Ind. - Dem.): "The McCarran bill ends race barriers for aliens in principle but continues them in effect. It discriminates against Southern Europeans, Africans and Asians in favor of northern Europeans who have not always used their immigration quotas. Yet it forbids pooling of unused quotas and even bases all quotas on our population of 30 years ago. And it provides new and arbitrary methods for deporting aliens. . . . In debate, the bill's sponsors made it plain they thought some peoples were better than other peoples and Americans were better than anybody."

Wichita (Kans.) Eagle (Ind.): "On the whole it seems like a sensible bill but the so-called liberals are lifting their voices in anguish. They propose to let 300,000 additional in right away and lower the bars to people who might strain America's melting pot to the limit. America wants to take in all the aliens it can handle, making sure they do not enter to overturn our institutions and way of life. The

REUSS DELVES IN GRASS ROOT FOR VOTES TO BEAT MCCARTy

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON —(NEA)— Henry Reuss of Milwaukee—candidate for Wisconsin Sen. Joe McCarthy's seat in the November election—was in Washington recently, attending the Americans for Democratic Action meeting.

Reuss is 40, McCarthy is 42, so this political scramble in which there is more national interest than any senatorial contest in the country is strictly a young man's affair.

Reuss is a tall, broad-shouldered, type of guy. He wears the horn-rimmed glasses typical of the college man which he obviously is—a graduate of Cornell and Harvard law.

In World War II he enlisted as a private and rose to the rank of major, winning the Bronze Star for gallantry at the Rhine crossing. Later he was in military government in Germany on General Eisenhower's staff.

After the war Reuss served as Milwaukee County's assistant corporation counsel and ran a grand jury investigation of corruption and graft. He lost an election for state attorney general and then became assistant general counsel for the Marshall Plan in Paris.

He is married to a good-looking gal and they have four fine children. His family is of German origin and well to do. Obviously intelligent and clean-cut with a lot of savvy, Reuss's greatest handicap may be that he is too nice a fellow to get mixed up in a political brawl.

He Has Appeared In All Wisconsin Counties

In spite of this, Henry Reuss has been campaigning actively for six months, working full time at it. He has already been in every Wisconsin county at least once, most of them more than once.

Where he finds that people never heard of him before, he goes back and concentrates. Speaking fluent German, Reuss is able to talk to some of the older settlers in the rural areas in their native tongue.

This is more or less the type of grass roots campaign that McCarthy waged to beat young Bob La Follette for senator in 1946. He went all over the state, meeting people and jotting down their names in a book. Next day he'd send them post cards, telling how nice it had been to meet them and signing it "Joe."

Just before the election, all these people get another post card from Joe, asking them to vote for him. He beat LaFollette in the primary 207,000 to 202,000 and went on to victory in November, 620,000 to 378,000.

That's a tough margin to overcome, but Henry Reuss cites figures to show that since the end of the old LaFollette Progressive Party, the trend in Wisconsin has been generally Democratic. Only 7 per cent of the voters there cast straight party tickets. Reuss is counting on not only Democratic votes, but also Progressive support, Eisenhower support and even some Taft-following support.

His evidence of this is a series of newspaper ads which have been appearing in Wisconsin dailies, endorsing the Reuss candidacy.

150 Leading Citizens Signed One Advertisement

A typical ad in the Eau Claire Telegram was signed by 150 leading citizens. It included names of the president of State College and 20 of his faculty, three Protestant ministers, a Jew and a Catholic priest.

Ever since Senator McCarthy advocated an advertising boycott of publications critical of his activities, Reuss says he has been getting a more friendly press.

Reuss has pulled the old political trick of challenging his opponent to come out and debate him. So far Senator McCarthy hasn't accepted. But John Chapple of Ashland—an original MacArthur backer who has now swung around to supporting Taft, with MacArthur for vice president—debated Reuss at an overflow meeting in the American Legion hall at McCarthy's home town of Appleton.

Reuss says he is devoting less and less time in the campaign to the issue of McCarthyism and he isn't trying to outdo the senator in invective. Instead, Reuss says he is talking a lot about inflation, farm policy, defense, Germany and other foreign issues which McCarthy doesn't bother with.

Also, Reuss says he is pointing out Senator McCarthy's voting record on such issues as the Kerr natural ga bill, the tidelands oil bill, crop storage expansion and soil conservation.

Reuss says that Senator McCarthy hasn't been coming home as much as he used to early in his term. And he hasn't been paying attention to his mail. Those were mistakes that Senator LaFollette made. Reuss also asks pointedly what Senator McCarthy has done for Wisconsin since he came to Washington.

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

PAUL HOFFMAN SPEAKS

Paul Hoffman, former director of ECA, president of the Ford Foundation, and one of General Eisenhower's managers, has written a book with the object of telling Americans how to win the peace. Hoffman is supposed to be an idea man and he is very influential.

In this book, "Peace Can Be Won," he sets out to reduce American productivity to a basis that would make our industries non-competitive in this country with imports from Europe. He writes: ". . .. as the leader of the free world, the United States must revise its attitude toward foreign trade. The great 'giver of peace,' Great Britain, in the nineteenth century advanced international stability and amity by means of a world trade that benefited everybody. The United States must build to the same end. For a century we have hidden behind our tariff walls, protecting our 'infant industries,' bulwarked by the self-sufficiency of our immense resources. We have sold to the world but have been reluctant to buy from it, and world trade has been thrown badly out of balance . . ."

That is enough of a long quotation to make the point. Great Britain, of course, was not the "giver of peace," but an imperialist power whose authority spread over all the earth. British economy was based on the import of raw materials from distant colonies and other areas, for manufacture in England and Scotland. Subsequently, the manufactured goods were shipped back to the colonies and other areas and a profit was made on every phase of the transaction, including shipping, insurance and exchange.

For part of this imperialist period, Great Britain opposed local manufactures which is one reason why she lost the American colonies. After the rise of the United States, Germany and Japan to industrial strength, the British fought a losing battle to keep them out of the international market. In time she gave up free trade, imposed Imperial Preference, which was aimed principally at the United States, established cartels, particularly in raw materials, some of which, such as rubber and cocoa, operated to the detriment of the American manufacturer. "Imperial Preference" still obtains.

The United States has never been engaged in widespread economic imperialism and therefore its problems, its motivations and its tariffs have been different from those of Great Britain. We imported, for a large part of our 300 year history, population, capital and machinery and exported foodstuffs and raw materials. Our task was to reduce the import of capital and machinery; we accomplished the latter through the tariff, the former by our superior productivity and by the re-investment of profits in industry.

Hoffman justifies free trade on the basis that we have already, willy-nilly, become an international WPA. Why did we become an international WPA? Was it economic necessity or screwy politics? Were we forced into such a situation by an unrealistic One World concept which has brought us permanent war? This is what Paul Hoffman says:

". . . Under such circumstances other nations could not afford to continue buying from us unless we gave them money. And that is, of course, exactly what we have had to do through a dozen loan and grant schemes, starting from after World War I right down to our present ECA. American aid to Western Europe during the last thirty-five years has amounted to some $22 billion exclusive of direct war outlays. This was—apart from genuine philanthropic motives—a way of subsidizing our exports, for practically all the American money that went abroad never stayed there; it always returned to buy American goods."

Money did not return to buy American goods. That is an economist's fiction. We mostly exported the equivalent in goods. We gave away, for free, our natural resources. We set up the steam shovels and ripped out our iron ore and our copper and lead and zinc and gave them away in the form of manufactured goods—in some cases, as in Soviet Russia, eventually to be used against us in war.

And more than that, we are now in peril of becoming a dependent nation for our principal raw materials. We are already importing iron ore from South American countries and soon from Labrador and we are becoming a dependent nation with regard to copper. We shall give and give and give, unless we have nothing left. Then who will come to our aid? Name the country!

Louisiana's Relief Rolls

Louisiana's legislature has been looking into the matter of the state's relief rolls and quite a good deal of hot argument has developed in both house and senate.

The senate approved, 15 to 13 a resolution hitting at leniency in welfare eligibility requirements and a house committee voted, 7 to 1, to open the multi-million-dollar welfare rolls to public inspection on Jan. 1, 1953. Both actions met with strenuous objections. The senate resolution was offered by Senator B. H. Rogers of Caddo and DeSoto parishes and the house bill introduced by Rep. Claude Kirkpatrick of Jefferson Davis parish.

Consideration of the state's relief rolls by the legislature is fully justified, regardless of what final action may be adopted. Some of the arguments made by those seeking more stringent regulations seem to be sound, while others may be faulty.

Our immediate impression is that the proposals made in the house measure, providing for public inspection of the relief rolls, is likely to do more good and is fairer than the suggestions made in the senate resolution, which actually has no legal effect.

Under the senate resolution, the author proposes to refuse relief to any one owning an automobile, unless that person can prove specifically that he has real need of a car. This provision seems objectionable for at least three reasons, namely that it would entail additional red tape, which might more than offset the small amount of money that might be saved; that, once a person's need has been established, it seems unreasonable and unjust to take away that person's rights to decide for himself what items he shall buy with the $50 a month that may be allotted to him; and that decision on whether there was sufficient need for the automobile could be based on political considerations.

As a matter of fact, it is difficult to say that anyone does not need an automobile. Most people own automobiles and think they need them, so who can say that anyone does not need a car? Of course, a person on relief may need something else worse than he needs a car, but who can say? He may need the car only for the purpose of going to church but going to church may be more important to him than a lot of material things which he appears to need more.

Also, if the state starts specifying what items a reliefer may buy, it might say he should eat cornbread instead of lightbread or that he should buy canned milk instead of fresh milk. No actual good can come of trying to let the state do all the thinking for the reliefer and this fact is realized and acknowledged by social welfare workers. The only actual accomplishment that would result from this system would be to impose humiliation upon the recipients, and those who would be most humiliated would be the ones in real need and not the ones trying to milk the state government.

On the other hand, opening the relief rolls to public inspection should serve a useful and money-saving purpose. Not many worthy and needy relief recipients have any strong objection to having the fact known that they draw the pension to which old and worthy persons are entitled. It is those who know they are drawing money to which they are not entitled who do not want the fact known.

We have stated frequently and we state again that there is nothing in the world that schemers and connivers dread as much as they dread laying all the facts before the people. Any number of official investigations will never reveal half as much crookedness as the public will perceive and reveal when all official actions are placed on public view.

Koje Still A Sore Spot

Eighth Army's board of inquiry has completed its investigation of the seizure and release of General Dodd, but this does not indicate that the Army's troubles on Koje Island are ended. Indeed, there is every likelihood that more incidents will take place, perhaps not of the kind in which Dodd was involved, but all calculated to cause this country embarrassment and to provide new propaganda for the Communists to use.

General Boatner, the new commandant of the prison camp, senses this possibility. It is almost certain, he says, that the 70,000 "neurotic hysterical prisoners" will be hard to handle and he can only "hope and pray" that he will be able to reestablish control without any bloodshed.

The fact that 10,000 unauthorized personnel on the island have been ordered evacuated indicates the uneasiness with which U. S. forces view the future.

In spite of enemy charges of brutality toward the prisoners, it is clear that the U. S. Army has erred on the side of leniency. Communist flags are still flying from the compounds—in direct violation of orders—and the prisoners, using tent poles instead of rifles, are holding military drill—also against orders.

General Boatner has an Army reputation for toughness. To restore something resembling tranquility on the island he will apparently need all the resolution he can muster and he will find good use for the 3,000 hardened paratroopers who have just been added to the forces in his command.

Communists are of a kidney, whether they are boring from within in the continental United States, facing American troops at the front, or are incarcerated behind barbed wire. It is surprising that the Far East command had to learn this fact the hard way.

Fear In Washington

There is a curious situation in Washington. Some of the bureaus are under fire as unnecessary, or as over-extended, and many in these bureaus are looking for jobs in other bureaus that seem to offer a more secure future.

There are at present 2,550,000 persons on the government payroll in a civilian status—300,000 more than a year ago. It is estimated that there will be an additional increase of 200,000 by the end of 1952.

Let a spirit of insecurity get started among an important part of a crowd of that size and the milling about for security can develop into a sight to behold. If there is danger Congress is about to eliminate a bureau or whittle down its appropriation, an affected worker just naturally starts looking around. Workers in private industry have a similar sinking feeling when they see the business to which they are attached withering.

This situation is noted in other fields, notably in the output of some of the newspaper columnists who have been fawning over the new and fair deals but lately are slightly less biased. They are haunted by the fear that the "deals" will fall apart next November and don't want to be tagged by the incoming administration as slavish adherents of the outgoing government.

Their fears may be groundless. Perhaps the voters next November, as the result of some incomprehensible quirk, will affirm everything that has happened in Washington and order continuation of the present course. There is a possibility that, in the words of the greatest "dealer" prophet of them all, the government payrollers have nothing to fear but fear itself.

Two jet fighters burn as much fuel per hour as an entire World War II fighter squadron. They do if the gasoline is refined for them, that is.

When their last hope, the Truman draft, fails at Chicago, the President's official family will be a drug on the labor market. They'll be looking for sinecures Vaughan by Vaughan.

BASCOM TIMMONS In Washington

All of this talk about Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois being offered the Democratic presidential nomination on a silver platter may turn out to be slightly exaggerated.

Careful inquiry begets information that contradicts the impression given by Truman Democrats that the Illinois governor can walk off with the nomination, if he will consent to be drafted.

Authentic sources in the middle west say that it just is not so — and some of them are the governor's friends.

The governor's build up, it should be noted, is chiefly out of Washington, and from sources close to that administration. So far, there has been no great wave of enthusiasm for him in his own state, where he is a third generation political leader. Illinois seems to accept his present decision to run for reelection in order to finish the difficult job he has worked on for the past four years.

Since many important Democrats in Washington have achieved their present status by riding President Truman's coattails, and have no experience in running for office, it is understandable that they should be swept away by the president's preference for Governor Stevenson, — provided that he cannot put over his first choice, W. Averell Harriman, who has not been running very fast up to this time.

In the states surrounding Illinois —Wisconsin, Iowa, Indiana, Missouri and Michigan — there has been no enthusiasm of measurable proportions for Governor Stevenson, despite the trumpeting out of Washington that he can have the nomination just by raising his finger. That was true before he announced that he would be a candidate only for reelection as governor. Now it is even more evident, for the nod in that extensive dent, for the nod in that extensive and politically powerful territory seems to go to Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee. He has the support of Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois, who will have a strong voice among the 60 delegates from that state.

The most probable reason cited for lack of enthusiasm about Stevenson in states adjoining his own is that his painstaking efforts to reform Illinois state government have not been rewarded with complete success. As he says himself, another four years will be required to accomplish the reforms he has in mind.

Meanwhile, the gross corruption which is Chicago's trademark has continued, though no one believes that the governor has winked at it. On the contrary, he has hit hard to clean up such scandals as the 13 million collar counterfeiting of state cigarette stamps, and the sales of horsemeat for beef, engineered by the old Capone "syndicate". But his own appointees were involved in those scandals, and the disclosures were the result of local rather than state investigations.

The people of Illinois seem to understand the governor's difficulties and the way he has met them. But other states apparently do not grasp the situation as does Illinois. Their impression is that so long as Illinois has corruption, it is the governor's responsibility to clean it up, and they do not have full information as to how much he has accomplished.

On the other hand, they know that some of the most amazing sisoldcu xxvbz zbg&&g k?k?q⅝q⅝ disclosures by the Kefauver crime investigating committee were in Cook county (Chicago) and that sticks in their minds. It probably accounts for the Tennessee senator's reported popularity in the neighboring state of Indiana, which is almost as tributary to Chicago as is Illinois.

In Illinois, Senator Kefauver's chief foe is former Sen. Scott Lucas, once majority leader of the United States senate, now a Washington lawyer and a registered lobbyist, who still thinks he could have been reelected in 1950 if it had not been for the disclosure of the Kefauver committee in Cook county.

The Illinois delegation will go to the Democratic convention without instruction, though Senator Kefauver received the preferential primary vote in that state.

The Truman Democrats have still cling to the belief that as a last resort, Governor Stevenson may be prevailed upon to accept the nomination. They say that if Harriman cannot be nominated, Stevenson will accept the designation to save the party from defeat. But from the grass roots of the middle west comes word that local Democratic leaders do not consider him a particularly strong candidate, and that either Senator Taft or General Eisenhower would "take" him in that section.

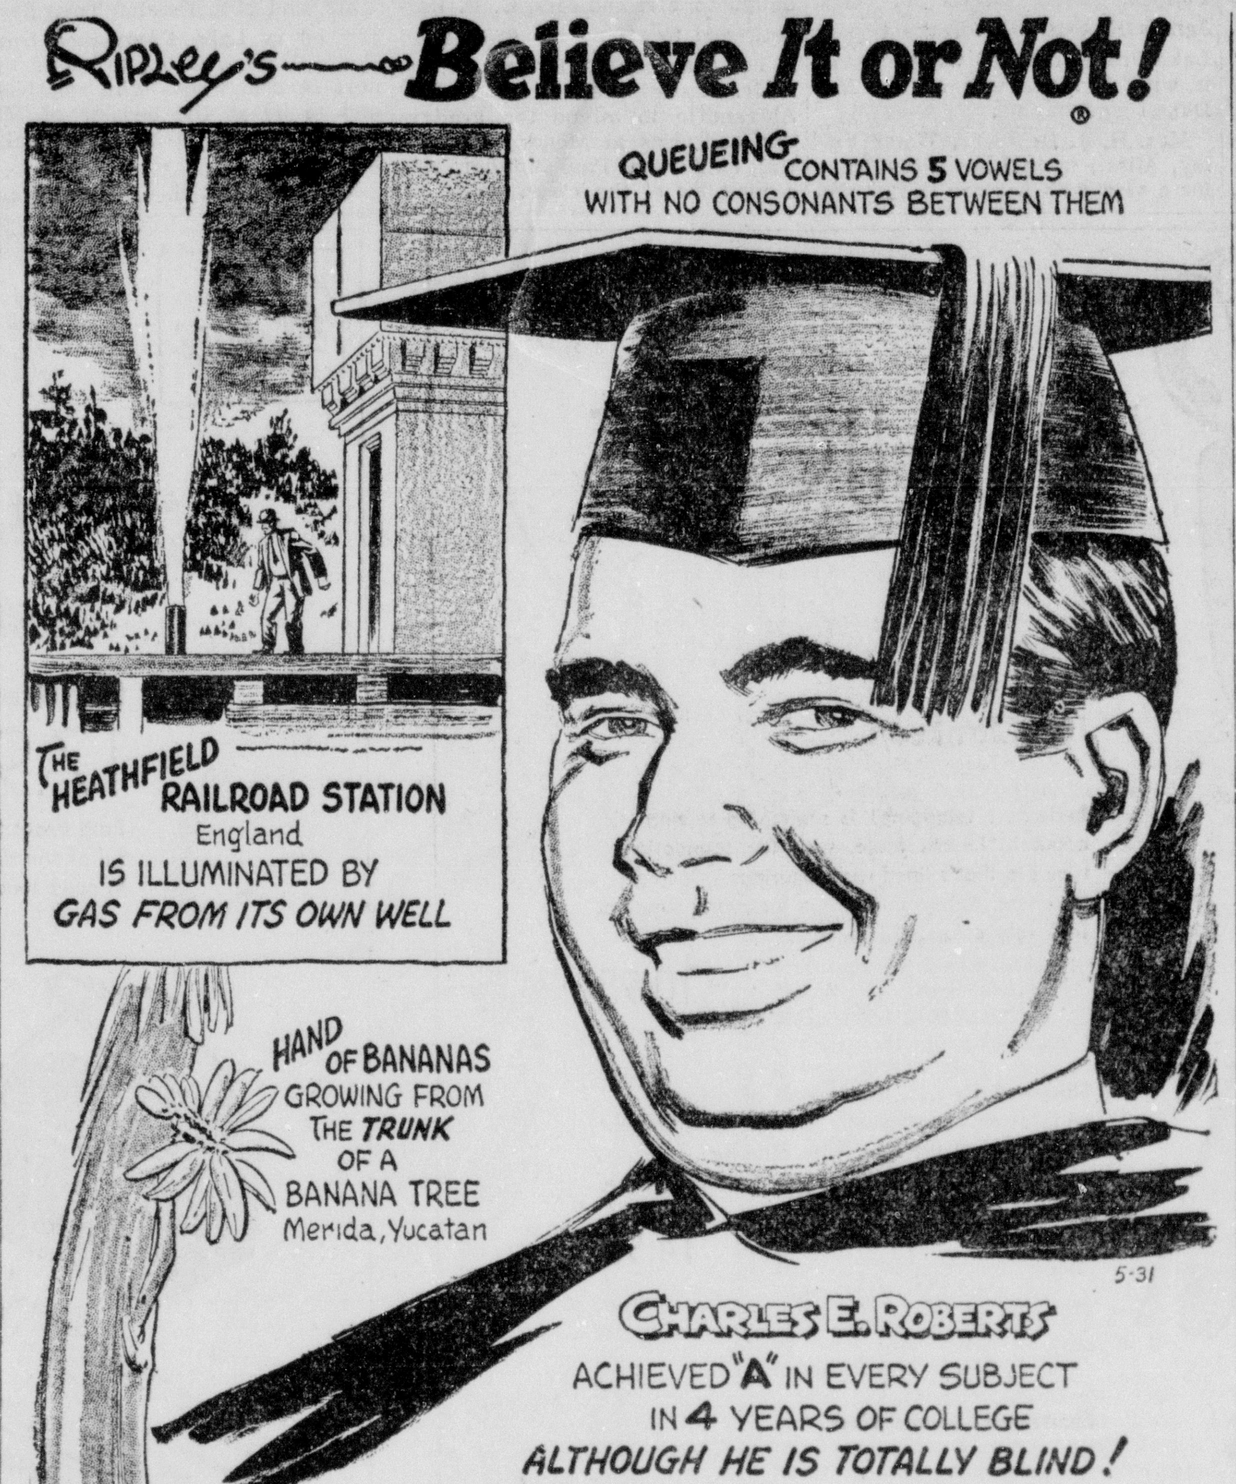
PARADISE, Ill. (AP)—In this southern Illinois community called Paradise there's a project known as the "Lord's Acres."

The Paradise Baptist Church members this spring manned 20 tractors and in about two hours plowed, smoothed and fertilized 40 acres for corn planting. All was given freely. Corn profits in the fall go for the church and parsonage.



Louisiana---Its Community Life

THE EGRET

At one time the egret in Louisiana was near extinction, owing to the fact that it's plumage was in demand for feminine ornamentation. Hunters stalked the marshes in their search of the birds, whose plumes could be sold for a dollar each. With each adult bird sprouting twenty plumes on each shoulder at mating time the forty dollar birds provided a worthwhile income for hunters.

The egret is a non-game migratory bird and today if a hunter is caught even looking like he wanted to shoot one, he is likely to get in trouble with the federal game agents.

Fifty years ago Mr. McIlhenny, the famed bird lover of Avery's Island who gave the nation its first bird sanctuary, is credited with the preservation of this particular species. In his desire to preserve the bird life of Louisiana, he trapped eight egrets in cages, on Avery's Island, fed and cared for them during the summer, then released them when cool weather came and it was time for them to wing their way south, across the Gulf of Mexico to a warmer climate. Each year the herons returned and brought more birds with them. Today they can be seen, wading in the streams, by the side of highways, feeding on tadpoles and crawfish.

Reading the history of the habitat of these birds, we are told that they seldom build their nests in northeast Louisiana. However, this is not always true. At McCrea Lake on the Williamson farm, located on the west side of Beouf River, seven miles south of the Winnsboro-Monroe highway, in Richland parish, is a natural rookery for egrets. Each spring they can be seen winging their way to the row of trees and bushes bordering the lake. This year the more venturesome came in March. They fly at different levels, singly or by groups of twelve or more. Observers, watching the birds, in their journey north, realize that each bird knows exactly where he is headed. Tourists, glancing in the direction of the lake, while driving along the near-by highway, late in the afternoon, have the impression that the water is surrounded by some tropical plant, bearing huge white flowers. Among the colony of white egrets seen on Mr. Williamson's farm are a number of blue heron. They build their nests in the bushes near the waters edge, where they lay four greenish blue eggs, which take about eighteen days to hatch. During the day the birds visit other waterways in the district in search of food. Just before dusk they can be seen returning to the willows by the side of McCrea lake. As darkness closes in around them, their weird cries can be heard from a distrance, as they settle in the trees for the night. Mr. Williamson and his family watch for the coming of the egrets each spring and no hunter is allowed to molest them during their stay at the farm.

When the crisp, cool air of the fall nights, warn of coming frosts, they leave on their long flight back across the Gulf of Mexico. They take off in much the same fashion as they came; two or three at a time or in groups, in a formation similar to that of ducks and geese.

The re-establishment of the almost extinct egret, proves that conservation of Louisiana wild life does pay off.

What Others Say: EDITORS' ROUNDTABLE

IMMIGRATION POLICY

The similar immigration bills passed by House and Senate are disapproved by a large majority of editors. Principal objections are that retention of our 1920 quota system continues, in effect, racial discriminations ended in principle, and that provisions for security screening of aliens are unnecessarily harsh and arbitrary. The bills are approved by a considerable minority of editors, who argue that the people favor no general changes in our immigration policies, and that caution is the best policy today in security screening of immigrants.

Kansas City (Mo.) Star (Ind.): "The new immigration bill now almost through Congress is not a perfect act of legislation but in various respects it is an advance over the hodgepodge of laws the country has today. Without substantial change it has passed the Senate with a voice vote after its approval by a heavy majority in the House. . . . It could hardly be expected that all the groups concerned would be satisfied with any action that could be taken. But the nation's well-being is the top consideration and the support accorded the present bill in Congress would indicate that . . . principle had been taken into account."

Washington (D. C.) Post (Ind.): "The immigration bill which Senate and House conferees will finally produce by blending the Senate's McCarran bill with the slightly less offensive Walter bill passed by the House will be a sorry testimonial to the four years of thought and effort that have gone into it. . . . The result of this major effort is a law designed to keep foreigners out of the United States instead of a law to select and welcome the best among those seeking to come here — in proportion to this country's ability to receive them."

Dallas (Texas) Morning News (Ind.-Dem.): "The McCarran-Walter bill . . . lifts most of the immigration bans based on race and sex. But it retains the quota principle and will not let in many more immigrants than enter now. It tightens security screening and gives preference to those applicants whose skills are needed here. . . . Primarily an effort to codify and modernize old rules, the new measure will not open the flood gates or make much change in our immigration policy. In that, it carries out the will of the people. There is no need for any general lifting of immigration bars."

St. Louis (Mo.) Post - Dispatch (Ind. - Dem.): "The McCarran bill ends race barriers for aliens in principle but continues them in effect. It discriminates against Southern Europeans, Africans and Asians in favor of northern Europeans who have not always used their immigration quotas. Yet it forbids pooling of unused quotas and even bases all quotas on our population of 30 years ago. And it provides new and arbitrary methods for deporting aliens. . . . In debate, the bill's sponsors made it plain they thought some peoples were better than other peoples and Americans were better than anybody."

Wichita (Kans.) Eagle (Ind.): "On the whole it seems like a sensible bill but the so-called liberals are lifting their voices in anguish. They propose to let 300,000 additional in right away and lower the bars to people who might strain America's melting pot to the limit. America wants to take in all the aliens it can handle, making sure they do not enter to overturn our institutions and way of life. The

He is married to a good-looking gal and they have four fine children. His family is of German origin and well to do. Obviously intelligent and clean-cut with a lot of savvy, Reuss's greatest handicap may be that he is too nice a fellow to get mixed up in a political brawl.

He Has Appeared In All Wisconsin Counties

In spite of this, Henry Reuss has been campaigning actively for six months, working full time at it. He has already been in every Wisconsin county at least once, most of them more than once.

Where he finds that people never heard of him before, he goes back and concentrates. Speaking fluent German, Reuss is able to talk to some of the older settlers in the rural areas in their native tongue.

This is more or less the type of grass roots campaign that McCarthy waged to beat young Bob La Follette for senator in 1946. He went all over the state, meeting people and jotting down their names in a book. Next day he'd send them post cards, telling how nice it had been to meet them and signing it "Joe."

Just before the election, all these people get another post card from Joe, asking them to vote for him. He beat LaFollette in the primary 207,000 to 202,000 and went on to victory in November, 620,000 to 378,000.

That's a tough margin to overcome, but Henry Reuss cites figures to show that since the end of the old LaFollette Progressive Party, the trend in Wisconsin has been generally Democratic. Only 7 per cent of the voters there cast straight party tickets. Reuss is counting on not only Democratic votes, but also Progressive support, Eisenhower support and even some Taft-following support.

His evidence of this is a series of newspaper ads which have been appearing in Wisconsin dailies, endorsing the Reuss candidacy.

150 Leading Citizens Signed One Advertisement

A typical ad in the Eau Claire Telegram was signed by 150 leading citizens. It included names of the president of State College and 20 of his faculty, three Protestant ministers, a Jew and a Catholic priest.

Ever since Senator McCarthy advocated an advertising boycott of publications critical of his activities, Reuss says he has been getting a more friendly press.

Reuss has pulled the old political trick of challenging his opponent to come out and debate him. So far Senator McCarthy hasn't accepted. But John Chapple of Ashland—an original MacArthur backer who has now swung around to supporting Taft, with MacArthur for vice president—debated Reuss at an overflow meeting in the American Legion hall at McCarthy's home town of Appleton.

Reuss says he is devoting less and less time in the campaign to the issue of McCarthyism and he isn't trying to outdo the senator in invective. Instead, Reuss says he is talking a lot about inflation, farm policy, defense, Germany and other foreign issues which McCarthy doesn't bother with.

Also, Reuss says he is pointing out Senator McCarthy's voting record on such issues as the Kerr natural ga bill, the tidelands oil bill, crop storage expansion and soil conservation.

Reuss says that Senator McCarthy hasn't been coming home as much as he used to early in his term. And he hasn't been paying attention to his mail. Those were mistakes that Senator LaFollette made. Reuss also asks pointedly what Senator McCarthy has done for Wisconsin since he came to Washington.

George E. Sokolsky: THESE DAYS

PAUL HOFFMAN SPEAKS

Paul Hoffman, former director of ECA, president of the Ford Foundation, and one of General Eisenhower's managers, has written a book with the object of telling Americans how to win the peace. Hoffman is supposed to be an idea man and he is very influential.

In this book, "Peace Can Be Won," he sets out to reduce American productivity to a basis that would make our industries noncompetitive in this country with imports from Europe. He writes:

". . .. as the leader of the free world, the United States must revise its attitude toward foreign trade. The great 'giver of peace,' Great Britain, in the nineteenth century advanced international stability and amity by means of a world trade that benefited everybody. The United States must build to the same end. For a century we have hidden behind our tariff walls, protecting our 'infant industries,' bulwarked by the self-sufficiency of our immense resources. We have sold to the world but have been reluctant to buy from it, and world trade has been thrown badly out of balance . . ."

That is enough of a long quotation to make the point. Great Britain, of course, was not the "giver of peace," but an imperialist power whose authority spread over all the earth. British economy was based on the import of raw materials from distant colonies and other areas, for manufacture in England and Scotland. Subsequently, the manufactured goods were shipped back to the colonies and other areas and a profit was made on every phase of the transaction, including shipping, insurance and exchange.

For part of this imperialist period, Great Britain opposed local manufactures which is one reason why she lost the American colonies. After the rise of the United States, Germany and Japan to industrial strength, the British fought a losing battle to keep them out of the international market. In time she gave up free trade, imposed Imperial Preference, which was aimed principally at the United States, established cartels, particularly in raw materials, some of which, such as rubber and cocoa, operated to the detriment of the American manufacturer. "Imperial Preference" still obtains.

The United States has never been engaged in widespread economic imperialism and therefore its problems, its motivations and its tariffs have been different from those of Great Britain. We imported, for a large part of our 300 year history, population, capital and machinery and exported foodstuffs and raw materials. Our task was to reduce the import of capital and machinery; we accomplished the latter through the tariff, the former by our superior productivity and by the re-investment of profits in industry.

Hoffman justifies free trade on the basis that we have already, willy-nilly, become an international WPA. Why did we become an international WPA? Was it economic necessity or screwy politics? Were we forced into such a situation by an unrealistic One World concept which has brought us permanent war? This is what Paul Hoffman says:

" . . . Under such circumstances other nations could not afford to continue buying from us unless we gave them money. And that is, of course, exactly what we have had to do through a dozen loan and grant schemes, starting from after World War I right down to our present ECA. American aid to Western Europe during the last thirty-five years has amounted to some $22 billion exclusive of direct war outlays. This was—apart from genuine philanthropic motives—a way of subsidizing our exports, for practically all the American money that went abroad never stayed there; it always returned to buy American goods."

Money did not return to buy American goods. That is an economist's fiction. We mostly exported the equivalent in goods. We gave away, for free, our natural resources. We set up the steam shovels and ripped out our iron ore and our copper and lead and zinc and gave them away in the form of manufactured goods—in some cases, as in Soviet Russia, eventually to be used against us in war.

And more than that, we are now in peril of becoming a dependent nation for our principal raw materials. We are already importing iron ore from South American countries and soon from Labrador and we are becoming a dependent nation with regard to copper. We shall give and give and give, unless we have nothing left. Then who will come to our aid? Name the country!

Jean Simmons, still English enough to refer to a freeway as a "dual carriage way," has nevertheless become one of Hollywood's more incorrigible practical jokers. Her latest victim is Robert Mitchum, her co-star in RKO's "Beautiful But Dangerous." The other day the company was on location, shooting fishing scenes along a little mountain stream some fifty miles from Hollywood. Miss Simmons, clad in hip - length waders, was in the middle of the stream, fly - casting. Mitchum, by mandate of the script, was to wade in, playfully pick her up and carry her to shore. When he attempted the scene, he scored a humiliating failure. Miss Simmons, conniving with the troupe's property man, was securely anchored with a forty pound lead weight attached to each of her boots!

Betty Grable, who once stated in a columned interview that no glamour girl has legs as beautiful as those of a horse, should be flattered by a speech Dale Robertson makes to her in "Farmer Takes A Wife." "You've got a straight back," he enthuses, "and here's no sag in you. You walk ike a high - spirited filly, have plenty of lift, keep your weight well under you, and have no forward splurge at the knees. All in ll, you're a pretty sound creaure!"

After that scene had been layed, Miss Grable remarked, ather thoughtfully, that she might nter the next big handicap at ollywood Park.

Pinky Tomlin, the tunesmith ho wrote "Object of My Affecons" in 1934, is back in Hollyood, playing a role in "Beautiful ut Dangerous." He says that his ng has been better than an anity. Since the date of its first ublication, it's had 26 recordings, w rates as one of the 10 allne best sellers in the popular usic field, and last year paid n a bigger income than he reived from it in 1934.

HOBBY BECOMES CAREER

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — Bill Burns' hobby took up so much of his time he ended up by quitting his advertising job.

Now he has a trained-bird act he puts on in theaters and nightclubs all over the country and on television. He has a troupe of 13 African love birds who do such stunts as mail letters, push baby carriages and crank out a complete washing. Of course, all props are bird-size miniatures.

Burns says there's no substitute for patience in bird training. It takes almost a year to train a bird.

Labor Day is celebrated in Canada just as it is in the United States.

Hal Boyle's

Notebook

NEW YORK (AP)—Could you get by on $50,000 a year?

The average man figures with that kind of money he could satisfy Uncle Sam, live the life of Riley himself, and still have enough left over to feed gold peanuts to pigeons in the park.

But many a person in the $50,000-and-up income bracket today complains he finds it hard to make both ends meet. Why? Well, people who dwell at that exhilarating financial altitude say they have so many unusual obligations that their big incomes often turn out to be all gross and no net.

This is particularly true with top public entertainers, who sometimes get the feeling they have been cut up more ways than a pie in a bowery restaurant.

Where does all that dough go? Let us take a typical case—Dorothy Shay, the "Park Avenue Hillbillie." and managerial costs $18,630; fed- Her robust songs have made her a queen of the supper club circuit, at $5,000 a week and higher.

These high - priced chanteuses, however, are like racehorses. They don't perform for the customers each and every week. How many Kentucky Derbys are there in a year?

Last year Dorothy, who is a good business girl, asked her accountant to estimate the minimum income she would require for 1951. His figure: $81,000.

Of this business expenses and taxes came to $65,625. They included such items as commission and managerial cots $18,630; federal taxes, $10,040; California income tax, $3,750; legal services, $2,600; traveling expenses, $12,150; professional wardrobe, $4,000—etc., etc.

Subtracting $65,625 from $81,000, Dorothy found she had $15,375 for living and personal expenses. That seems a cozy sum for a single girl, but household costs—such as $1,200 for domestics, $1,500 for food, $1,500 for rent—ate up $5,720.

That left her $9,655. But she had to figure into this $600 for dependents and gifts, $3,560 for life insurance premiums, $1,500 for medical expenses, $1,200 for personal wardrobe and laundry, $1,265 for miscellaneous expenses and $1,200 for non - deductible business expenses.

The result, according to Dorothy, was that she had the grand sum of $330 left to save or do with as she wished.

Rising prices, she feels, have made the $81,000 estimate inadequate for the demands of 1952.

"How can I get by with only $1,500 for food?" asked Dorothy, a strong healthy girl who likes steak once a day. "and where today can you find a domestic who will work for $1,200."

There is only one answer—to sing more often.

"The least I can afford to make in 1952 is $100,000," Dorothy said glumly.

It takes a lot of money to make money these days.

Headline I never expect to see: "Jose Ferrer voted Favorite Star by American Legion."

Jean Simmons, still English enough to refer to a freeway as a "dual carriage way," has nevertheless become one of Hollywood's more incorrigible practical jokers. Her latest victim is Robert Mitchum, her co-star in RKO's "Beautiful But Dangerous." The other day the company was on location, shooting fishing scenes along a little mountain stream some fifty miles from Hollywood. Miss Simmons, clad in hip - length waders, was in the middle of the stream, fly - casting. Mitchum, by mandate of the script, was to wade in, playfully pick her up and carry her to shore. When he attempted the scene, he scored a humiliating failure. Miss Simmons, conniving with the troupe's property man, was securely anchored with a forty pound lead weight attached to each of her boots!

Betty Grable, who once stated in a columned interview that no glamour girl has legs as beautiful as those of a horse, should be flattered by a speech Dale Robertson makes to her in "Farmer Takes A Wife." "You've got a straight back," he enthuses, "and there's no sag in you. You walk like a high - spirited filly, have plenty of lift, keep your weight well under you, and have no forward splurge at the knees. All in all, you're a pretty sound creature!"

After that scene had been played, Miss Grable remarked, rather thoughtfully, that she might enter the next big handicap at Hollywood Park.

Pinky Tomlin, the tunesmith who wrote "Object of My Affections" in 1934, is back in Hollywood, playing a role in "Beautiful But Dangerous." He says that his song has been better than an annuity. Since the date of its first publication, it's had 26 recordings, now rates as one of the 10 all-time best sellers in the popular music field, and last year paid him a bigger income than he received from it in 1934.

HOBBY BECOMES CAREER

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — Bill Burns' hobby took up so much of his time he ended up by quitting his advertising job.

Now he has a trained-bird act he puts on in theaters and night-clubs all over the country and on television. He has a troupe of 13 African love birds who do such stunts as mail letters, push baby carriages and crank out a complete washing. Of course, all props are bird-size miniatures.

Burns says there's no substitute for patience in bird training. It takes almost a year to train a bird.

Labor Day is celebrated in Canada just as it is in the United States.

Hal Boyle's
Notebook

NEW YORK (AP)—Could you get by on $50,000 a year?

The average man figures with that kind of money he could satisfy Uncle Sam, live the life of Riley himself, and still have enough left over to feed gold peanuts to pigeons in the park.

But many a person in the $50,000-and-up income bracket today complains he finds it hard to make both ends meet. Why? Well, people who dwell at that exhilarating financial altitude say they have so many unusual obligations that their big incomes often turn out to be all gross and no net.

This is particularly true with top public entertainers, who sometimes get the feeling they have been cut up more ways than a pie in a bowery restaurant.

Where does all that dough go? Let us take a typical case—Dorothy Shay, the "Park Avenue Hillbillie." and managerial costs $18,630; fed- Her robust songs have made her a queen of the supper club circuit, at $5,000 a week and higher.

These high - priced chanteuses, however, are like racehorses. They don't perform for the customers each and every week. How many Kentucky Derbys are there in a year?

Last year Dorothy, who is a good business girl, asked her accountant to estimate the minimum income she would require for 1951. His figure: $81,000.

Of this business expenses and taxes came to $65,625. They included such items as commission and managerial cots $18,630; federal taxes, $10,040; California income tax, $3,750; legal services, $2,600; traveling expenses, $12,150; professional wardrobe, $4,000—etc., etc.

Subtracting $65,625 from $81,000, Dorothy found she had $15,375 for living and personal expenses. That seems a cozy sum for a single girl, but household costs—such as $1,200 for domestics, $1,500 for food, $1,500 for rent—ate up $5,720.

That left her $9,655. But she had to figure into this $600 for dependents and gifts, $3,560 for life insurance premiums, $1,500 for medical expenses, $1,200 for personal wardrobe and laundry, $1,265 for miscellaneous expenses and $1,200 for non - deductible business expenses.

The result, according to Dorothy, was that she had the grand sum of $330 left to save or do with as she wished.

Rising prices, she feels, have made the $81,000 estimate inadequate for the demands of 1952.

"How can I get by with only $1,500 for food?" asked Dorothy, a strong healthy girl who likes steak once a day. "and where today can you find a domestic who will work for $1,200."

There is only one answer—to sing more often.

"The least I can afford to make in 1952 is $100,000," Dorothy said glumly.

It takes a lot of money to make money these days.

The outstanding flower of the yard this week is the day lily. Mrs. T. D. Pickens, Highway 80, West Monroe has named one she developed "Ouachita." Olivia said the reason she named it Ouachita was because it, like Ouachita Parish, had unusual qualities. One unusual quality of this lily is the sepals are darker than the petals. This is called a reverse. The Ouachita is a very large deep yellow lily with deeper yellow throat brushed with gold. The sepals are darker and brushed with cinnamon. The petals a lighter yellow are also, lightly brushed with cinnamon. The Ouachita is a cross between Europia and an unnamed lily. Mrs. Pickens spoke of varities of lilies calling them by name as the vegetable gardner would the different vegetables. One variety of light yellow lily had two or three blossoms open on one stem at the same time. She had Evangeline, Queen of Gonzalas, Capital Grounds, Potetate, Baby Tears, Singapore and many, many more. She has Wheeler seedlings which are velvety, rich, dark red and seedlings from Mrs. Hugh Johnson which are light brick red with a chartreuse throat.

Another breeder visited was Mrs. T. S. Mangham in Edgewater Gardens. Mrs. Mangham is specializing in the miniature day lilies which are so useful in landscaping. These women have stock from Wheelers, Hill, Becht, Douglas, Clair and Sass. Mrs. Mangham has 2,000 seedlings of her own breeding. She is preparing her log on one which she expects to register as Little Bo Peep. In both of these gardens you find many colors and kinds. You are likely to become a day lily grower when you come in contact with these enthusiasts and members of the National Herma Calla Lily Society. Both of these day lily growers invite you to visit their gardens and see the beauty you can have by growing day lilies. Now is the time to transplant them, too. Get circular material for further information on growing lilies from the extension office.

Have you ever been to Wood - lawn? Woodlawn is the community on the Jonesboro highway with the new beautiful rambling, cream colored brick school.

The Woodlawn Home Demonstration Club met with Mrs. G. E. Ruthledge, the president of the home demonstration club in this community May 9th. Mrs. Ruthledge has just papered her home and Shorty, (Mr. Ruthledge), has just graded the yard and put up a new yard fence. Next fall they expect to landscape the grounds. Miss Martha, (Mrs. J. E. Ruthledge) had to miss club meeting because her English peas and strawberries were ready to can and preserve. Miss Martha won first on her pantry in 1950. She may win in 1952. (You should eat a chicken pie made by her — um um —it's the very best.)

The Woodlawn home demonstration club is interested in beautifying the school grounds. Five Cleopatra sasaqua japonicas were donated by the Lapine Home Demonstration Club. (These club members are now members of the Woodlawn Club.) The club also bought flower seed for the school and will help next fall to get more shrubbery planted — the agent made the plan for planting.

YESTERYEAR'S FAMOUS HATS AT PALACE

The early 1900's are echoed in an exciting window display of women's hats now being shown at The Palace. Especially prepared by Veola Modes, this glittering "Turn of the Century" collection was formerly owned by Mrs. John Foster Dulles, carrying the labels of Crocker, 1914; Enos 1917; Nettie Gordon, 1918; Thurn, Paris, 1916 and 1917; Mme. Najla Magabgab, Paris, 1913; Lightenstein, New York, 1915; Caroline Reboux, Paris, 1918; Bendel, Inc., New York, 1917; Mme. Wolf, New York, 1918; Henri Bendel, New York, 1910; and Louis & Co., New York, 1915.

All these fabulous hats were designed to encompass the various coiffeurs of the day, with each designer creating his own ideas on frames that were fashioned from the hairstyles of the season. The most popular hairdo with the lady of fashion then was an upsweep over a false roll, with side hair trimmed short and brushed over the cheeks. Milady's bonnet was worn well down on the head, modestly covering the forehead.

Among the more glamorous of all these charming chapeaux is one by Thurn of Paris, 1916, with a band of Kolinski covered with satin and protected by an awning of starched lace, so ideal for a midwinter afternoon concert at Carnegie Hall. Another, by Lightenstein of New York, 1915, has Rembrandt inspired velvet with close fitting satin bandeau that was perfect for windy trips in the new open motor cars.

Millions To Pray For Troubled World

Millions of men and women of every race and creed in all lands will voice a world prayer Sunday, according to Lay Servers Group, invoking divine will to guide people everywhere in this time of crisis. The Group announced this World Invocation Day would mark the most widespread use in history of a single prayer on a single day by people of all faiths.

"The Great Invocation," as the prayer is called, has been translated into 48 languages and distributed by volunteers throughout the world, two million copies in North America alone. It is being used by religious and educational institutions and organizations in 60 countries. The Group invites all people of goodwill to join in this World Invocation on June 8 for right human relations and true peace on behalf of all humanity.

YESTERYEAR'S FAMOUS HATS AT PALACE

The early 1900's are echoed in an exciting window display of women's hats now being shown at The Palace. Especially prepared by Veola Modes, this glittering "Turn of the Century" collection was formerly owned by Mrs. John Foster Dulles, carrying the labels of Crocker, 1914; Enos 1917; Nettie Gordon, 1918; Thurn, Paris, 1916 and 1917; Mme. Najla Magabgab, Paris, 1913; Lightenstein, New York, 1915; Caroline Reboux, Paris, 1918; Bendel, Inc., New York, 1917; Mme. Wolf, New York, 1918; Henri Bendel, New York, 1910; and Louis & Co., New York, 1915.

All these fabulous hats were designed to encompass the various coiffeurs of the day, with each designer creating his own ideas on frames that were fashioned from the hairstyles of the season. The most popular hairdo with the lady of fashion then was an upsweep over a false roll, with side hair trimmed short and brushed over the cheeks. Milady's bonnet was worn well down on the head, modestly covering the forehead.

Among the more glamorous of all these charming chapeaux is one by Thurn of Paris, 1916, with a band of Kolinski covered with satin and protected by an awning of starched lace, so ideal for a midwinter afternoon concert at Carnegie Hall. Another, by Lightenstein of New York, 1915, has Rembrandt inspired velvet with close fitting satin bandeau that was perfect for windy trips in the new open motor cars.

These bewitching bonnets of the "Turn of the Century" are to be seen all this week at The Palace, and were brought here through the efforts of Miss Zetta Byrne, buyer and manger of the millinery salon at The Palace.

UNITED STATES POLL

By Princeton Research Service, Kenneth Fink, Director

(Following is a poll on the race for president of the United States which will be a regular feature in the Monroe Morning World until November 3, the day before the general elections.)

Princeton, N. J., May 31.—The relative strengths of Senator Robert A. Taft and Senator Estes Kefauver today are indicated by a "trial heat" election just completed by the United States poll among a cross-section of the nation's voters.

It must be understood that today's survey findings represent sentiment in the country at the present time. In no way can the results be construed as a forecast of the election outcome next November should Taft and Kefauver be the Republican and Democratic nominees.

United States Poll reporters personally asked a representative sample of the nation's voters:

"Suppose Taft is the Republican candidate and Kefauver the Democratic candidate, which party would you like to see win the presidential election — the Republican Party or the Democratic Party?"

The results: Kefauver, 50 per cent.

Taft, 42 per cent.

Undecided, 8 per cent.

The split in sentiment among the various population subgroups in the nation as recorded by United States Poll in this survey reflects some interesting and significant facts.

Each man gets about the same proportion of the vote from members of his own political party. 70 per cent of all those who classify themselves as Republicans today say they would like to see the Ohio Senator win. And 72 per cent of all those who classify themselves as Democrats say they would like to see the Senator from Tennessee win.

Since today's survey findings also show that there are somewhat more people in the country who now consider themselves Democrats than Republicans, a Democratic candidate naturally starts with an advantage.

And Kefauver enjoys an even bigger advantage among rank and file Independent voters. An examination of the poll of those who classify themselves as Independents shows that Kefauver leads Taft by a margin of about 5 to 1. The breakdown:

The Independent Vote:

Kefauver, 50 per cent.

Taft, 38 per cent.

Don't know, 12 per cent.

Of particular significance, too, are the areas of the country where each man holds the advantage. The Senator from Tennessee outpolls the Ohio Senator in the South and along both the East and the West coasts; whereas, Senator Taft leads in both the East Central and the West Central States. The breakdown:

New England and Mid-Atlantic states: (Me., N. H., Vt., Mass., R. I., Conn., N. Y., N. J., Del., Penna., Md., W. Va.):

Kefauver 51 per cent.

Taft, 43 per cent.

Undecided, 6 per cent.

South—(Va., Ga., N. C., S. C., Fla., Miss., Ala., La., Tenn., Ark., Ky., Tex., Okla.):

Kefauver, 60 per cent.

Taft, 32 per cent.

Undecided, 8 per cent.

Rocky Mountain and Pacific States — (Mont., Idaho, Colo., N. Mex., Nev., Utah, Ariz., Wyo., Cal., Ore., Wash.,):

Kefauver, 49 per cent.

Taft, 40 per cent.

Undecided, 11 per cent.

[illegible] Central States—(Ohio, Ill., [illegible]):

Taft, 50 per cent.

Kefauver, 43 per cent.

Undecided, 7 per cent.

[illegible]

[illegible] that should [illegible] of to- [illegible] that [illegible] candidates [illegible] paigning has carried over into today's survey.

Just how much of this feeling would exist and how much it would affect the election results can only be determined in "trial heats" conducted after the Republican convention selects its candidate.

The Monroe Morning World presents the reports of the United States Poll exclusively in this area. The service is operated by the Princeton Research Service staff of trained nonpartisan reporters. (Copyright, 1952, by Princeton Research Service; distributed by King Features Syndicate.)

A new United States Poll prepared by Princeton Research Service will appear in the World on Wednesday.

YOUTH RESCUES FIVE

SINGAPORE (AP)— A 23 - year - old sauce factory employee, was busily at work when he heard a loud crash. Rushing out, he saw the wheels of an upturned car lying in a canal.

He ripped off his shirt and dived in. Minutes later, he pulled out a middle - aged woman. An expert swimmer, he dived into the water four more times and each time came up with one more person. All five recovered after treatment at the scene.

"I was lucky to manage it all so easily," he said. "I took a deep breath and was able to open one of the car doors. Inside, I could feel people struggling, although the water was too muddy to see. As I grabbed their hands and arms

The Home Shift

By Mildred Swift

In The Gardens

We people at the agricultural building are really sorry to see the McGee Easter lilies end their season of glorious bloom. For a month now, each morning as we came in our drive, we'd see just over the fence this great shoal of white. Alfa McGee tells me her husband is responsible for these Creole Easter lilies. "We plant our lily bulbs on rows in a fertile, well drained soil about four inches to six inches apart. The soil between the rows is plowed whenever we cultivate the vegetable garden. Our plants are in semi - shade and seem to thrive well there. We divide our bulbs every three years in early fall, and cover them with straw for winter protection every winter." Alfa says they use bone meal fertilizer. Our department says select a type according to what the soil needs. Mr. Montelaro, horticulturist, mentions 6-10-7 or 8-8-8 worked in the soil before planting and nitrate for side dressing after all danger of frost is over.

Walked over to my neighbors last Monday to see just what that riotous mass of flame could be circling her driveway. (Mrs. F. T. Smith is the neighbor). They were gladiolus in that new flame color. The grower didn't know the name and I'm not sure but I believe they are "Valeria." Every year Mrs. Smith grows beautiful and perfect gladiolus. This is what she told me. "I leave my bulbs in the ground, dividing them every three years. I work barnyard manure in the soil, divide and plant in February. If we have any dry spells, I soak the soil around the glads. It's best not to cut any foliage when gathering the blossoms." Mrs. Smith says she has been planting the bulbs in the same place every year, but she is going to change this practice as it encourages disease. So far, she has had no trouble. Mr. Kimbrough, from extension department recommends 8-8-8 worked in the soil at time of planting, top dressing with nitrate of soda after the plants are up to a good stand. Call 3-2251 if you'd like a bulletin on Easter lilies or gladiolus.

A number of people have called this week asking "Is there a yard in the Twin Cities that has a centipede sod?" Mrs. Fred Mitchell, 101 Stubbs, has a two year lawn of centipede. She'll be glad for you to stop by and see the grass and how it grows.

Here are your June garden jobs: Cut foliage on bulbs after it has turned brown. Prune out all the oldest wood and dead canes from climbing roses. Cut back your spring blooming perennials and they will put out new growth for a second flowering. Mulch beds. Seed to plant this month: sweet alyssum, cockscomb, petunia, cosmos, four-o-clock, portulaca, Ageratum, marigold, torenia, balsam, periwinkle, zinnia.

An Abbington Addition

Yes, Sue and Merton have added a play room to their house at 2017 Valencia avenue, Monroe. They laid the floor, using red brick. When I was by there Tuesday Merton had just finished sanding the brick floor. Sue tells me they're going to use a coat of linseed oil then wax the brick. This is a new finish to me and I can hardly wait to see the results.

Farm and Home Week

Yes! It's a little early but I'm giving you the dates, now to mark on your calendar — August 11 to 15. I'll tell you more about the program later but as you remember — you can get any subject you want, foods, gardening, poultry, food preparation, canning, freezing, flower arrangement, landscaping; special studies in roses, camellias, day lilies and — well, I'll give you the program as soon as it is released. I forgot — there will be consumer education and family life work, too. I've talked to several of my planning committee about going down. I do hope every member can go. You stay in the dormitories, free of charge. In case you've forgotten who is responsible for planning the city projects here they are: Mrs. J. W. McCarty, Mrs. O. C. Hammons, Mrs. James R. Tippet, Mrs. Aimee Cook, Mrs. Fred Stone, Mrs. W. T. Boyd of West Monroe, Miss Bess Sharp, Mrs. R. W. Glaholt, Miss Louise Gundry, Mrs. Chas. A. Stratford, Mrs. A. L. Dickerson, Mrs. W. J. Veazy, Mrs. George Forman, Mrs. John Smith, Miss Juanita Porter, Mrs. John Peters, of Monroe.

Mrs. George Forman brought the hat idea to the planning meeting last September. She's quite proud of that fact because the hat classes have been so very popular. I need two more planning members from West Monroe. Do you want to help us plan this city work? Call me at 3-2251 and let me tell you about it.

See you next Sunday, same time, same place.

FLOATING ISLAND

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP)—Vermont has the only floating island in the western hemisphere, according to "Vermont Life," the quarterly published by the Vermont Development commission. It consists of vegetables, such as water lilies, that has formed into a fibrous mass. Started originally on a pond, it floats now on Lake Sadawga, an artificial body of water. Trees and bushes and grass cover it. About 25 acres in extent, it is anchored to the lake bed by a network of roots.

News For Lazy Reducers

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

Most glamor seekers will do anything to keep looking lithe and lovely, but they usually prefer the easy road to Charm Street. Suggest anything that is based on an eight-day plan or a 30-day plan or a routine of exercises to be done each day, and they throw up their hands in despair. Yet there is no easy way out in the quest for loveliness.

If you want to be slim and pretty, you must work for it. You can't wish away surplus pounds or pimples or gray hair. Sometimes a beauty experiment will show that it is going to give good results, but even then because it will take a few weeks more to accomplish the plan fully, it is tossed to the winds.

We women are pretty perverse when it comes to reducing, in particular. We will walk a mile to buy a new fashionable shade of lipstick, but if it is suggested that a mile-a-day walk will help trim the waistline, we ignore it. We will starve ourselves at breakfast and then gorge at lunch. Or we will give up milk and sugar, then try to persuade ourselves that the denial of those entitles us to eat a big piece of whipped cream cake.

If someone suggests exercises which require lying on the floor, we think of it as a shard work, immediately. Anything we can do without exerting ourselves too much appeals to us, and usually it is only by exerting ourselves that we can discard extra pounds.

For this reason many women prefer to lose their inches by the capable hands of a masseuse kneading and slapping bulgy areas, or one of the new mechanical slenderizers which help take off unwanted inches. One of these invented by a young electronic engineer, Bill Browner. Pads are fastened to parts of the body that need slimming, and electrical impulses of the machine help contract muscles controlling those areas. This relaxing machine works as the plump lady sits or lies around and reads, talks on the phone, makes up shopping lists, sews, listens to the radio or just sleeps.

The machine is about the size of a portable radio and plugs into a wall outlet.

Rugs And Carpets Add Warm Color

Informality characterises the new rugs for 1952. Sculptured design (left) is in lush nylon, is right with either traditional or contemporary interiors. It's shown here in gold. Modern leaf design (right) is casual motif sketched in outline against warm gray ground. Motif is in high fashion colors: olive and leaf green, turquoise and terra cotta. Ground has accents of dark gray to highlight sculptured surface. This is in a blend of wool and man-made fibres, is a good foil for informal, modern or provincial settings. Pattern has practicality, too, because it minimizes soil.

NEW YORK —(NEA)— The look of the new carpets and rugs for 1952 is predominantly an informal one, in harmony with the current trend to the colorful and the casual in both home furnishings and architecture.

This means that there are many tweedy and random texture weaves, stippled and spatterdash effects, stripes, checks and rugged weaves. There are lots of provincial designs in the most popular decorator colors. And further, traditional designs have been simplified to fit easily into modern living. The colorings for these are gay but the gackground is neutral. Wherever 18th Century designs are used, they've been handled with a feeling for contemporary colors.

The homemaker will find lots of novel weaves when she goes carpet shopping. Many of these weaves have been developed through the magic of man-made fibers that turn up so often in floor coverings for 1952. But the textured weaves that lead in popularity this year are those that blend in with everything, from modern to traditional.

There are super-textured furry weaves with a hand-made look; hit-and-mass textures in one, two or three-colored effects done in combinations of yarns or fibers; shaggy textures; random textures and bark-like effects.

The new patterned rugs and carpets—and there are many of them —have been redesigned to a reduced scale in order to fit them into the average modern room. This means that they no longer dominate the room decor. The number of new and semi-abstract patterns reveal a freer design technique and a feeling of lightness that's a marked departure from the old heroic leaf and scroll designs. The contemporary look is achieved, too, through use of monotone colorings.

The carpets and rugs suitable for children's rooms and bedrooms are numerous. These are in cotton (woven on standard carpet backs), wool, blends, all man-made fibers and nylon. Cotton carpets go into the living room in dramatic designs, such as a shadowy drybrush effect in muted desert tones or a random-stripe in sharp bleak-and-white.

Color has broken with the traditionally solid virtues of the "background" carpeting: taupe, gray or medium green. Now color is smart and vibrant. There are many sharp off-colors and some that are really bold. The nut colors include everything from black walnut to an off-white Brazil nut meat tone. The sun and earth colors revolve around beige. And these beige colorings are light, cool and clear or warm and sunny pinks deepening to true terra cotta.

Cocoa, mocha, fur and coffee are still important carpet colors. Grays may be anything from a pale oyster to a deep charcoal. Black-and-white combinations look handsome in stripes, tweed mixtures and spatterdash effects.

The traditional florals have gone contemporary, too, with clear colors such as olive, avocado, gold and terra cotta. Sometimes there's a cool stone blue or a lovely "blue linen" blue. There's also the drama of turquoise and aqua, both gaining steadily in popularity.

Dresses Show Versatility

NEW YORK —(NEA)—This year, the girl graduate can decide in advance just what kind of picture she'll make when she mounts the platform for her diploma.

She'll find that while fashions designed for this occasion are meant to make her look sweet, they also make it possible for her to be true to her type.

Thus, she can look like a Gibson Girl, or be youthfully innocent in a white "baby dress," or be crisp and tailored. Or she may float about in a floor-length dress with misty skirt. Both long and short lengths will be seen at graduations at schools and colleges this year.

But whichever length she choose, chances are very good that shoulders and arms will have more cover-up than they did for this occasion last year.

This cover-up will be expressed in a shirtwaist top, in short-puffed sleeves, in a draped fichu, or in a capelet.

The lingerie look is developed for graduation wear this year in little white organdies worn over pastel slips.

Girl graduate (left), primping for her moment in the spotlight, wears a white dress with a future. Heavy white cotton lace is backed with taffeta, given a V-neckline and short puffed sleeves.

The look of the lace makes it stand out; so does the utter absence of any treatment that might detract from the line. Strict silhouette emphasizes a molded bodice and a very full skirt.

Baby dress (right) is trimmed in fine val lace. It's used to outline the [illegible] effect and to trim the collar and lamp shade sleeves. Full skirt is held out over a crinoline.

Teen-Agers' Clothes Problems Solved By Dual Wardrobe

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The teen-ager who's invited out to see a movie by the boy she'd like most to date has a fashion problem. Few teen-agers can afford to spend a great deal for a date dress. And, in all probability, any dress a teen-ager does buy for date wear will have to double for school as well. This means that it can't be elaborate or fussy.

In shopping for this important dress, she should look for good design rather than fancy trim, a color that will dovetail with the things already in her wardrobe and a fabric that will take readily to soap and water. She should also look for a price tag that tells her she's getting good, sound value for her money rather than a so - called "bargain."

Fortunately for her, she'll find fashions that no other country in the world could begin to offer her. If she shops wisely and well, she'll get full value for her cash.

The teen-ager (above) who's movie-bound chose a budget-priced embosed cotton by Kate Greenaway. This is in aqua, has a full skirt, cpa sleeves and a three-tiered yoke that's buttoned with tiny glittering rhinestones. There's a self belt.

UNITED STATES POLL

By Princeton Research Service, Kenneth Fink, Director

(Following is a poll on the race for president of the United States which will be as a regular feature in the Monroe Morning World until November 3, the day before the general elections.)

Princeton, N. J., May 31.—The relative strengths of Senator Robert A. Taft and Senator Estes Kefauver today are indicated by a "trial heat" election just completed by the United States poll among a cross-section of the nation's voters.

It must be understood that today's survey findings represent sentiment in the country at the present time. In no way can the results be construed as a forecast of the election outcome next November should Taft and Kefauver be the Republican and Democratic nominees.

United States Poll reporters personally asked a representative sample of the nation's voters:

"Suppose Taft is the Republican candidate and Kefauver the Democratic candidate, which party would you like to see win the presidential election — the Republican Party or the Democratic Party?"

The results: Kefauver, 50 per cent.

Taft, 42 per cent.

Undecided, 8 per cent.

The split in sentiment among the various population subgroups in the nation as recorded by United States Poll in this survey reflects some interesting and significant facts.

Each man gets about the same proportion of the vote from members of his own political party. 70 per cent of all those who classify themselves as Republicans today say they would like to see the Ohio Senator win. And 72 per cent of all those who classify themselves as Democrats say they would like to see the Senator from Tennessee win.

Since today's survey findings also show that there are somewhat more people in the country who now consider themselves Democrats than Republicans, a Democratic candidate naturally starts with an advantage.

And Kefauver enjoys an even bigger advantage among rank and file Independent voters. An examination of the poll of those who classify themselves as Independents shows that Kefauver leads Taft by a margin of about 5 to . The breakdown:

The Independent Vote:
Kefauver, 50 per cent.
Taft, 38 per cent.
Don't know, 12 per cent.

Of particular significance, too, are the areas of the country where each man holds the advantage. The Senator from Tennessee outpolls the Ohio Senator in the South and along both the East and the West coasts; whereas. Senator Taft leads in both the East Central and the West Central States. The breakdown:

New England and Mid-Atlantic states: (Me., N. H., Vt., Mass., R. I., Conn., N. Y., N. J., Del., Penna., Md., W. Va.):
Kefauver 51 per cent.
Taft, 43 per cent.
Undecided, 6 per cent.

South—(Va., Ga., N. C., S. C., Fla., Miss., Ala., La., Tenn., Ark., Ky., Tex., Okla.):
Kefauver, 60 per cent.
Taft, 32 per cent.
Undecided, 8 per cent.

Rocky Mountain and Pacific States — (Mont., Idaho, Colo., N. Mex., Nev., Utah. Ariz., Wyo., Cal., Ore., Wash.,):
Kefauver, 49 per cent.
Taft, 40 per cent.
Undecided, 11 per cent.

East Central States—(Ohio, Ill., Ind., Mich.):
Taft, 50 per cent.
Kefauver, 43 per cent.
Undecided, 7 per cent.

West Central States—(Wis., Ia., Neb., Kan., Minn., N. D., S. D., Mo.):
Taft, 48 per cent.
Kefauver, 43 per cent.
Undecided, 9 per cent.

Still another factor that should be kept in mind by readers of today's survey findings is that the various Republican candidates have been engaging in spirited primary contests in a number of states over the past weeks and months.

Undoubtedly, some of the feeling generated during the primary campaigning has carried over into today's survey.

Just how much of this feeling would exist and how much it would affect the election results can only be determined in "trial heats" conducted after the Republican convention selects its candidate.

The Monroe Morning World presents the reports of the United States Poll exclusively in this area. The service is operated by the Princeton Research Service staff of trained nonpartisan reporters. (Copyright, 1952, by Princeton Research Service; distributed by King Features Syndicate.)

A new United States Poll prepared by Princeton Research Service will appear in the World on Wednesday.

YOUTH RESCUES FIVE

SINGAPORE (AP)— A 23 - year - old sauce factory employee, was busily at work when he heard a loud crash. Rushing out, he saw the wheels of an upturned car lying in a canal.

He ripped off his shirt and dived in. Minutes later, he pulled out a middle - aged woman. An expert swimmer, he dived into the water four more times and each time came up with one more person. All five recovered after treatment at the scene.

"I was lucky to manage it all so easily," he said. "I took a deep breath and was able to open one of the car doors. Inside, I could feel people struggling, although the water was too muddy to see. As I grabbed their hands and arms

By Mildred Swift

In The Gardens

We people at the agricultural building are really sorry to see the McGee Easter lilies end their season of glorious bloom. For a month now, each morning as we came in our drive, we'd see just over the fence this great shoal of white. Alfa McGee tells me her husband is responsible for these Creole Easter lilies. "We plant our lily bulbs on rows in a fertile, well drained soil about four inches to six inches apart. The soil between the rows is plowed whenever we cultivate the vegetable garden. Our plants are in semi - shade and seem to thrive well there. We divide our bulbs every three years in early fall, and cover them with straw for winter protection every winter." Alfa says they use bone meal fertilizer. Our department says select a type according to what the soil needs. Mr. Montelaro, horticulturist, mentions 6-10-7 or 8-8-8 worked in the soil before planting and nitrate for side dressing after all danger of frost is over.

Walked over to my neighbors last Monday to see just what that riotous mass of flame could be circling her driveway. (Mrs. F. T. Smith is the neighbor). They were gladiolus in that new flame color. The grower didn't know the name and I'm not sure but I believe they are "Valeria." Every year Mrs. Smith grows beautiful and perfect gladiolus. This is what she told me. "I leave my bulbs in the ground, dividing them every three years. I work barnyard manure in the soil, divide and plant in February. If we have any dry spells. I soak the soil around the glads. It's best not to cut any foliage when gathering the blossoms." Mrs. Smith says she has been planting the bulbs in the same place every year, but she is going to change this practice as it encourages disease. So far, she has had no trouble. Mr. Kimbrough, from extension department recommends 8-8-8 worked in the soil at time of planting, top dressing with nitrate of soda after the plants are up to a good stand. Call 3-2251 if you'd like a bulletin on Easter lilies or gladiolus.

A number of people have called this week asking "Is there a yard in the Twin Cities that has a centipede sod?" Mrs. Fred Mitchell, 101 Stubbs, has a two year lawn of centipede. She'll be glad for you to stop by and see the grass and how it grows.

Here are your June garden jobs: Cut foliage on bulbs after it has turned brown. Prune out all the oldest wood and dead canes from climbing roses. Cut back your spring blooming perennials and they will put out new growth for a second flowering. Mulch beds. Seed to plant this month: sweet alyssum, cockscomb, petunia, cosmos, four-o-clock, portulaca, Ageratum, marigold, torenia, balsam, periwinkle, zinnia.

An Abbington Addition

Yes, Sue and Merton have added a play room to their house at 2017 Valencia avenue, Monroe. They laid the floor, using red brick. When I was by there Tuesday Merton had just finished sanding the brick floor. Sue tells me they're going to use a coat of linseed oil then wax the brick. This is a new finish to me and I can hardly wait to see the results.

Farm and Home Week

Yes! It's a little early but I'm giving you the dates, now to mark on your calendar — August 11 to 15. I'll tell you more about the program later but as you remember — you can get any subject you want, foods, gardening, poultry, food preparation, canning, freezing, flower arrangement, landscaping; special studies in roses, camellias, day lilies and — well, I'll give you the program as soon as it is released. I forgot — there will be consumer education and family life work, too. I've talked to several of my planning committee about going down. I do hope every member can go. You stay in the dormitories, free of charge. In case you've forgotten who is responsible for planning the city projects here they are: Mrs. J. W. McCarty, Mrs. O. C. Hammons, Mrs. James R. Tippet, Mrs. Aimee Cook, Mrs. Fred Stone, Mrs. W. T. Boyd of West Monroe, Miss Bess Sharp, Mrs. R. W. Glaholt, Miss Louise Gundry, Mrs. Chas. A. Stratford, Mrs. A. L. Dickerson, Mrs. W. J. Veazy, Mrs. George Forman, Mrs. John Smith, Miss Juanita Porter, Mrs. John Peters, of Monroe.

Mrs. George Forman brought the hat idea to the planning meeting last September. She's quite proud of that fact because the hat classes have been so very popular. I need two more planning members from West Monroe. Do you want to help us plan this city work? Call me at 3-2251 and let me tell you about it.

See you next Sunday, same time, same place.

FLOATING ISLAND

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP)—Vermont has the only floating island in the western hemisphere, according to "Vermont Life," the quarterly published by the Vermont Development commission. It consists of vegetables, such as water lilies, that has formed into a fibrous mass. Started originally on a pond, it floats now on Lake Sadawga, an artificial body of water. Trees and bushes and grass cover it. About 25 acres in extent, it is anchored to the lake bed by a network of roots.

News For Lazy Reducers

AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

Most glamor seekers will do anything to keep looking lithe and lovely, but they usually prefer the easy road to Charm Street. Suggest anything that is based on an eight-day plan or a 30-day plan or a routine of exercises to be done each day, and they throw up their hands in despair. Yet there is no easy way out in the quest for loveliness.

If you want to be slim and pretty, you must work for it. You can't wish away surplus pounds or pimples or gray hair. Sometimes a beauty experiment will show that it is going to give good results, but even then because it will take a few weeks more to accomplish the plan fully, it is tossed to the winds.

We women are pretty perverse when it comes to reducing, in particular. We will walk a mile to buy a new fashionable shade of lipstick, but if it is suggested that a mile-a-day walk will help trim the waistline, we ignore it. We will starve ourselves at breakfast and then gorge at lunch. Or we will give up milk and sugar, then try to persaude ourselves that the denial of those entitles us to eat a big piece of whipped cream cake.

If someone suggests exercises which require lying on the floor, we think of it a shard work, immediately. Anything we can do without exerting ourselves too much appeals to us, and usually it is only by exerting ourselves that we can discard extra pounds.

TAKE IT EASY . . . This young lady rests at home with a book and her electronic massager.

For this reason many women prefer to lose their inches by the capable hands of a masseuse kneading and slapping bulgy areas, or one of the new mechanical slenderizers which help take off unwanted inches. One of these invented by a young electronic engineer. Bill Browner. Pads are fastened to parts of the body that need slimming, and electrical impulses of the machine help contract muscles controlling those areas. This relaxing machine works as the plump lady sits or lies around and reads, talks on the phone, makes up shopping lists, sews, listens to the radio or just sleeps.

The machine is about the size of a portable radio and plugs into a wall outlet.

Rugs And Carpets Add Warm Color

Informality characterizes the new rugs for 1952. Sculptured design (left) is in lush nylon, is right with either traditional or contemporary interiors. It's shown here in gold. Modern leaf design (right) is casual motif sketched in outline against warm gray ground. Motif is in high fashion colors: olive and leaf green, turquoise and terra cotta. Ground has accents of dark gray to highlight sculptured surface. This is in a blend of wool and man-made fibres, is a good foil for informal, modern or provincial settings. Pattern has practicality, too, because it minimizes soil.

NEW YORK —(NEA)— The look of the new carpets and rugs for 1952 is predominantly an informal one, in harmony with the current trend to the colorful and the casual in both home furnishings and architecture.

This means that there are many tweedy and random texture weaves, stippled and spatterdash effects, stripes, checks and rugged weaves. There are lots of provincial designs in the most popular decorator colors. And further, traditional designs have been simplified to fit easily into modern living. The colorings for these are gay but the gackground is neutral. Wherever 18th Century designs are used, they've been handled with a feeling for contemporary colors.

The homemaker will find lots of novel weaves when she goes carpet shopping. Many of these weaves have been developed through the magic of man-made fibers that turn up so often in floor coverings for 1952. But the textured weaves that lead in popularity this year are those that blend in with everything, from modern to traditional.

There are super-textured furry weaves with a hand-made look; hit-and-mass textures in one, two or three-colored effects done in combinations of yarns or fibers; shaggy textures; random textures and bark-like effects.

The new patterned rugs and carpets—and there are many of them —have been redesigned to a reduced scale in order to fit them into the average modern room. This means that they no longer dominate the room decor. The number of new and semi-abstract patterns reveal a freer design technique and a feeling of lightness that's a marked departure from the old heroic leaf and scroll designs. The contemporary look is achieved, too, through use of monotone colorings.

The carpets and rugs suitable for children's rooms and bedrooms are numerous. These are in cotton (woven on standard carpet backs), wool, blends, all man-made fibers and nylon. Cotton carpets go into the living room in dramatic designs, such as a shadowy dry-brush effect in muted desert tones or a random-stripe in sharp bleak-and-white.

Color has broken with the traditionally solid virtues of the "background" carpeting: taupe, gray or medium green. Now color is smart and vibrant. There are many sharp off-colors and some that are really bold. The nut colors include everything from black walnut to an off-white Brazil nut meat tone. The sun and earth colors revolve around beige. And these beige colorings are light, cool and clear or warm and sunny pinks deepening to true terra cotta.

Cocoa, mocha, fur and coffee are still important carpet colors. Grays may be anything from a pale oyster to a deep charcoal. Black-and-white combinations look handsome in stripes, tweed mixtures and spatterdash effects.

The traditional florals have gone contemporary, too, with clear colors such as olive, avocado, gold and terra cotta. Sometimes there's a cool stone blue or a lovely "blue linen" blue. There's also the drama of turquoise and aqua, both gaining steadily in popularity.

If you are sentimental about your wedding and engagement rings, you'll probably never remove them from your fingers. While working in the garden, you can prevent dust and dirt from getting into the setting by encircling a strip of transparent tape around the rings.

Fashions Combine Designs

By GAILE DUGAS

NEW YORK (NEA)—There's an international influence on summer fashions for 1952. Persia, India, Siam, Spain, Norway, Italy—these and many others have contributed inspiration for designs with a foreign flavor but a look that's all American.

Many American designers have gone abroad to do their research and create fashions. Among them is Sylvan Rich, who designed his summer collection in Spain. Each Spanish province is represented, with silhouettes adapted from the national dress of both men and women.

This designer has interpreted the costume of the bullfighter in slim-skirted shantungs and in cotton bolero suits. He has done skirts in lace, in silk stripes, in printed cottons and paired with tops of sculptured jersey or sheer organdy. He has also created summer tweed suits with frilly blouses, full skirts and bolero tops.

The suit (left) is in black cotton with a bolero entirely over-embroidered in black soutache braid and jet beads. There's a slim skirt. Setting for this design is the shop of Santiago Peloy, tailor to bullfighters, in Madrid.

Leisure fashions (right) are slender, tapering pants in black faille paired with wide green taffeta cummerbund and brief, yoked jacket in gold silk organza. This yoke is outlined in shimmering gold, emerald and ruby bead embroidery. The Spanish model is posed on a balcony in Seville.

Memorial Service Is Held Sunday At Catahoula Church

One of the oldest church sites in this section of Louisiana, the Catahoula Baptist Church near Enterprise, was the scene of the annual memorial service on Sunday, at 11:00 a.m. Visitors from Texas, Mississippi and many parts of Louisiana were among the estimated crowd of over 300 persons present.

Adequate preparation for the service had been made. The cemetery and church building reflected the care that had been given prior to the occasion.

The song service consisting of old hymns, such as "Sweet By and By," "The Unclouded Day," "When We All Get to Heaven," and "When They Ring Those Golden Bells," were sung under the direction of A. E. Chapman of Enterprise accompanied by Mrs. Lessie Blackman Hands of Harrisonburg at the organ. Special music was furnished by Mr. Chapman and his daughter, Mrs. Clinton Lewis, also of Enterprise.

An old fashioned testimony meeting was conducted by Mr. E. D. Hooter of Enterprise.

The message for the occasion was preached by the Rev. Jack H. Crews, pastor of the New Ouachita Baptist Church of Enterprise, who spoke on the subject "The Roll Call of Faith."

After the service a delightful dinner on the grounds was served to the group. The next annual Memorial Day will be on the second Sunday of May, 1953.

MOSCOW HAS FILM TROUBLES

MOSCOW (AP)—The Moscow film studio — which has recently been under criticism — is coming out with a new program of pictures.

"Unfortunately, last year the studio did not cope with this task and preparation of scenarios was unsatisfactory," says S. Kuznetsov, director of the Moscow film studio.

"We were obliged to plan only on the basis of one scenario to each producer. And this led to uncompleted scenarios being used for film production, work having to be continued on them during the shooting of the film, which had a bad effect on regular release of films," he says.

Green Pepper Casserolets

By MILDRED SWIFT

Asso. Home Demonstration Agent

When macaroni and cheese, meat loaf or slaw are served in pepper shells, they not only look pretty. Peppers are wonderfully rich in vitamins and minerals. Also the price is about half that of last winter. Soon this vegetable will be quite plentiful in home gardens and much cheaper at local markets. Here's a tasty dish of economical ground beef and fresh vegetables:

Green Pepper Casserolets

8 green peppers
1 small onion, chopped.
1 lb. ground beef
2 tablespoons fat.
4 medium tomatoes, peeled and chopped or ½ cup canned tomatoes.
1½ cups corn, cut from cob or canned whole kernel corn.
Salt and pepper to taste.
¾ cup buttered crumbs.

Cut off tops and remove seeds from peppers. Cook five minutes in boiling salted water. Brown onion and meat in hot gat. Add tomatoes, corn and seasonings. Stuff peppers, and top with buttered crumbs. Stand upright in a greased baking dish. Add about ½ inch water. Cover and bake at 350 degree for 1 hour. This serves six to eight people.

Cold suppers are in order these balmy nights. Start with a hot soup, since we need one warm food to start flow of digestive juices. With this serve cold meat loaf, new potato salad, sliced tomatoes and strawberry short cake.

Meat Loaf For Slicing

Two - thirds cup dry bread crumbs.
Two-thirds cup milk.
2 eggs, slightly beaten.
1¾ teaspoons salt.
⅛ teaspoon pepper.
½ cup ketchup.
¾ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons chopped onion.
One - third cup chopped green pepper.
1¾ lbs. ground beef.

Combine bread crumbs and milk; add eggs, salt, pepper, ketchup, worchestershire, onion and green pepper. Mix well. Add beef and mix thoroughly. Pack into greased loaf pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) for 1 hour. Chill before slicing. This recipe serves from 4 to 6 people.

In the sandwich department try adding chopped green peppers to scrambled eggs. Or — Slice thin rings of it to add flavor and vitamins to ham sandwiches.

Harmless, Chalk-Like Cleaner Removes Spots Before Your Eyes

By ALICA HART
(NEA Beauty Editor)

"First you see it, and then you don't!" has a new meaning when you apply it to that spot on your suit. For at last an effective, safe, completely harmless cleaner has been manufactured that works wonders in a matter of minutes.

The cleaner may be used on more than a suit spot, however. It will remove grease, oil, food and dirt stains from upholstery, carpets, hats, etc., without leaving a ring. What's the secret? The new product is made from a combination of chemicals which have a maximum affinity for oil and grease. The reason it won't leave a ring is because it is not a liquid.

It is an eraser-type item made in block form similar to a small, two-inch piece of chalk. It will not affect color, has absolutely no odor, and will fit conveniently in your handbag or your husband's suit pocket.

Simply rub the chalk-like stick into the stain, allow it to remain there for about five minutes, and then brush the powder off. Like magic, the stain will disappear. Any spot or stain which is on the surface of a material will usually disappear instantly. A spot of long standing may take one or more applications.

Removing spots used to be a chore once, but not any more. Here's an amazing powder stick that whisks away all stains in a matter of minutes.

In case you'd like a larger size stick of the cleaner for home use, you'll find it packaged in a new kit together with two pocket sticks and a small clothes brush.

Adequate preparation for the service had been made. The cemetery and church building reflected the care that had been given prior to the occasion.

The song service consisting of old hymns, such as "Sweet By and By," "The Unclouded Day," "When We All Get to Heaven," and "When They Ring Those Golden Bells," were sung under the direction of A. E. Chapman of Enterprise accompanied by Mrs. Lessie Blackman Hands of Harrisonburg at the organ. Special music was furnished by Mr. Chapman and his daughter, Mrs. Clinton Lewis, also of Enterprise.

An old fashioned testimony meeting was conducted by Mr. E. D. Hooter of Enterprise.

The message for the occasion was preached by the Rev. Jack H. Crews, pastor of the New Ouachita Baptist Church of Enterprise, who spoke on the subject "The Roll Call of Faith."

After the service a delightful dinner on the grounds was served to the group. The next annual Memorial Day will be on the second Sunday of May, 1953.

MOSCOW HAS FILM TROUBLES

MOSCOW (AP)—The Moscow film studio — which has recently been under criticism — is coming out with a new program of pictures.

"Unfortunately, last year the studio did not cope with this task and preparation of scenarios was unsatisfactory," says S. Kuznetsov, director of the Moscow film studio.

"We were obliged to plan only on the basis of one scenario to each producer. And this led to uncompleted scenarios being used for film production, work having to be continued on them during the shooting of the film, which had a bad effect on regular release of films," he says.

Green Pepper Casserolets

By MILDRED SWIFT

Asso. Home Demonstration Agent

When macaroni and cheese, meat loaf or slaw are served in pepper shells, they not only look pretty. Peppers are wonderfully rich in vitamins and minerals. Also the price is about half that of last winter. Soon this vegetable will be quite plentiful in home gardens and much cheaper at local markets. Here's a tasty dish of economical ground beef and fresh vegetables:

Green Pepper Casserolets

8 green peppers
1 small onion, chopped.
1 lb. ground beef
2 tablespoons fat.
4 medium tomatoes, peeled and chopped or ½ cup canned tomatoes.
1½ cups corn, cut from cob or canned whole kernel corn.
Salt and pepper to taste.
¾ cup buttered crumbs.

Cut off tops and remove seeds from peppers. Cook five minutes in boiling salted water. Brown onion and meat in hot gat. Add tomatoes, corn and seasonings. Stuff peppers, and top with buttered crumbs. Stand upright in a greased baking dish. Add about ½ inch water. Cover and bake at 350 degree for 1 hour. This serves six to eight people.

Cold suppers are in order these balmy nights. Start with a hot soup, since we need one warm food to start flow of digestive juices. With this serve cold meat loaf, new potato salad, sliced tomatoes and strawberry short cake.

Meat Loaf For Slicing

Two - thirds cup dry bread crumbs.
Two-thirds cup milk.
2 eggs, slightly beaten.
1¾ teaspoons salt.
⅛ teaspoon pepper.
½ cup ketchup.
¾ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons chopped onion.
One - third cup chopped green pepper.
1¾ lbs. ground beef.

Combine bread crumbs and milk; add eggs, salt, pepper, ketchup, worchestershire, onion and green pepper. Mix well. Add beef and mix thoroughly. Pack into greased loaf pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) for 1 hour. Chill before slicing. This recipe serves from 4 to 6 people.

In the sandwich department try adding chopped green peppers to scrambled eggs. Or — Slice thin rings of it to add flavor and vitamins to ham sandwiches.

Harmless, Chalk-Like Cleaner Removes Spots Before Your Eyes

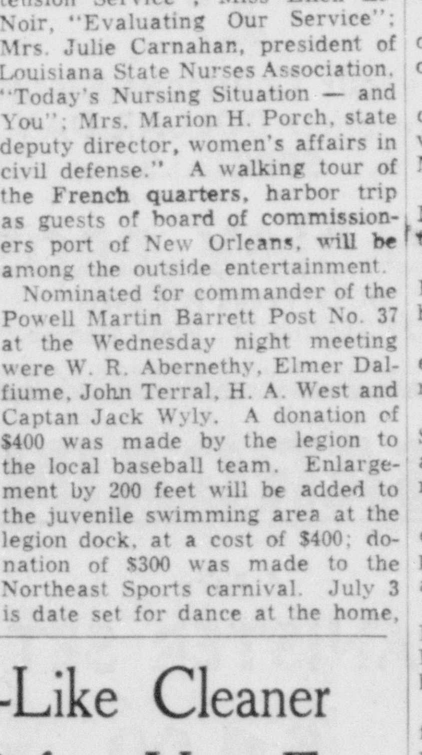
By ALICA HART
(NEA Beauty Editor)

"First you see it, and then you don't!" has a new meaning when you apply it to that spot on your suit. For at last an effective, safe, completely harmless cleaner has been manufactured that works wonders in a matter of minutes.

The cleaner may be used on more than a suit spot, however. It will remove grease, oil, food and dirt stains from upholstery, carpets, hats, etc., without leaving a ring. What's the secret? The new product is made from a combination of chemicals which have a maximum affinity for oil and grease. The reason it won't leave a ring is because it is not a liquid.

It is an eraser-type item made in block form similar to a small, two-inch piece of chalk. It will not affect color, has absolutely no odor, and will fit conveniently in your handbag or your husband's suit pocket.

Simply rub the chalk-like stick into the stain, allow it to remain there for about five minutes, and then brush the powder off. Like magic, the stain will disappear. Any spot or stain which is on the surface of a material will usually disappear instantly. A spot of long standing may take one or more applications.



Removing spots used to be a chore once, but not any more. Here's an amazing powder stick that whisks away all stains in a matter of minutes.

In case you'd like a larger size stick of the cleaner for home use, you'll find it packaged in a new kit together with two pocket sticks and a small clothes brush.

SPORTS SPLIT DOUBLE HEADER WITH OILERS

Jacobs Hurls 2-Hitter As Monroe Wins 2nd, 5-1

EL DORADO, Ark., May 31 (Special)— The Monroe Sports and the El Dorado Oilers divided a double header here tonight, the Oilers spotting the visitors six run and then winning the opener, 15 to 6, to defeat Darvin Chrisco, second of four Monroe hurlers in the game, and the Sports bunching five runs in the third inning to take the nightcap, 5 to 1.

Ottis "Jake" Jacobs hurled the Sports victory in the second game with a fine two-hitter, but the Oilers bunched two of those with a base on balls for their lone run. Bruce Foster was the El Dorado loser in the nightcap.

Chrisco, previously unbeaten in five games, took his first defeat when he came to the relief of Eugene "Arky" Bowden with the score tied at 6-6 in the first game. Wild Craig Whetstone pitched the sixth for the Sports alowing one hit but five more runs before Manager Charley Harrington came on the mound to stop the Oilers. Bob Ford, last of three El Dorado hurlers in the first contest, was the winner.

The club wind up their series here Sunday afternoon.

It looked like a great night for Sports as the visitors started the first game with six runs in the first inning, but Monroe could score no more while El Dorado gained ground quickly, tying up the game in two innings, going ahead in the third and building the tally with three in the fourth and five more in the sixth.

Bob Sprentall and Nels Daehn drew free passes to start the game. Charley Harrington was hit by a pitched ball after Sprentall was caught off second. John Paul Jones singled, scoring Daehn, and Harrington came on home when the throw-in to the plate was wide. Hal Walther was hit by a pitched ball. Jones Carl Franson singled, scoring Jones and Walther for the night's work for Ed Prevette, starting Oiler hurler. George Andrews greeted Bill Gingerich with a three-run homer and that was the night's scoring for the Sports.

Bowden was soon routed by the Oilers as singles by Jay Jeffries, Petrick, and Dom Chiola, a base on balls to Roxie Henderson and an error by Harrington gave El Dorado three runs. Bowden walked Sanders to start the second, and served up singles to Gingerich, Petrick, and Chiola before being relieved by Chrisco with one out. Humberson grounded out, scoring Petrick with the tying run.

Then the Oilers started to work on Chrisco for one run in the third when Sanders singled and scored on a Jeffries' triple. They got three more in the fourth on walks to Chiola, Austin and Morgan and singles by Sanders and Ford.

Chrisco was pulled out for a pinchhitter in the sixth, and rookie Whetstone was the victim of the final Oiler outburst, principally because of his wildness. Whetstone gave up walks to Austin, Sanders, Petrick and Chiola, hit Jeffries with a pitched ball, served up a triple to Morgan and had an error contributed by Andrews before he was relieved by Manager Harrington who finally retired the side.

Monroe also started the second game with a five-run bulge, picking up the cluster in the third when Sprentall, Jones, Franson, Ray Rogers, and Jacobs got free passes to load the bases at the start of the third. A single by Daehn scored Franson and Rogers. Harrington singled, and Jacobs scored when Don Russell missed the throw-in from center field. Then, with two out, Walther singled, scoring Daehn and Harrington. Daehn's hit finished Foster, and Prevette came to his relief. The run scored by Harrington was charged to the reliefer.

Jeffries drew a walk to open the fourth for El Dorado. Jacobs retired the next two batters, but Humberson delivered a single that scored Jeffries.

Ward Blasts Stranahan, 5 and 3, To Sack British Amateur Crown

Toledo Millionaire Misses Bid For Third Title

PRESTWICK, Scotland (AP)— Young Harvie Ward of Tarboro, N. C., spiked Frank Stranahan's bid for a third British Amateur Golf Championship today when he trounced the Toledo, Ohio, millionaire, 6 and 5, in the scheduled 36-hole all-American finals.

The 26-year-old southern brokerage salesman, former winner of the U. S. Intercollegiate crown, shook off an early case of putting jitters to finish with a spectacular streak of birdies and pars.

He was four under four's—the golfers yardstick of excellence—from the 14th through the 27th holes.

Stranahan, winner of this historic event in 1948 and 1950 and bidding to become the first American ever to win it three times, suffered a streak of wildness off the tee. This proved his undoing.

He missed almost half the fairways, banged into a half dozen bunkers, once drove into a sand dune and repeatedly caught the rough on his drives.

Ward, ignored when the United States was picking its Walker Cup team last year, becomes the 11th American to win this trophy since Jesse Sweetser brought it home in 1926.

This was the third straight all-American final and the fourth in the last six years.

The harassed Stranahan, who couldn't get the bugs out of his driving swing, conceded the match on the 31st green when he was still five feet from the cup in four. Ward, meanwhile, was ten feet away in two.

The handsome new champion, a favorite with Scotch galleries, couldn't make his 15-year-old, pick-ed-up putter behave in the early stages of the match and he missed six putts of under four and a half feet during the first nine holes.

As a result the match was squared five times before Ward went to lunch with a two-hole lead at the halfway point.

He was two down through the 13th before he finally started clicking. Then he won four holes in a row to go two-up and he was never in danger after that.

He went six-up after 27 holes and then it became a matter of how soon the holes would run out for Stranahan, an international player who has his eyes on duplicating Bobby Jones' grand slam of 1930.

While Stranahan was struggling with his tee shots, Ward was down the middle most of the day over the gun-barrel fairways of the 6,531-yard, par 35-37-72 course.

King Jolie Cops Rich Jersey Run

CAMDEN, N. J., May 31 (AP)— King Jolie got up in the final strides today to win the 30,000-added Jersey Stakes by a nose over eprimate at Garden State Park.

A crowd of 27,349 turned out for the final day of the 25-day spring meeting.

King Jolie, ridden by Jimmy Stout and owned by Isadore Bieber, ran the mile and one quarter in 2:03 3-5 over a sloppy track and paid $10.60.

William G. Helis, Jr.'s Topside was third with the Jampol, the odds - on favorite, a well beaten sixth.

Primate went into the lead on the turn into the stretch, but King Jolie surged up from far back to win his fourth straight race and first purse money of $25,850.

MISS RAWLS HIGH IN WEATHERVANE

Berg Closes In With Fast Round; Final Leg Today.

HARTSDALE, N. Y., May 31 (AP)— Defending Champion Patty Berg shot a 74, two over men's par, to lead the last leg of the Trans-Continental Women's Golf Tournament today but Betsy Rawls, Austin, Tex., held a nine stroke edge for the $5,000 first prize.

The final 18 holes of the 144-hole tournament will be played tomorrow over the Deep Dale course at Great Neck, N. Y. A $3,000 prize will go to the winner of the two day New York tournament, with the larger purse going to the tournament champion.

Miss Berg, the redhead from St. Andrews, Ill., had a 34-40-74 over the par 36-36—72 Scarsdale Golf Club course.

Betty Jameson, San Antonio, Tex., shot a 75 for the second best effort of the rainy afternoon and picked up three strokes on Miss Rawls, the National Women's Open champion, who shot a 78 for a 126-hole score of 512.

Miss Jameson is in second place in the overall standings with 521, followed by Louise Suggs, Carrollton, Ga., with 527. Miss Suggs had a 79.

Miss Berg, on her sparkling round today, jumped from eighth to fourth place with a total of 532.

Mrs. Babe Didrikson Zaharias, the first champion in 1950, held second place until she was forced out of the tournament by an operation.

MANGRUM HOLDS FIVE-BLOW EDGE

Locke Pulls Into Second Place In Western Open

ST. LOUIS, May 31 (AP)—Westwood Country Club's stubborn par 70 finally caught up with steady Lloyd Mangrum today, but he stayed even for 54 holes with a 210 to retain his lead in the 49th Western Open Golf Tournament.

As the tourney swings into the fourth and final 18-hole round tomorrow, Bobby Locke, Johannesburg, South Africa, is five strokes back in No. 2 position with a 215 total.

Mangrum, the Chicagoan who cashed bigger checks than any other touring pro last year, stayed on the back nine today to finish with a two-over 72. That gave him a 68-70-72—210.

For Locke the western competition brightened on the third round. He toured the 6,616-yard Westwood course in par, his best round in the competition to jump ahead from yesterday's ninth place standing.

Locke managed to grab second place away from Roberto DeVicenzo of Buenos Aires, Argentina, who like Mangrum, had trouble on the back nine and finished with a 74 that put him in an eight-way tie for third with a 216 score.

With DeVincenzo at 216 is Tommy Bolt, Durham, N. C., who faded quickly after holding the 18-hole lead with Mangrum. Bolt finished with a 75 after being forced to card a two-under 33 on the back nine following his blowup, seven-over 42 going out.

The field, pared to 63 after 36 holes, lost two big names today—Sammy Snead, two - time Western champ and favored for a third crown, and the golfing dentist, Dr. Cary Middlecoff of Memphis.

Middlecoff left after carding a 76 today, his worst round, giving him a 223 for the 54 holes.

Ruhe, Seaward 1-2 In Narcissus Run

CHICAGO, May 31 (AP)—Ruhe and Seaward, racing for the Hasty House farm, ran 1-2 today in the $10,000 Narcissus Handicap on the Lincoln Fields program at Hawthorne.

The crowd of 26,534 was allowed to bet to win only because just five horses ran and Ruhe and Seaward were coupled as an entry. The Hasty House pair was the even-money favorite.

Andy B. W. set the pace of the Narcissus until turning for home. Ruhe and Seaward then ganged up on him.

Ruhe, ridden by Johnny Adams, scored by two lengths. Seaward was three-parts of a length in advance of Andy B. W. Dr. Ole Nelson and Torch Of Iran trailed.

The entry paid $4 and the time for a mile and a sixteenth over a good track was 1:45 3-5.

PETER PAN 'CAP TO ARMAGEDDON

One-Eyed Colt Pays $12.90; Golden Gloves Second

NEW YORK, May 31 (AP)— Armageddon, the one-eyed bay son of Alsab, churned through the slop of Belmont Park today to catch the pace - setting Golden Gloves in a relentless stretch drive and win the $25,600 Peter Pan Handicap.

The three - year - old colt, from Harry F. Guggenheim's Cain Hoy stable, thus qualified handsomely for the $100,000 Belmont Stakes here one week from today.

Golden Gloves, from William Woodward's Belair stud, set a scorching pace from the outset, with Armageddon, named for the biblical battle, close on his heels.

But Ray York, the 20-year-old Gloucester, Mass., jockey, got the Cain Hoy colt's head in front an eighth of a mile from home in a furious drive, and as Golden Gloves began to tire, Armageddon turned it on to pull away and grab first money of $18,350 by two lengths.

Golden Gloves, ridden by Nick Wall, was another two lengths ahead of Quiet Step from B. H. Heiman's Apheim stable.

Armageddon was clocked in a blazing 1:48 3-5 on a sloppy track for the mile and one-eighth.

The track record is 1:47 4-5, set last year by Counterpoint in the same race.

The crowd of 35,479 almost overlooked Armageddon, although the colt has won five races. Four have been on his favorite Belmont strip. Armageddon paid $12.90, $7.40 and $5.50, with Golden Gloves $5.80, and $4.60 and Quiet Step, $5.60.

Olympic, the English-bred colt now owned by Fred W. Hooper, was fourth, followed by the 3 to 1 favorite, the Myhelyn stable's Master Fiddle, Montpelier farm's Pintor, and Hal Price Headley's Cajun.

SPORTS SPLIT DOUBLE HEADER WITH OILERS

Jacobs Hurls 2-Hitter As Monroe Wins 2nd, 5-1

EL DORADO, Ark., May 31 (Special)— The Monroe Sports and the El Dorado Oilers divided a double header here tonight, the Oilers spotting the visitors six run and then winning the opener, 15 to 6, to defeat Darvin Chrisco, second of four Monroe hurlers in the game, and the Sports bunching five runs in the third inning to take the nightcap, 5 to 1.

Ottis "Jake" Jacobs hurled the Sports victory in the second game with a fine two-hitter, but the Oilers bunched two of those with a base on balls for their lone run. Bruce Foster was the El Dorado loser in the nightcap.

Chrisco, previously unbeaten in five games, took his first defeat when he came to the relief of Eugene "Arky" Bowden with the score tied at 6-6 in the first game. Wild Craig Whetstone pitched the sixth for the Sports alowing one hit but five more runs before Manager Charley Harington came to the mound to stop the Oilers. Bob Ford, last of three El Dorado hurlers in the first contest, was the winner.

The club wind up their series here Sunday afternoon.

It looked like a great night for Sports as the visitors started the first game with six runs in the first inning, but Monroe could score no more while El Dorado gained ground quickly, tying up the game in two innings, going ahead in the third and building the tally with three in the fourth and five more in the sixth.

Bob Sprentall and Nels Daehn drew free passes to start the game. Charley Harrington was hit by a pitched ball after Sprentall was caught off second. John Paul Jones singled, scoring Daehn, and Harrington came on home when the throw-in to the plate was wide. Hal Walther was hit by a pitched ball. Carl Franson singled, scoring Jones and finishing the night's work for Ed Prevette, starting Oiler hurler. George Andrews greeted Bill Gingerich with a three-run homer and that was the night's scoring for the Sports.

Bowden was soon routed by the Oilers as singles by Jay Jeffries, Petrick, and Dom Chiola, a base on balls to Roxie Henderson and an error by Harrington gave El Dorado three runs. Bowden walked Sanders to start the second, and served up singles to Gingerich, Petrick, and Chiola before being relieved by Chrisco with one out. Humberson grounded out, scoring Petrick with the tying run.

Then the Oilers started to work on Chrisco for one run in the third when Sanders singled and scored on a Jeffries' triple. They got three more in the fourth on walks to Chiola, Austin and Morgan and singles by Sanders and Ford.

Chrisco was pulled out for a pinchhitter in the sixth, and rookie Whetstone was the victim of the final Oiler outburst, principally because of his wildness. Whetstone gave up walks to Austin, Sanders, Petrick and Chiola, hit Jeffries with a pitched ball, served up a triple to Morgan and had an error contributed by Andrews before he was relieved by Manager Harrington who finally retired the side.

Monroe also started the second game with a five-run bulge, picking up the cluster in the third inning. Franson, Ray Rogers, and Jacobs got free passes to load the bases at the start of the third. A single by Daehn scored Franson and Rogers. Harrington singled, and Jacobs scored when Don Russell missed the throw-in from center field. Then, with two out, Walther singled, scoring Daehn and Harrington. Daehn's hit finished Foster, and Prevette came to his relief. The run scored by Harrington was charged to the relief.

Jeffries drew a walk to open the fourth for El Dorado. Jacobs retired the next two batters, but Humberson delivered a single that scored Jeffries.

Ward Blasts Stranahan, 5 and 3, To Sack British Amateur Crown

Toledo Millionaire Misses Bid For Third Title

PRESTWICK, Scotland (AP)— Young Harvie Ward of Tarboro, N. C., spiked Frank Stranahan's bid for a third British Amateur Golf Championship today when he trounced the Toledo, Ohio, millionaire, 6 and 5, in the scheduled 36-hole all-American finals.

The 26-year-old southern brokerage salesman, former winner of the U. S. Intercollegiate crown, shook off an early case of putting jitters to finish with a spectacular streak of birdies and pars.

He was four under four's—the golfers yardstick of excellence—from the 14th through the 27th holes.

Stranahan, winner of this historic event in 1948 and 1950 and bidding to become the first American ever to win it three times, suffered a streak of wildness off the tee. This proved his undoing.

He missed almost half the fairways, banged into a half dozen bunkers, once drove into a sand dune and repeatedly caught the rough on his drives.

Ward, ignored when the United States was picking its Walker Cup team last year, becomes the 11th American to win this trophy since Jesse Sweetser brought it home in 1926.

This was the third straight all-American final and the fourth in the last six years.

The harassed Stranhan, who couldn't get the bugs out of his driving swing, conceded the match on the 31st green when he was still five feet from the cup in four. Ward, meanwhile, was ten feet away in two.

The handsome new champion, a favorite with Scotch galleries, couldn't make his 15-year-old, picked-up putter behave in the early stages of the match and he missed six putts of under four and a half feet during the first nine holes.

As a result the match was squared five times before Ward went to lunch with a two-hole lead at the halfway point.

He was two down through the 13th before he finally started clicking. Then he won four holes in a row to go two-up and he was never in danger after that.

He went six-up after 27 holes and then it became a matter of how soon the holes would run out for Stranahan, an international player who has his eyes on duplicating Bobby Jones' grand slam of 1930.

While Stranahan was struggling with his tee shots, Ward was down the middle most of the day over the gun-barrel fairways of the 6,531-yard, par 35-37-72 course.

MANGRUM HOLDS FIVE-BLOW EDGE

Locke Pulls Into Second Place In Western Open

ST. LOUIS, May 31 (AP)—Westwood Country Club's stubborn par 70 finally caught up with steady Lloyd Mangrum today, but he stayed even for 54 holes with a 210 to retain his lead in the 49th Western Open Golf Tournament.

As the tourney swings into the fourth and final 18-hole round tomorrow, Bobby Locke, Johannesburg, South Africa, is five strokes back in No. 2 position with a 215 total.

Mangrum, the Chicagoan who cashed bigger checks than any other touring pro last year, stayed on the back nine today to finish with a two-over 72. That gave him a 68-70-72—210.

For Locke the western competition brightened on the third round. He toured the 6,616-yard Westwood course in par, his best round in the competition to jump ahead from yesterday's ninth place standing.

Locke managed to grab second place away from Roberto DeVicenzo of Buenos Aires, Argentina, who like Mangrum, had trouble on the back nine and finished with a 74 that put him in an eight-way tie for third with a 216 score.

With DeVincenzo at 216 is Tommy Bolt, Durham, N. C., who faded quickly after holding the 18-hole lead with Mangrum. Bolt finished with a 75 after being forced to card a two-under 33 on the back nine following his blowup, seven-over 42 going out.

The field, pared to 63 after 36 holes, lost two big names today—Sammy Snead, two - time Western champ and favored for a third crown, and the golfing dentist, Dr. Cary Middlecoff of Memphis.

Middlecoff left after carding a 76 today, his worst round, giving him a 223 for the 54 holes.

Ruhe, Seaward 1-2 In Narcissus Run

CHICAGO, May 31 (AP)—Ruhe and Seaward, racing for the Hasty House farm, ran 1-2 today in the $10,000 Narcissus Handicap on the Lincoln Fields program at Hawthorne.

The crowd of 26,534 was allowed to bet to win only because just five horses ran and Ruhe and Seaward were coupled as an entry. The Hasty House pair was the even-money favorite.

Andy B. W. set the pace of the Narcissus until turning for home. Ruhe and Seaward then ganged up on him.

Ruhe, ridden by Johnny Adams, scored by two lengths. Seaward was three-parts of a length in advance of Andy B. W. Dr. Ole Nelson and Torch Of Iran trailed.

The entry paid $4 and the time for a mile and a sixteenth over a good track was 1:45 3-5.

Leading hitters for Reed's were Thomas, with two for two, and Kirkens, with two for three. McNabb took three of The Palace's four hits on four trips to the plate. Henry caught for Altick, and McKeller caught for Murphy.

In the second game KNOE used three pitchers, Harper, Boyd and Kincaid, and gave up five hits as they went down, 15 to 7. Gallien, United Gas, also loosed five hits pitching to Lawson. Cobb caught for KNOE, and Harper, with two for three, and Kincaid, with two for four, led KNOE's hitting. Aulds led for United Gas with three for four.

Winding up the opening day proceedings was Lennon Motor's 21 to 10 win over Olcott-Stone. PETER PAN 'CAP TO ARMAGEDDON

One-Eyed Colt Pays $12.90; Golden Gloves Second

NEW YORK, May 31 (AP)— Armageddon, the one-eyed bay son of Alsab, churned through the slop of Belmont Park today to catch the pace - setting Golden Gloves in a relentless stretch drive and win the $25,600 Peter Pan Handicap.

The three - year - old colt, from Harry F. Guggenheim's Cain Hoy stable, thus qualified handsomely for the $100,000 Belmont Stakes here one week from today.

Golden Gloves, from William Wondward's Belair stud, set a scorching pace from the outset, with Armageddon, named for the biblical battle, close on his heels.

But Ray York, the 20-year-old Gloucester, Mass., jockey, got the Cain Hoy colt's head in front an eighth of a mile from home in a furious drive, and as Golden Gloves began to tire, Armageddon turned it on to pull away and grab first money of $18,350 by two lengths.

Golden Gloves, ridden by Nick Wall, was another two lengths ahead of Quiet Step from B. H. Heiman's Apheim stable.

Armageddon was clocked in a blazing 1:48 3-5 on a sloppy track for the mile and one-eighth.

The track record is 1:47 4-5, set last year by Counterpoint in the same race.

The crowd of 35,479 almost overlooked Armageddon, although the colt has won five races. Four have been on his favorite Belmont strip. Armageddon paid $12.90, $7.40 and $5.50, with Golden Gloves $5.80, and $4.60 and Quiet Step, $5.60.

Olympic, the English-bred colt now owned by Fred W. Hooper, was fourth, followed by the 3 to 1 favorite, the Myhelyn stable's Master Fiddle, Montpelier farm's Pintor, and Hal Price Headley's Cajun.

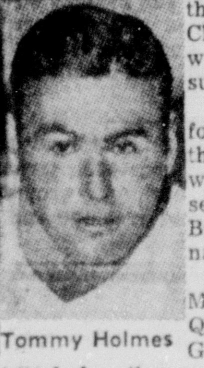
BRAVES FIRE HOLMES; GRIMM NEW MANAGER

FORMER SKIPPER OF CHICAGO CUBS MOVES IN TODAY

Boston Nationals Plan To Keep Tommy In Organization

By RALPH RODEN

NEW YORK, May 31 (AP)—Tommy Holmes was fired today as manager of the Boston Braves, a job he held less than a year, and Charley Grimm was named as his successor.



Tommy Holmes

The 53-year-old former pilot of the Chicago Cubs will take over the seventh place Braves in Cincinnati tomorrow.

Brave General Manager John Quinn said that Grimm had been signed for the remainder of the present season and also for 1953. He refused to reveal salary terms.

Quinn said that Holmes would be retained in some capacity in the Boston organization.

Charlie Grimm

Grimm, an outstanding National League first baseman from 1919 to 1936, is boss of the Braves' Milwaukee team in the American Association. He led the Brewers to first place and playoff championship last year.

The fun-loving new leader of the Braves began his managerial career in 1932 when he replaced Rogers Hornsby as manager of the Cubs in mid-season. The Cubs went on to win the pennant.

Quinn said: "We have a lot of regard for Tommy Holmes. But we felt Holmes needed more experience. We selected Grimm because Charley has that experience and background, both as a manager in the majors and the minors."

Holmes managed the braves since last June 2, replacing Billy Southworth. He was the Braves' Hartford club in the Eastern League, his first venture as a manager following nine seasons as a Boston outfielder.

Quinn, asked if there would be any changes in Boston's playing personnel, said, "I couldn't answer that until we have a talk with Charlie. I don't know if he plans to bring up any of his youngsters from Milwaukee."

Quinn added that Red Smith, Milwaukee coach and one of Grimm's buddies, would manage Milwaukee until a successor is named there.

It was the first managerial change since the start of the 1952 season.

Grimm has managed the Chicago Cubs twice before and has been boss at Milwaukee twice. The Brewers currently are in first place.

After winning the 1932 pennant with the Cubs, he finished third in both 1933 and 1934 and then won another pennant in 1935 when he was both manager and vice-president.

He resigned as vice-president in 1936 but continued to boss the Cubs until July 20, 1938, when he suddenly was relieved of command in favor of Gabby Harnett. Hartnett spurred the team to the pennant, beating out Pittsburgh in the last week of the season.

Charlie was signed as a radio commentator but in late 1940 he returned to the Cubs as coach under Manager Jim Wilson. During the 1941 season he asked for and obtained his release in order to manage Milwaukee.

It was at Milwaukee where Bill Veeck was the boss that Grimm enjoyed his greatest success. He piloted the Brewers to a pennant and one runner-up spot. He had the Brewers in first place in 1944 when he returned to his first love, the Cubs. He succeeded Wilson as manager on May 7.

The following season he brought Chicago its first pennant in seven years but after that season the fortunes of the Cubs declined. They finished third, sixth and eighth the next three seasons and on June 1949, Grimm once again was relieved of command when Frankie Frisch took over and Grimm moved into the front office as vice-president in charge of baseball operations.

But the front office was no place for Charlie. On Jan. 6, 1950, he resigned his $25,000 a year job and accepted an offer from wealthy Dick Burnett to manage Dallas of the Texas League. Grimm signed a three year contract calling for $90,000.

During the 1950 season Grimm quit his job at Dallas and shortly thereafter signed to manage Milwaukee.

Monroe's Bob Sprentall Threatens Rasmussen For Batting Leadership

Nels Daehn, Jesse Van Winkle Hitting In .300 Class

By J. P. FRIEND

Blytheville, Ark., May 31. (Special)—Wally Rasmussen, Hot Springs outfielder, had three points shaved from his batting average during the week ending May 27, but remained at the head of the Cotton States League swatsters with a mark of .348, despite another wholesale reshuffle of positions.

Bob Sprentall, returning to the loop wearing the livery of the surging Monroe Sports, took over second place with .340, as a result of 47-16 including a building nine-game hit skein.

John Tidwell's mace mark skidded four decimals to .339 and forced him to drop from runner-up to third. But the Greenwood outfielder is showing the way in triples, six, total bases, 72, and runs batted in, in addition to being tied with Monroe's "Tex" Jones in hits, each with 43.

Nels Daehn, Monroe thumper who led the league in hitting earlier in the season, showed signs of regaining his sharp batting eye with 23-9, and moved from 11th to fourth on the crest of a 16-point boost to .330.

Gene Harvey Natchez's new third baseman, earned No. 5 spot with a rousing .328 figure to signal his advent into the league. One of his 20 connections sailed over the fence with the bases crammed with anxious Indians. Nick Siemasz, Greenwood fly chaser, continued his impressive plate work with six straight games of hitting and moved up a couple of pegs with .326, as compared to .318 a week ago. Jess Van Winkle, Monroe middle man, was downed to seventh with .317, followed by Troy Mitchell, Natchez., 306; and Hillis Layne Pine Bluff skipper, who snowballed from .330 to .306, and from third to tenth in the hit standings.

Only three others managed to survive the brilliant pitching long enough to stay within the .300 circle: Bob Hale, Pine Bluff, .304, in comparison to .324 and fifth a week ago; Lou Polubiatka, who swapped his Greenwood uniform for that of Greenville, .303, up from .262; and Tommy Davis, Meridian manager, who no doubt is letting his slipping Millers affect his work at bat, .301. Those who lost their membership cards during the week included: Dolf Regelsky (.299); Jones (.295); Bill Lewis, Meridian (.291); Joe Stern, Hot Springs, (.291), and Lyle Shaw Pine Bluff (.264).

Monroe's Hal Walther clubbed a pair of doubles along with nine singles and a triple and took over the lead in two baggers with an even dozen. He added 42 points to his batting average while doing it, too. Regelaky and Roxie Humberson, El Dorado, have five homers apiece. One of the Oiler third baseman's was a grand slammer. Marty Devlin, Greenwood, leads the base stealers with 11.

After five weeks the teams have not figured out a way to turn back Laverne Schneider, Pine Bluff ace righthander, who has racked up eight wins in a row. Bobby Harrison, Meridian youth, has six triumphs without defeat. Darvin (The Chrisco Kid) Chrisco, has four victories and won five complete games since rejoining his old Monroe mates. He has four losses. Bruce Foste, El Dorado; Jim Hogan, Hot Springs' new lefty, and Hoffman, Greenwood, have 2-0. Others with fine pitching records include: Joe Kopach, Meridian, 6-1; John Miskulin, Natchez, 7-2; George Bielik, El Dorado, 6-2; Ottis Jacobs, Monroe, and Bill Hobbs, Pine Bluff. .5-2. John Forizs, Greenwood, has fanned 86 while breaking even in eight decisions. A teammate, Danny McDevitt, is second with 69. Dave Bardin, Natchez, has hurled consecutive shutouts his last two times out. Bielik also has two.

TIGHTENING UP

RUSTON, La., May 31 (Special)—Play in the pennant race of the Big eight League is being clamping down Sunday as the contending clubs start calling on the talents of athletes representing 15 colleges, the big show coming in Sunday's Bastrop - Ruston game. The Ruston Ramblers have five players from the University of Alabama. Bastrop's Barons have two Tulane stars and one from Spring Hill of Alabama.

League President L. J. Fox disclosed today that Seth Morehead, a Byrd High School of Shreveport athlete who had been pitching for the Minden Red Birds has been lost to the league as he signed a bonus contract calling for $50,000 with the Philadelphia Phillies. Morehead reports to Wilmington, Del., Tuesday. But the Birds still have Raymond Taliaferro, S. L. I. star, and Lefty Brandon to head a classy mound staff.

WHITE SOX SLUG RED HOSE, 7 TO 3

Mels Sparks Win With 2 Homers; Grissom In 5-Hitter

BOSTON, May 31 (AP)—Sam Mele clouted two homers as Marvin Grissom's five - hit pitching gave the Chicago White Sox their eighth victory in nine starts today with a 7-3 decision over the Boston Red Sox.

Mele hit his first four-bagger in the fourth inning to give the White Sox a 1-0 lead over Boston starter and loser Ray Scarborough. Sam clouted the second homer — his sixth four - bagger of the season — to launch a five-run outburst in the sixth frame.

After Sherm Lollar followed Mele with a double, Scarborough was replaced by Randy Gumpert. The Red Sox had to call upon two other flingers to put down the uprising, which had 10 Chicago batters as participants.

Gumpert aggravated matters by passing the first two men to face him, thereby loading the bases. Ivan Delock then took over and struck out Grissom. Then singles by Chico Carrasquel and Nelson Fox, plus an error, enabled three more Chicago runners to score.

The bases continued jammed when Delock gave way to Bill Wight. The latter hit Ed Robinson with a pitched ball to force in another Chicago tally and then settled down fairly well for the remainder of the game.

Wight gave the White Sox their seventh run in the eight when Carrasquel collected his fourth single in five tries and romped home while Fox, who had doubled to right center, was being trapped by Faye Throneberry's throw - in to Billy Goodman.

Grissom was nicked for two Boston runs in the fifth when Fred Hatfield sandwiched a two - bagger between singles by Vern Stephens and Scarborough. Walt Dropo banged his sixth 1952 homer for the other Boston run in the seventh.

Hogan Shoots 71 For National Golf; Dozen Monroe Linksmen Beat Champ

Bantam Benny Will Find Plenty With Better Scores

DALLAS, May 31 (AP)—Ben Hogan, the National Open champion, shot a par 71 today then sat back and watched the returns come in on those "Who Beat Ben Hogan."

The little man who will defend his title June 12-14 over Northwood course here, admitted he was bogeyed a hole they stamped out a new medal."

It was National Golf Day when every golfer in America and Canada who beat Hogan's score got a medal. Those who played—and an estimated 300,000 did—paid $1 apiece to the USO and National Golf Fund.

Hogan played the normal Northwood course of 6,811 yards with a 36-35 par. For the Open it will be 47 yards shorter and have a 35-35—70 par.

He did the first nine in two-under-par 34 with birdies on No. 2, where he sank a four-footer, and No. 4, where he pushed in a 25-footer. But on the back nine he was over par on three holes. On No. 11 he missed on his iron shot to the green but would have parred that hole if he had sunk a four-foot putt. He three-putted No. 13 and pulled his tee shot on 16. Here his second shot was from against a tree. He bogied No. 12 with a 15-foot putt.

Hogan missed several shot putts. For instances, on No. 5 his ball stopped an inch short, he rimmed the cup on No. 8 and was just a foot short on No. 17.

After the round he was interviewed over the radio, describing his round and hearing reports from over the country on those "who beat Ben Hogan". Scores as low as 58 (counting handicaps) were reported.

Hogan was resigned to being beaten by thousands of people before he shot his round. Many were playing with handicaps and on easy courses.

Two Women Among Medal Winners On Course Here

An even dozen Monroe golfers, including two women, will be sporting "I Beat Ben Hogan" medals soon, and at least one family will claim two. They turned the trick against the defending National Open champion yesterday with the aid of their handicaps in play over the Bayou DeSiard Country Club here.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. McMahan, Monroe, were the family combination to beat the even par 71 posted by Hogan who was playing the Northwood course at Dallas, Tex., against a Nationnl Golf Day crowd throughout the United States and Canada.

Here's Monroe's "I Beat Ben Hogan" members with their net scores:

1. Dr. Frank Rizzo, 61.
2. Harold Woods, Jr., 61.
3. R. J. Skilman, 62.
4. Jerry Sugar, 63.
5. Mrs. C. B. McMahan, 63.
6. E. S. "Shep" Girault, 65.
7. Mrs. E. T. Lamkin, 69.
8. W. S. Shafto, 69.
9. Robert Guerriero, 69.
10. W. A. "Bill" Jones, 69.
11. C. B. McMahan, 70.
12. Bill Junod, 70.

Fifty golfers of this area participated in the day-long event over the 18-hole Bayou DeSiard course.

As an added attraction at Bayou DeSiard, "Shep" Girault defeated Herbert H. Land, 4 and 2, in the finals of the Cramer Haas Memorial Tournament.

And today unplayed first round matches in the Bayou's Club Championship Tournament will be completed.

First bracket—W. A. Jones vs. H. L. Woods, Sr., "Sonny" Richards vs. Curtis Nichols, E. S. Girault vs. Charles Siess, Ed Shaver vs. E. W. McGlone, and Wayne Woods vs. Dr. D. L. Anderson.

Rain Cancels Westlake Homer Against Bruins

CHICAGO, May 31 (AP)—The Game between the Cincinnati Reds and Chicago Cubs was postponed because of rain today after the two teams had played 16 minutes.

Time was called in the second inning after Cincinnati half of the second inning after Wally Westlake had hit his second homer of the season for a 1-0 Redleg lead. The rain came with one Redleg out. After a 45-minute wait, the game was called.

It was rescheduled as the opener of a double header at Wrigley Field Aug. 13. First inning singles by Bob Borkowski and Bobby Adams of the Reds, and a single by Bob Ramazzotti of the Cubs, were cancelled along with Westlake's homer.

BUCS NOSE PAST PHILLIES, 5 TO 3

Joe Muir Hurls Two-Hitter For Second Win Of Year

PITTSBURGH, May 31 (AP)—Southpaw Joe Muir, who balked at being sent to the minors, won his second game of the year today as the Pittsburgh Pirates edged the Philadelphia Phillies 5-3 in the finale of a three-game series.

Muir gave up only two hits, a single to Connie Ryan and a home run to Willie Jones, before he was forced to leave the game after five innings for a blister on his pitching hand. Forrest Main finished for the Bucs. He allowed one run and two hits.

Big Ralph Kiner, his ailing back apparently on the mend, smashed his sixth home run of the season over the left field score board in the seventh inning for the Pirates final tally.

The Pirates put together three hits and a walk for three runs in the fifth inning and added the fourth tally in the sixth on George Strickland's single, a stolen base and a deep fly.

Jones' sixth home run of the year after Ryan singled in the third frame gave the Phillies a 2-0 bulge until the Pirates three-run rally in the fifth. Two of the Pirates hits in the fifth inning were bunts and caught the Phillies infield napping.

Lou Possehl, making his first start of the season, was charged with the loss. Andy Hansen, third of four Philadelphia Hurlers, hurt his pitching arm and had to leave the game eighth inning.

Richie Ashburn, fleet - footed Phillies outfielder, was benched by Manager Eddie Sawyer but broke into the game in the seventh inning and collected a double.

BRAVES FIRE HOLMES; GRIMM NEW MANAGER

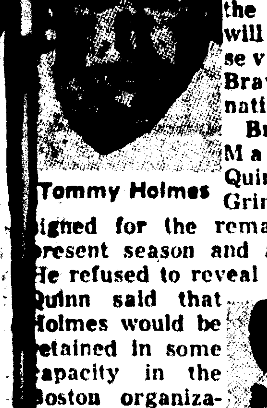
Boston Nationals Plan To Keep Tommy In Organization

By RALPH RODEN

NEW YORK, May 31 (AP)—Tommy Holmes was fired today as manager of the Boston Braves, a job he had held less than a year, and Charley Grimm was named as his successor.

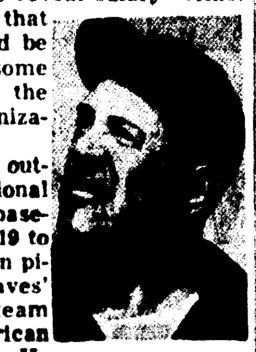


Tommy Holmes

The 53-year-old former pilot of the Chicago Cubs will take over the seventh place Braves in Cincinnati tomorrow.

Brave General Manager John Quinn said that Grimm had been signed for the remainder of the present season and also for 1953. He refused to reveal salary terms.

Quinn said that Holmes would be retained in some capacity in the Boston organization.



Charlie Grimm

Grimm, an outstanding National League first baseman from 1919 to 1933, had been pilot of the Braves' Milwaukee team in the American Association. He led the Brewers to the pennant and playoff championship last year.

The fun-loving new leader of the Braves began his managerial career in 1932 when he replaced Rogers Hornsby as manager of the Cubs in mid-season. The Cubs went on to win the pennant.

Quinn said: "We have a lot of regard for Tommy Holmes. But we felt Holmes needed more experience. We selected Grimm because Charley has that experience and background, both as a manager in the majors and the minors."

Holmes managed the braves since last June 2, replacing Billy as pilot of the Braves' Hartford club in the Eastern League, his first venture as a manager following nine seasons as a Boston outfielder.

Quinn, asked if there would be any changes in Boston's playing personnel, said, "I couldn't answer that until we have a talk with Charlie. I don't know if he plans to bring up any of his youngsters from Milwaukee."

Quinn added that Red Smith, Milwaukee coach and one of Grimm's buddies, would manage Milwaukee until a successor is named there.

It was the first managerial change since the start of the 1952 season.

Grimm has managed the Chicago Cubs twice before and has been boss at Milwaukee twice. The Brewers currently are in first place.

After winning the 1932 pennant with the Cubs, he finished third in both 1933 and 1934 and then won another pennant in 1935 when he was both manager and vice-president.

He resigned as vice-president in 1936 but continued to boss the Cubs until July 20, 1938, when he suddenly was relieved of command in favor of Gabby Hartnett. Hartnett spurred the team to the pennant, beating out Pittsburgh in the last week of the season.

Charlie was signed as a radio commentator but in late 1940 he returned to the Cubs as coach under Manager Jim Wilson. During the 1941 season he asked for and obtained his release in order to manage Milwaukee.

It was at Milwaukee where Bill Veeck was the boss that Grimm enjoyed his greatest success. He led the Brewers to a pennant and one runner-up spot. He had the Brewers in first place in 1944 when he returned to his first love, the Cubs. He succeeded Wilson as manager on May 7.

The following season he brought Chicago its first pennant in seven years but after that season the fortunes of the Cubs declined. They finished third, sixth and eighth the next three seasons and on June 11, 1949, Grimm once again was relieved of command. Frankie Frisch took over and Grimm moved into the front office as vice-president in charge of baseball operations.

But the front office was no place for Charlie. On Jan. 6, 1950, he resigned his $25,000 a year job and accepted an offer from wealthy Dick Burnett to manage Dallas of the Texas League. Grimm signed a three year contract calling for $90,000.

Following the 1950 season Grimm quit his job at Dallas and shortly thereafter signed to manage Milwaukee.

Monroe's Bob Sprentall Threatens Rasmnssen For Batting Leadership

Nels Daehn, Jesse Van Winkle Hitting In .300 Class

By J. P. FRIEND

Blytheville, Ark., May 31. (Special)—Wally Rasmussen, Hot Springs outfielder, had three points shaved from his batting average during the week ending May 27, but remained at the head of the Cotton States League swatsters with a mark of .348, despite another wholesale reshuffle of positions.

Bob Sprentall, returning to the loop wearing the livery of the surging Monroe Sports, took over second place with .340, as a result of 47-16 including a building nine-game bat skein.

John Tidwell's mace mark skidded four decimals to .339 and forced him to drop from runner-up to third. But the Greenwood outfielder is showing the way in triples, six, total bases, 72, and runs batted in, in addition to being tied with Monroe's "Tex" Jones in hits, each with 43.

Nels Daehn, Monroe thumper who led the league in hitting earlier in the season, showed signs of regaining his sharp batting eye with 23-9, and moved from 11th to fourth on the crest of a 16-point boost to .330.

Gene Harvey Natchez's new third baseman, earned No. 5 spot with a rousing .328 figure to signal his advent into the league. One of his 20 connections sailed over the fence with the bases crammed with anxious Indians. Nick Siemasz, Greenwood fly chaser, continued his impressive plate work with six straight games of hitting and moved up a couple of pegs with .326, as compared to .318 a week ago. Jess Van Winkle, Monroe middle man, was downed to seventh with .317, followed by Troy Mitchell, Natchez.. 306; and Hillis Layne Pine Bluff skipper, who snowballed from .330 to .306, and from third to tenth in the hit standings.

Only three others managed to survive the brilliant pitching long enough to stay within the .300 circle: Bob Hale, Pine Bluff, .304, in comparison to .324 and fifth a week ago; Lou Polubiatka, who swapped his Greenwood uniform for that of Greenville, .303, up from .262; and Tommy Davis, Meridian manager, who no doubt is letting his slipping Millers affect his work at bat, .301. Those who lost their membership cards during the week included: Dolf Regelsky (.299); Jones (.295); Bill Lewis, Meridian (.291); Joe Stern, Hot Springs, (.291), and Lyle Shaw Pine Bluff (.264).

Monroe's Hal Walther clubbed a pair of doubles along with nine singles and a triple and took over the lead in two baggers with an even dozen. He added 42 points to his batting average while doing it, too. Regelsky and Roxie Humberson, El Dorado, have five homers apiece. One of the Oiler third baseman's was a grand slammer. Marty Devlin, Greenwood, leads the base stealers with 11.

After five weeks the teams have not figured out a way to turn back Laverne Schneider, Pine Bluff ace righthander, who has racked up eight wins in a row. Bobby Harrison, Meridian youth, has six triumphs without defeat. Darvin (The Chrisco Kid) Chrisco, has hurled and won five complete games since rejoining his old Monroe mates. He has not been beaten. Bruce Foste, El Dorado; Jim Hogan, Hot Springs' new lefty, and Hoffman, Greenwood, have 2-0. Others with fine pitching records include: Joe Kopach, Meridian, 6-1; John Miskulin, Natchez, 7-2; George Bielik, El Dorado, 6-2; Ottis Jacobs, Monroe, and Bill Hobbs, Pine Bluff. .5-2. John Forizs, Greenwood, has fanned 86 while breaking even in eight decisions. A teammate, Danny McDevitt, is second with 69. Dave Bardin, Natchez, has hurled consecutive shutouts his last two times out. Bielik also has two.

TIGHTENING UP

RUSTON, La., May 31 (Special)—Play in the pennant race of the Big eight League begins clamping down Sunday as the contending clubs start calling on the talents of athletes representing 15 colleges, the big show coming in Sunday's Bastrop - Ruston game. The Ruston Ramblers have five players from the University of Alabama. Bastrop's Barons have two Tulane stars and one from Spring Hill of Alabama.

League President L. J. Fox disclosed today that Seth Morehead, a Byrd High School of Shreveport athlete who had been pitching for the Minden Red Birds has been lost to the league as he signed a bonus contract calling for $50,000 with the Philadelphia Phillies. Morehead reports to Wilmington, Del., Tuesday. But the Birds still have Raymond Taliaferro, S. L. I. star, and Lefty Branden to head a classy mound staff.

WHITE SOX SLUG RED HOSE, 7 TO 3

Mels Sparks Win With 2 Homers; Grissom In 5-Hitter

BOSTON, May 31 (AP)—Sam Mele clouted two homers as Marvin Grissom's five - hit pitching gave the Chicago White Sox their eighth victory in nine starts today with a 7-3 decision over the Boston Red Sox.

Mele hit his first four-bagger in the fourth inning to give the White Sox a 1-0 lead over Boston starter and loser Ray Scarborough. Sam clouted the second homer — his sixth four - bagger of the season—to launch a five-run outburst in the sixth frame.

After Sherm Lollar followed Mele with a double, Scarborough was replaced by Randy Gumpert. The Red Sox had to call upon two other flingers to put down the uprising, which had 10 Chicago batters as participants.

Gumpert aggravated matters by passing the first two men to face him, thereby loading the bases. Ivan Delock then took over and struck out Grissom. Then singles by Chico Carrasquel and Nelson Fox, plus an error, enabled three more Chicago runners to score.

The bases continued jammed when Delock gave way to Bill Wight. The latter hit Ed Robinson with a pitched ball to force in another Chicago tally and then settled down fairly well for the remainder of the game.

Wight gave the White Sox their seventh run in the eight when Carrasquel collected his fourth single in five tries and romped home while Fox, who had doubled to right center, was being trapped by Faye Throneberry's throw - in to Billy Goodman.

Grissom was nicked for two Boston runs in the fifth when Fred Hatfield sandwiched a two - bagger between singles by Vern Stephens and Scarborough. Walt Dropo banged his sixth 1952 homer for the other Boston run in the seventh.

Hogan Shoots 71 For National Golf; Dozen Monroe Linksmen Beat Champ

Bantam Benny Will Find Plenty With Better Scores

DALLAS, May 31 (AP)—Ben Hogan, the National Open champion, shot a par 71 today then sat back and watched the returns come in on those "Who Beat Ben Hogan."

The little man who will defend his title June 12-14 over Northwood course here, where he shot his 71 today, said "Every time I bogeyed a hole they stamped out a new medal."

It was National Golf Day when every golfer in America and Canada who beat Hogan's score got a medal. Those who played—and an estimated 300,000 did—paid $1 apiece to the USO and National Golf Fund.

Hogan played the normal Northwood course of 6,811 yards with a 36-35 par. For the Open it will be 47 yards shorter and have a 35-35—70 par.

He did the first nine in two-under-par 34 with birdies on No. 2, where he sank a four-footer, and No. 4, where he pushed in a 25-footer. But on the back nine he was over par on three holes. On No. 11 he missed on his iron shot to the green but would have parred that hole if he had sunk a four-foot putt. He three-putted No. 13 and pulled his tee shot on 16. Here his second shot was from against a tree. He birdied No. 12 with a 15-foot putt.

Hogan missed several shot putts. For instances, on No. 5 his ball stopped an inch short, he rimmed the cup on No. 8 and was just a foot short on No. 17.

After the round he was interviewed over the radio, describing his round and hearing reports from over the country on those "who beat Ben Hogan." Scores as low as 58 (counting handicaps) were reported.

Hogan was resigned to being beaten by thousands of people before he shot his round. Many were playing with handicaps and on easy courses.

Hogan's card:

Par Out	454	435	443—36
Hogan Out	444	335	443—34
Par In	443	454	344	35	71
Hogan In	452	554	444	37	71

Two Women Among Medal Winners On Course Here

An even dozen Monroe golfers, including two women, will be sporting "I Beat Ben Hogan" medals soon, and at least one family will claim two. They turned the trick against the defending National Open champion yesterday with the aid of their handicaps in play over the Bayou DeSiard Country Club here.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. McMahan, Monroe, were the family combination to beat the even par 71 posted by Hogan who was playing the Northwood course at Dallas, Tex., against a Nationnl Golf Day crowd throughout the United States and Canada.

Here's Monroe's "I Beat Ben Hogan" members with their net scores:

1. Dr. Frank Rizzo, 61.
2. Harold Woods, Jr., 61.
3. R. J. Skilman, 62.
4. Jerry Sugar, 63.
5. Mrs. C. B. McMahan, 63.
6. E. S. "Shep" Girault, 68.
7. Mrs. E. T. Lamkin, 69.
8. W. S. Shafto, 69.
9. Robert Guerriero, 69.
10. W. A. "Bill" Jones, 69.
11. C. B. McMahan, 70.
12. Bill Junod, 70.

Fifty golfers of this area participated in the day-long event over the 18-hole Bayou DeSiard course.

As an added attraction at Bayou DeSiard, "Shep" Girault defeated Herbert H. Land, 4 and 2, in the finals of the Cramer Haas Memorial Tournament.

And today unplayed first round matches in the Bayou's Club Championship Tournament will be completed.

Rain Cancels Westlake Homer Against Bruins

CHICAGO, May 31 (AP)—The Game between the Cincinnat Reds and Chicago Cubs was postponed because of rain today after the two teams had played 16 minutes.

Time was called in the Cincinnati half of the second inning after Wally Westlake had hit his second homer of the season for a 1-0 Redleg lead. The rain came with one Redleg out. After a 45-minute wait, the game was called.

It was rescheduled as the opener of a double header at Wrigley Field Aug. 13. First inning singles by Bob Borkowski and Bobby Adams of the Reds, and a single by Bob Ramazzotti of the Cubs, were cancelled along with Westlake's homer.

BUCS NOSE PAST PHILLIES, 5 TO 3

Joe Muir Hurls Two-Hitter For Second Win Of Year

PITTSBURGH, May 31 (AP)—Southpaw Joe Muir, who balked at being sent to the minors, won his second game of the year today as the Pittsburgh Pirates edged the Philadelphia Phillies 5-3 in the first game of a three-game series.

Muir gave up only two hits, a single to Connie Ryan and a home run to Willie Jones, before he was forced to leave the game after five innings for a blister on his pitching hand. Forrest Main finished for the Bucs. He allowed one run and two hits.

Big Ralph Kiner, his ailing back apparently on the mend, smashed his sixth home run of the season over the left field score board in the seventh inning for the Pirates final tally.

The Pirates put together three hits and a walk for three runs in the fifth inning and added the fourth talty in the sixth on George Strickland's single, a stolen base and a deep fly.

Jones' sixth home run of the year after Ryan singled in the third frame gave the Phillies a 2-0 bulge until the Pirates three-run rally in the fifth. Two of the Pirates hits in the fifth inning were bunts and caught the Phillies infield napping.

Lou Possehl, making his first start of the season, was charged with the loss. Andy Hansen, third of four Philadelphia Hurlers, hurt his pitching arm and had to leave the game eighth inning.

Richie Ashburn, fleet - footed Phillies outfielder, was benched by Manager Eddie Sawyer but broke into the game in the seventh inning and collected a double.

BRUINS GET LIFT WITH HANK SAUER

Cub Star Being Tagged As 'Another Hack Wilson'

CHICAGO, May 31 (AP)— Hammerin' Hank Sauer, the National League's batting scourge of the hour, may be the Chicago Cubs' present-day Hack Wilson.

It's been 22 years since the late Lewis R. Wilson smote terror into the hearts of enemy pitchers. In 1930, the pudgy, barrel - chested Wilson set the present major league record of 190 RBI's and hung up the current National loop mark of 56 homers.

The elongated Sauer, a physical opposite of Wilson, is smashing the ball with all of Hack's devastating gusto.

Big Henry leads in four departments — hitting with .338; RBI's with 45; home runs with 10; and hits with 52. He also ranked fifth in two-baggers with 10 and in runs with 26.

Because he hasn't started so well since his first full - time major league season with the Reds in 1948, Sauer conceivably could menace Wilson's long-standing RB I and homer marks.

In each of the past four seasons, Hank did his most potent clouting in August and September, yet he banged 35 homers in 1948, 31 in 1949 (the year he was traded by the Reds to the Cubs), 32 in 1950 and 30 last season.

Hank has no explanation for his meteoric start, other than "I'm hitting away straight, forgetting about pulling the ball to left field, and I feel mighty relaxed up there at the plate."

Sauer's increasing tendency to slash low outside pitches to right field has confounded rival teams, whose use of the "Sauer" shift to protect left field is old hat now.

There might be a good explanation of Sauer's relaxation. He's quite a happy father of a baby daughter whose arrival after 11 years of marriage delighted the Sauer household. The tot is nine months old and a subject of willing conversation for the usually reticent Hank.

TROTTERS OFF AGAIN

NEW YORK, May 31 (AP)—The Harlem Globetrotters, Negro professional basketball team, left by air today for London and a five-month tour of the world after having spent 48 hours in the United States. The team only returned Thursday from a three-month tour of South and Central America.

Mobley, Kelly Battle For Louisiana Light-Heavy Mat Title At Kallio's

'Grudge Bout' Between Cologne, McDonald May Top Card

A state championship title bout between "Irish" Jack Kelly and Champion Rex Mobley, and a blazing grudge feud between George Cologne and "Sockeye" McDonald makes up the wrestling card for Tuesday night at Gus Kallio's Arena.

The championship bout will have a 90-minute time limit with two falls to win and the other, by a special permit from the wrestling commission after a request from Cologne, will be a no-time limit match. The bill is scheduled as a double main event and it is expected that the championship match will precede the grudge bout.

Mobley, who recently won the Louisiana state light heavyweight championship, will defend his title here for the first time against Kelly, who appeared here last week in a tag team shuffle and McDonald's partner.

While a championship bout generally holds much attention at one of Kallio's shows, the other bout is expected to be the main attraction of the evening.

McDonald and Cologne tangled in a tag team match here last week that ended when Cologne, streaming blood from a deep gash over his eye, was counted out by the referee.

McDonald, using his foot from outside the ropes, cut Cologne's forehead, leaped into the ring, punched Cologne twice with his fist, and made the pin after Cologne had missed a canonball drive off the ropes.

Cologne protested the decision vigorously but the referee had already left the ring and it was unchangeable. Cologne challenged for a no-time limit bout almost immediately.

McDonald, an ex - lumberjack from Oregon, has the edge on Cologne in that he is one of the strongest men ever to come to Kallio's arena, But Colone is faster and trickier than the somewhat slow-moving McDonald.

Cologne and his partner had the match almost won last week when McDonald made his sudden surge and was all the madder for that. He is almost certain to be in a bad mood for Tuesday's show and if possible will probably give the lumberjack a hard time.

The other match should also be a good one. Aging Mobley, who held the world's light heavyweight championship from time to time, has just recently taken the state belt and will be trying hard to hold on to it.

Mobley has been in the ring for quite some time and knows a variety of holds and tricks, all of which he will probably have to use against Kelly.

"Irish" Jack, who has wrestled here twice during the past two weeks, is tricky, mean and a hard man to handle. Mobley, seemingly slowing up a little in recent months, may not have such an easy time against his opponent in Tuesday's match.

Kallio said yesterday that Tuesday will be "Appreciation Night" and that every seat in the house, ringside or otherwise, will be one dollar. Seats may be reserved by telephone until 6 p.m. Tuesday but after that time no more will be reserved although patrons can seat in the regular reserve seats. Prices for children will be 25 cents and a free cold drink will be given with each paid admission.

In order to maintain foot health and promote good posture, girls in the 12 to 14-year age group should wear heels not over one and one-half inches high.

MAY I HAVE YOUR ATTENTION PLEASE!

The key to democratic voting is an informed group of citizens voting according to their own beliefs and convictions. Ballots cast by unusually large groups of voters for a particular candidate at the insistence of so-called leaders, or by other means, may be defined as "Block" voting. "Block" voting by improper influence is contrary to the principles of good government.

I have not attempted, and will not attempt, to solicit the votes of any persons by methods contrary to the highest principles of citizenship.

Since most of you voters in the first primary indicated your desire for a change, I urge you and your friends to help me offset certain "Block" voting for my opponent in the first primary. A glance at the vote by precincts in the first primary will disclose the "Block" voting to which I refer. In the first primary, I carried every box in Monroe except the following:

Ward 10- Precinct 8 - Louisville Fire Station
Precinct 9 - Wilkinson Motor, Washington St.
Precinct 10- Andy's Grocery, 8th & Breard
Precinct 11- Scott Truck & Tractor, 720 DeSiard
Precinct 12- Luffey's Grocery, 2204 DeSiard
Precinct 15- Powell St. Fire Station (Booker T.)
Ward 3 - Precinct 1 - Boyce Nash Motor Co., Hall & Harrison
Precinct 2 - Parish Court House
Precinct 3 - Miano's Groc. - Oak & Catalpa
Precinct 6 - Stone Ave. Fire Station
Precinct 7 - Wood's Private Garage, 505 S. 2nd.
Precinct 12- Guy Smart's Gro., 2825 Lee
Precinct 16- Borden's Ice Cream, 3004 Lee

I received more votes than did our present Mayor, who was appointed by former Governor Earl Long. To those of you who expressed your desire for a change by voting for Mr. Tidwell, Mr. Ponsell, Mr. Spatafora, and to all of our citizens, I extend a hearty welcome to my campaign. In return, I promise to give Monroe an honest and impartial administration of the Mayor's office, with fairness to everyone. As your Mayor, I will execute all of the duties of my office for the City's benefit only, and will at all times conduct myself in a manner so as to reflect credit to our City.

Because he hasn't started so well since his first full - time major league season with the Reds in 1948, Sauer conceivably could menace Wilson's long-standing RBI and homer marks.

In each of the past four seasons, Hank did his most potent clouting in August and September, yet he banged 35 homers in 1948, 31 in 1949 (the year he was traded by the Reds to the Cubs), 32 in 1950 and 30 last season.

Hank has no explanation for his meteoric start, other than "I'm hitting away straight, forgetting about pulling the ball to left field, and I feel mighty relaxed up there at the plate."

Sauer's increasing tendency to slash low outside pitches to right field has confounded rival teams, whose use of the "Sauer" shift to protect left field is old hat now.

There might be a good explanation of Sauer's relaxation. He's quite a happy father of a baby daughter whose arrival after 11 years of marriage delighted the Sauer household. The tot is nine months old and a subject of willing conversation for the usually reticent Hank.

TROTTERS OFF AGAIN

NEW YORK, May 31 (AP)—The Harlem Globetrotters, Negro professional basketball team, left by air today for London and a five-month tour of the world after having spent 48 hours in the United States. The team only returned Thursday from a three-month tour of South and Central America.

Mobley, Kelly Battle For Louisiana Light-Heavy Mat Title At Kallio's

'Grudge Bout' Between Cologne, McDonald May Top Card

A state championship title bout between "Irish" Jack Kelly and Champion Rex Mobley, and a blazing grudge feud between George Cologne and "Sockeye" McDonald makes up the wrestling card for Tuesday night at Gus Kallio's Arena.

The championship bout will have a 90-minute time limit with two falls to win and the other, by a special permit from the wrestling commission after a request from Cologne, will be a no-time limit match. The bill is scheduled as a double main event and it is expected that the championship match will precede the grudge bout.

Mobley, who recently won the Louisiana state light heavyweight championship, will defend his title here for the first time against Kelly, who appeared here last week in a tag team shuffle and McDonald's partner.

While a championship bout generally holds much attention at one of Kallio's shows, the other bout is expected to be the main attraction of the evening.

McDonald and Cologne tangled in a tag team match here last week that ended when Cologne, streaming blood from a deep gash over his eye, was counted out by the referee.

McDonald, using his foot from outside the ropes, cut Cologne's forehead, leaped into the ring, punched Cologne twice with his fist, and made the pin after Cologne had missed a canonball drive off the ropes.

Cologne protested the decision vigorously but the referee had already left the ring and it was unchangeable. Cologne challenged for a no-time limit bout almost immediately.

McDonald, an ex - lumberjack from Oregon, has the edge on Cologne in that he is one of the strongest men ever to come to Kallio's arena, But Colone is faster and trickier than the somewhat slow-moving McDonald.

Cologne and his partner had the match almost won last week when McDonald made his sudden surge and was all the madder for that. He is almost certain to be in a bad mood for Tuesday's show and if possible will probably give the lumberjack a hard time.

The other match should also be a good one. Aging Mobley, who held the world's light heavyweight championship from time to time, has just recently taken the state belt and will be trying hard to hold on to it.

Mobley has been in the ring for quite some time and knows a variety of holds and tricks, all of which he will probably have to use against Kelly.

"Irish" Jack, who has wrestled here twice during the past two weeks, is tricky, mean and a hard man to handle. Mobley, seemingly slowing up a little in recent months, may not have such an easy time against his opponent in Tuesday's match.

Kallio said yesterday that Tuesday will be "Appreciation Night" and that every seat in the house, ringside or otherwise, will be one dollar. Seats may be reserved by telephone until 6 p.m. Tuesday but after that time no more will be reserved although patrons can seat in the regular reserve seats. Prices for children will be 25 cents and a free cold drink will be given with each paid admission.

In order to maintain foot health and promote good posture, girls in the 12 to 14-year age group should wear heels not over one and one-half inches high.

MAY I HAVE YOUR ATTENTION PLEASE!

The key to democratic voting is an informed group of citizens voting according to their own beliefs and convictions. Ballots cast by unusually large groups of voters for a particular candidate at the insistence of so-called leaders, or by other means, may be defined as "Block" voting. "Block" voting by improper influence is contrary to the principles of good government.

I have not attempted, and will not attempt, to solicit the votes of any persons by methods contrary to the highest principles of citizenship.

Since most of you voters in the first primary indicated your desire for a change, I urge you and your friends to help me offset certain "Block" voting for my opponent in the first primary. A glance at the vote by precincts in the first primary will disclose the "Block" voting to which I refer. In the first primary, I carried every box in Monroe except the following:

Ward 10- Precinct 8 - Louisville Fire Station
Precinct 9 - Wilkinson Motor, Washington St.
Precinct 10- Andy's Grocery, 8th & Breard
Precinct 11- Scott Truck & Tractor, 720 DeSiard
Precinct 12- Luffey's Grocery, 2204 DeSiard
Precinct 15- Powell St. Fire Station (Booker T.)

Ward 3 - Precinct 1 - Boyce Nash Motor Co., Hall & Harrison
Precinct 2 - Parish Court House
Precinct 3 - Miano's Groc. - Oak & Catalpa
Precinct 6 - Stone Ave. Fire Station
Precinct 7 - Wood's Private Garage, 505 S. 2nd.
Precinct 16- Borden's Ice Cream, 3004 Lee

I received more votes than did our present Mayor, who was appointed by former Governor Earl Long. To those of you who expressed your desire for a change by voting for Mr. Tidwell, Mr. Ponsell, Mr. Spatafora, and to all of our citizens, I extend a hearty welcome to my campaign. In return, I promise to give Monroe an honest and impartial administration of the Mayor's office, with fairness to everyone. As your Mayor, I will execute all of the duties of my office for the City's benefit only, and will at all times conduct myself in a manner so as to reflect credit to our City.

Mr. Sandman pointed out that the local campaign is designed to meet the urgent settlement, immigration, welfare and rehabilitation needs of hundreds of thousands of men, women and children in Israel, Europe, Moslem lands and in other areas, through the United Jewish Appeal, which is the major beneficiary of the local drive.

The campaign chairman stressed that allotments from income of the local drive are also made to some forty other national and local health, cultural and religious institutions, many of them non - sectarian and non - denominational.

"At this very moment," Mr. Sandman said, "more than 250,000 of the more than 700,000 men. women and children brought to Israel with United Jewish Appeal aid are still living in tents and huts in temporary immigrant centers. We must help turn their homecoming into a great home making and thereby help the people of Israel to win their crucial struggle for economic independence."

and thinking of the men we elect to public office.

"In the ultimate, the man who is really responsible for our type of government is the voter himself," said McKenzie. "The way the majority of the voters vote determines the type of man who is elected to public office, the type of man who makes our public laws, levies our taxes, spends our public funds and decides what controls, if any, we shall have and for how long. This public official elected by you, the voter, has vast powers over the social and economic life of the American people. Yet, some of us vote for a man for public office as casually as we would purchase a trinket or toy for the baby. We never give any thought to his ability, his experience, his qualifications for the job he seeks.

"We seldom ask ourselves if the man is honest and truthful, if he reports things as they really are or if he colors them to suit his own convenience and importance. Surely when a man holds an important office and wields vast powers you must have confidence in his ability and integrity. Is he honestly working for the good of his people and nation, or is he ambitiously promoting himself? Is he a man of ability qualified for the job? Are you casting your vote on facts and full information, or are you being swayed by petty likes and dis - likes?

"Remember, mud - slinging gets no one anywhere. Pulling another man down in the mire is merely a weakling's way of seeking a common level. One man's shortcomings in no way increases the other man's ability. You know, a fellow might be the very finest automobile driver in the world but unless we know that he is a licensed and qualified pilot none of us are going to get in an airplane with him. And so it should be when we choose a pilot to guide the political destinies of our great nation."

"Just remember, your government is no better than the character and ability of the men you elect to run it."

er octane content. Products to be extracted will include benzine, toluene and xylene.

Z. C. Ambrose, vice - president of Southwest Gas, with headquarters at the Southwest Gas Co. building on Louisville avenue in Monroe, said Saturday that a good many details remain to be worked out before construction of the plant can begin, such as making arrangements for sale of the products and making arrangements for obtaining the raw material and transporting it to the plant. No time has been set for letting a contract or beginning construction, Mr. Ambrose said.

The plant is expected to be built on a part of a 100-acre tract of land which adjoins the corporate limits of Dubach and which is owned by Southwest and Feazel interests. Already on this tract and occupying about 30 acres is the Southwest Gas Producing Co. gas distillate plant erected after rich distillage gas fields were discovered in Lincoln parish.

Announcement was made that Southwest Gas, Feazel interests and Lion Oil Co. have brought in a new producer in section 26, township 20, range 4 west, in Lincoln parish, about six miles west of the Dubach gasoline plant. This well shows a bottom - hole shut - in pressure of 5700 pounds and a flowing pressure of 4700. This production is below the Vaughn and Bodcaw sands.

Southwest Gas and Feazel interests also are running casing in a new well in section 13, township 19, range 2 west in Lincoln parish from which they expect to get excellent distillate gas production. This production is coming from about 18 feet of very good Vaughn sand. The well is an extension of the Unionville field about eight miles southeast of Dubach.

R. M. Enloe, mayor of Dubach, pointed to the fact that Dubach is practically surrounded by drilling operations and that good distillate production has been brought in on several sides of the city and within the city limits.

Mr. Enloe estimated that production from about 40 gas distillate wells is going into the Dubach gasoline plant and most of these wells are located in Lincoln parish. E. L. Ward is superintendent of operations for the Dubach gasoline plant, both inside the plant and in the field.

Surely when a man holds an important office and wields vast powers you must have confidence in his ability and integrity. Is he honestly working for the good of his people and nation, or is he ambitiously promoting himself? Is he a man of ability qualified for the job? Are you casting your vote on facts and full information, or are you being swayed by petty likes and dis - likes?

"Remember, mud - slinging gets no one anywhere. Pulling another man down in the mire is merely a weakling's way of seeking a common level. One man's shortcomings in no way increases the other man's ability. You know, a fellow might be the very finest automobile driver in the world but unless we know that he is a licensed and qualified pilot none of us are going to get in an airplane with him. And so it should be when we choose a pilot to guide the political destinies of our great nation."

"Just remember, your govern - ment is no better than the character and ability of the men you elect to run it."

er octane content. Products to be extracted will include benzine, toluene and xylene.

Z. C. Ambrose, vice - president of Southwest Gas, with headquarters at the Southwest Gas Co. building on Louisville avenue in Monroe, said Saturday that a good many details remain to be worked out before construction of the plant can begin, such as making arrangements for sale of the products and making arrangements for obtaining the raw material and transporting it to the plant. No time has been set for letting a contract or beginning construction, Mr. Ambrose said.

The plant is expected to be built on a part of a 100-acre tract of land which adjoins the corporate limits of Dubach and which is owned by Southwest and Feazel interests. Already on this tract and occupying about 30 acres is the Southwest Gas Producing Co. gas distillate plant erected after rich distillage gas fields were discovered in Lincoln parish.

Announcement was made that Southwest Gas, Feazel interests and Lion Oil Co. have brought in a new producer in section 26, township 20, range 4 west, in Lincoln parish, about six miles west of the Dubach gasoline plant. This well shows a bottom - hole shut - in pressure of 5700 pounds and a flowing pressure of 4700. This production is below the Vaughn and Bodcaw sands.

Southwest Gas and Feazel interests also are running casing in a new well in section 13, township 19, range 2 west in Lincoln parish from which they expect to get excellent distillate gas production. This production is coming from about 18 feet of very good Vaughn sand. The well is an extension of the Unionville field about eight miles southeast of Dubach.

R. M. Enloe, mayor of Dubach, pointed to the fact that Dubach is practically surrounded by drilling operations and that good distillate production has been brought in on several sides of the city and within the city limits.

Mr. Enloe estimated that production from about 40 gas distillate wells is going into the Dubach gasoline plant and most of these wells are located in Lincoln parish. E. L. Ward is superintendent of operations for the Dubach gasoline plant, both inside the plant and in the field.

R. W. Newby was the operator of the last boat to arrive and was cheered in by other members of the expedition who had arrived earlier. Newby had rigged an awning over the front of his boat and had a mattress on which he reclined while steering the boat by shifting his weight from one side to another.

Other boat operators were: T. C. Hembree, John Willard, Dan Donavan, Jimmy Mills, Leo Paraham, Eddie Benson, Dude Rush, Eddie Vernell, Howard Ferrell and J. R. Weatherby, who brought along his wife and two children.

Of the eleven boats, only one will make the return trip via the river. The other ten will be towed back on trailers.

DEBATE OVER

only a few of the congressional districts does Republican opposition figure.

Virginia — Republicans met in state convention at Roanoke to name four at-large delegates. Taft forces were conceded a slight edge on the basis of pre-convention maneuvering. Virginia will have 23 delegate votes in the national convention. Among those picked in district conventions earlier, Taft had eight to one for Eisenhower. Six are uncommitted, two are in dispute and two remain to be named.

Georgia — A pro-Eisenhower faction of the state's warring republicans met in Atlanta to complete a 17-member delegation which will battle with a pro-Taft slate for recognition at Chicago.

Minnesota — A two-day convention of the Democratic-Farmer-Labor Party opened to name three at-large delegates to the Democratic National convention. The three, like the 23 named in the March 18 primary, will be pledged to Sen Hubert Humphrey. Fights shaped up over selection of a party chairman and over endorsement of a candidate for governor.

GEN. CHENNAULT

anxious to "renew an old friendship" by meeting the Tennessee senator in West Monroe. Chennault, who considers Monroe his home, returned from Formosa several weeks ago and will remain here for several months.

Meanwhile last minute details of the all-day festivities Tuesday are being worked out. Rehearsals, parade arrangements and enthusiasm marked the closing preparations. The celebration is expected to be one of the biggest in the history of West Monroe.

It was announced Saturday that Rev. M. L. Davis of Choudrant, had been selected to perform the triple wedding ceremony at Gentry's arena where a capacity crowd is expected to learn which of three couples won top honors in the marathon election that was recently completed.

In addition to the wedding ceremony, which is expected to be one of the most elaborate ever held, a special program of hillbilly music and entertainment has been arranged.

Another big feature of the night will be the awarding of $1,000 on the down payment of a new Ford convertible to someone in the audience. The car award will be prior to the wedding.

After the wedding, a reception will be held at the main Ouachita Valley Fair building on North Seventh Street. One-hundred gallons of punch will be served at the reception.

After the reception, the winning couple will board a private plane arranged by Wilson Ewing, and will be flown to the Dixie Dude Ranch in Bandera, Texas. They will remain at the dude ranch for about five days and then fly to New Orleans where a gala reception has been arranged.

The two couples who come out second will depart for the Gulf Coast where they too will enjoy an expense-free honeymoon. They will stay at the Bel-Air Tourist Court on the beach near Biloxi. They will travel by automobile.

The three couples are:

Shirley Carter, of Lisbon and Raymond Knox, of Bernice; June Allen, of Downsville, and Ochiltree Hancock, of Vienna; and Martha Ann Davis and Aubrey Gaston, of West Monroe.

The three couples were nominated from several hundred others who applied at the beginning. They were submitted to a public vote where over 200,000 votes were cast at voting stations set up in 48 West Monroe stores.

The polls have closed, but the winner will not be announced until Tuesday night.

In addition to the elaborate honeymoon trip, the winning couple will get several thousand dollars in prizes that have been donated by West Monroe merchants. Several prizes have also been earmarked to the two couples who don't win.

During the day of the wedding, which has been declared "Hillbilly Wedding in June Day" by Mayor C. C. Bell, Jr., activity appropriate to the celebration will go continuously. The city will be thrown wide open to hillbilly wedding guests.

Famed hillbilly bands will dot the street, the city will be decorated to the hilt as West Monroe turns on its hospitality to the thousands expected to visit from out of town.

Two coffee hours have been crammed into the afternoon. Mayor Bell has invited visiting officials to a coffee hour as his guests at the city hall. The mayor's round-up, as he has dubbed the social, will be held at 3 p. m. The city hall will be open for inspection during the entire day.

At 3:30 in the afternoon, Charles Chisholm, prominent West Monroe businessman, will fete the visitors at a coffee hour at his home 811 Trenton Street.

Robert C. Ervin, parade marshall, is still working on details of the procession that will go through West Monroe just before the wedding ceremony Tuesday evening. Ervin made a trip to Bastrop yesterday and secured an old fashion surrey from Neal Jenkins. Three buggies have already been secured.

All the brides, grooms, the minister and families of the newly-weds-to-be will be placed with special prominence in the parade.

Twin City Interprises, Inc., operators of the Ouachita Valley Jamboree, released the following program for the night:

Mayor Bell will deliver a welcome address at the outset of events.

Following Bell's address, E. F. DeLoach, Jr., president of Twin City Interprises, will make a talk.

To start the special hillbilly show, Brodaus Smith, the Southern Melody Boys and Bob Westfall will present one of the featured acts of entertainment; Alex Myatt and the Farmhands; Gene Cox, soloist (folk songs); Charley Crawford and the Hometown Boys; Jack Hollingsworth and the Ouachita Ramblers, featuring Claude Rushing; The Coon Hunters; Senator Estes Kefauver: Texo Ted Gouldy and his Texo Hired Hands; Monroe Youth Quartet; Bob McGee, Jimmie McDonald; Rhythm Harmoneers; $1,000 on new Ford will be given; Introduction of special guests; Wedding, under direction of Annie and Dunbar Hunt; Closing number after the wedding by James Carraway, the "Singing Engineer;" Winner of "Hillbilly Wedding in June" contest will be announced.

At the last everyone attending the ceremony will be invited to attend the reception at the fair building.

The Economist said that the camp disorders "have given color to Communist accusations that North Korean and Chinese prisoners have been subjected to brutal treatment." Actually, the publication continued, "the defect of the American administration seems to have been timidity rather than brutality, for the Communist committees were permitted to govern the compounds by a sort of martial law and openly defy the authorities."

only a few of the congressional districts does Republican opposition figure.

Virginia — Republicans met in state convention at Roanoke to name four at-large delegates. Taft forces were conceded a slight edge on the basis of pre-convention maneuvering. Virginia will have 23 delegate votes in the national convention. Among those picked in district conventions earlier, Taft had eight to one for Eisenhower. Six are uncommitted, two are in dispute and two remain to be named.

Georgia — A pro-Eisenhower faction of the state's warring republicans met in Atlanta to complete a 17-member delegation which will battle with a pro-Taft slate for recognition at Chicago.

Minnesota — A two-day convention of the Democratic-Farmer-Labor Party opened to name three at-large delegates to the Democratic National convention. The three, like the 23 named in the March 18 primary, will be pledged to Sen. Hubert Humphrey. Fights shaped up over selection of a party chairman and over endorsement of a candidate for governor.

'Stars Of Tomorrow' Is Presented In Tallulah By P.-T. A.

A spring dance recital "Stars of Tomorrow," sponsored by the Tallulah Parent-Teachers Association and presented under the direction of Mrs. Eleanor Beaufait of Vicksburg, took place at the high school auditorium and was enjoyed by a large and appreciative audience. Mrs. Harold J. Smith served as the accompanist playing popular or classical numbers appropriate for each scene.

Act I represented "The Magic Garden" in which a group of tiny tots, as sleeping flowers, Lillian Loe, Barbara Dean Reynolds, Mary Nell Towne, Becky Kennedy, Betty Coleman Kincaid, Karen Moberly and LaWanna Shows, were awakened by "The Sun," Diane Todd and swayed by "The Wind," Joy Stewart and Carole Ursery. As the flowers danced to the accompaniment of Tchaikovsky's "Waltz of the Flowers" they were visited by the butterflies, Dottie Bray Diane Webb, Georgia Kimbrough; Sprites, Cherry Moberley, Wallis Regenold, Judy Kell; Bees, Lourdine Shows, Jeanne Yerger, Billie Knox Reynolds and Fairies, Ann Yerger and Thelma Levee, in picturesque costumes giving a delightfully pleasing effect.

This scene was followed by "Patriotic Tappers", Beverly Allen, Sandra Manale, Mary Jo Provine, Wylma Roper, Ann Roper, Brenda McKay, Nancy Storey, Gloria Smith, Freda White, Nancy White and Carolyn Wroten in red, white and blue, giving a well executed tap dance. A Dutch dance by a group of little girls wearing typical Dutch costumes complete with wooden shoes with a whirling windmill in the background gave a charming scene.

Tchaikovsky's "Romance" inspired the beautiful ballet number danced by Le'Evelyn Grace, Carolyn Allen, Harriet Smith, Tonia Dennis, "Sug" Adams, "Doll" Sevier, Sherrill Sevier, Sherrill Wroten, Ann McClure and Betty Jo Oakes in graceful blue ballerina costumes with rose trimming. Then followed in succession, "Heel and Toe", Skaters Waltz, a trio number, "Whispering Flowers," "Up and Down", an acrobatic dance; "Slow Poke", and "Whispering", each with appropriate costumes and musical accompaniment.

Act II presented the same dancers in an entirely different setting, "Sea Gardens" with a deep sea background. A sea nymph, star fish and tropical fish, danced in and out through swaying sea weeds in brilliant dark green costumes. The scene was concluded with the appearance of the lovely pearl who emerged from a huge sea shell and gave a solo number. "To a Water Lily" by McDowell and "Lotus Land" by Cyril Scott was the beautiful and appropriate accompaniment for the final act.

The community can clean - up project sponsored by the club was started last month. We discussed ways and means of increasing the membership and came upon the solution of each member reminding the other a day before club meeting either by phone or by personal contact. The agent urged everyone to make a list of the winter clothes to put away, their colors, and kind of material. Then study this and agree upon what to buy next fall, thus cutting down the possibility of excess spending of income.

The aim of a home demonstration club is to help rural women keep abreast with modern dress, cookery, upholstery, gardening. Members are urged to attend club meeting at Mrs. Humble's home on the Highwater road on June 17.

'Stars Of Tomorrow' Is Presented In Tallulah By P.-T. A.

A spring dance recital "Stars of Tomorrow," sponsored by the Tallulah Parent-Teachers Association and presented under the direction of Mrs. Eleanor Beaufait of Vicksburg, took place at the high school auditorium and was enjoyed by a large and appreciative audience. Mrs. Harold J. Smith served as the accompanist playing popular or classical numbers appropriate for each scene.

Act I represented "The Magic Garden" in which a group of tiny tots, as sleeping flowers, Lillian Lee, Barbara Dean Reynolds, Mary Nell Towne, Becky Kennedy, Betty Coleman Kincaid, Karen Moberly and LaWanna Shows, were awakened by "The Sun," Diane Todd and swayed by "The Wind," Joy Stewart and Carole Ursery. As the flowers danced to the accompaniment of Tchaikovsky's "Waltz of the Flowers" they were visited by the butterflies, Dottie Bray Diane Webb, Georgia Kimbrough; Sprites, Cherry Moberley, Wallis Regenold, Judy Kell; Bees, Lourdine Shows, Jeanne Yerger, Billie Knox Reynolds and Fairies, Ann Yerger and Thelma Levee, in picturesque costumes giving a delightfully pleasing effect.

This scene was followed by "Patriotic Tappers", Beverly Allen, Sandra Manale, Mary Jo Provine, Wylma Roper, Ann Roper, Brenda McKay, Nancy Storey, Gloria Smith, Freda White, Nancy White and Carolyn Wroten in red, white and blue, giving a well executed tap dance. A Dutch dance by a group of little girls wearing typical Dutch costumes complete with wooden shoes with a whirling windmill in the background gave a charming scene.

Tchaikovsky's "Romance" inspired the beautiful ballet number danced by Le'Evelyn Grace, Carolyn Allen, Harriet Smith, Tonia Dennis, "Sug" Adams, "Doll" Sevier, Sherrill Sevier, Sherrill Wroten, Ann McClure and Betty Jo Oakes in graceful blue ballerina costumes with rose trimming. Then followed in succession, "Heel and Toe", Skaters Waltz, a trio number, "Whispering Flowers," "Up and Down", an acrobatic dance; "Slow Poke", and "Whispering", each with appropriate costumes and musical accompaniment.

Act II presented the same dancers in an entirely different setting, "Sea Gardens" with a deep sea background. A sea nymph, star fish and tropical fish, danced in and out through swaying sea weeds in brilliant dark green costumes. The scene was concluded with the appearance of the lovely pearl who emerged from a huge sea shell and gave a solo number. "To a Water Lily" by McDowell and "Lotus Land" by Cyril Scott was the beautiful and appropriate accompaniment for the final act.

MISS RHODA EDNA ROARK IS BRIDE OF YANCEY DURDEN, JR.

The Church of the Nazarene, West Monroe, was the scene of an impressive wedding ceremony on Friday, May 17, when Miss Rhoda Edna Roark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer H. Roark, became the bride of Mr. Yancey Durden, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Yancey Durden, Sr., of West Monroe. Rev. R. A. McCormick officiated at the ceremony.

Baskets of white stock and Majestic daisies overflowed from floor baskets and were arranged against a background of greenery.

Gleaming cathedral tapers lighted by DeWayne Roark and Ronnie Roark, brother and cousin of the bride respectively, illuminated the scene. Miss Mary Evelyn Durden, of Bastrop, sister of the bridegroom, played the wedding music, and during the concert Mr. Bernard Roark, brother of the bride, and Mr. Bennie Wade, brother-in-law of the groom, directed the guests to their seats, the pews for the families designated by small clusters of daisies tied with white satin bows.

The organist accompanied Mrs. R. A. Clinton, the bride's cousin, of Alexandria, who sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Miss Doris Glynn Roark was her sister's maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Beverly Durden, Miss DeJuanna McCormick, Miss Theresa Boyd and Miss Ramona Hicks, wearing shadow organdy in pastel shades and of the same design. The moulded bodices featured short puffed sleeves and portrait necklines. The bouffant gathered skirts fell to the floor. They wore bandeaus of white blossoms and carried carnations arranged on white Testaments and caught with loops of satin ribbon in the shade of their individual gowns. Little Miss Lenora Gail Godwin, the flower girl, wore blue shadow organdy with a tiered floor length skirt, and from a pastel basket, scattered petals in the bride's path. She was escorted by Master Dennis Crawley, wearing a formal identical to those worn by the other male attendants.

Serving the groom as best man was his brother, Frank Durden and groomsmen were Jackie Miller, Donald Hicks, Jerry Davis and Doyle Rayburn.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in traditional white satin with Chantilly lace. The fitted bodice was accented by a standing collar and the long sleeves were finished with deep cuffs of the lace. The extremely full skirt radiated to the floor, and her fingertip veil of illusion net was caught to a cap of lace edged in tiny white flowers, the same as those which studded the crown.

She carried a white Bible on which a lovely white orchid was arranged with white satin ribbon in cascade effect.

The mother of the bride was wearing a grey crepe with black accessories and a corsage of pink carnations, while the mother of the bridegroom chose navy with black accessories and a similar corsage.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Roark, uncle and aunt of the bride.

The bride's table was lace covered, and reflecting from a mirror in the center, the tiered wedding confection was placed. Embossed in bride's roses, it was flanked with slender white tapers entwined with daity greenery.

Alternating at the huge crystal punch bowl were Mrs. Bernard Roark, Mrs. Bennie Wade, Mrs. H. E. Roberts, and Mrs. W. W. Green. Mrs. Bernard served the wedding cake.

Miss Laverne Walters of Grayson, presided at the bride's book. Trays of individually embossed cakes and mints were served during the evening.

For their wedding trip the bride was wearing a two-piece navy model with which she wore a pink blouse and white accessories, the white orchid from her wedding bouquet providing a beautiful complement.

After a honeymoon spent at various points in Tennessee and Kentucky they will be at home at 605 South Fifth street, West Monroe.

Girl Scout News

Registrations are coming in fast for all of the summer activities scheduled. Tomorrow is the deadline for swimming if you girls want to get in on the classes starting Tuesday. Hurry, hurry!

It looks as if sewing and cooking and pottery are all going to be popular, too. Lots of fun and a lot of new experiences are in store for the girls who take advantage of several of these opportunities. To Bobbie Gilbert goes the honor of being first to sign up for day camp in July, the position at the head of the list held for the two past summers by Gloria Jean Rogillio.

Last week end Troop 55 spent that long-looked-for-day at camp with Mrs. Joe Gimler, Mrs. T. L. Moore, Mrs. Jack Masur, Mrs. D. Thompson, Mrs. Merling Milstead and Mrs. J. S. Amman going along. It was the first trip for these new Brownies and full of fun and excitement. They went on a walk to the river where they found clam shells and other treasures and an obliging echo which sent back the message they yelled across the river. Returning to camp, with the mamas needing a rest whether the girls did or not, they selected a shady spot under a big tree and made blue prints of the leaves they had learned to identify. Did an excellent job, too, according to their leaders.

To everyone's regret, Mrs. E. H. Lyons, leader of Troop 31 at St. Paschal's school, is leaving this week for Texas. To show their appreciation for the interest she has shown, the girls of the troop presented Mrs. Lyons with an aluminum pitcher and a set of glasses. The occasion was an outing for the troop last week. We hear the troop is going camping soon, with Mrs. R. C. Jolissaint, another leader of the troop, in charge.

Nothing stops enthusiastic campers. The storm on the Friday that troop 10 went to camp broke just as the girls got out of school, causing a slight delay. Then, a few miles from camp, they found a large pine tree lying across the the road and had to change their route. Arriving at camp, they kindled a fire and enjoyed a cozy evening. The refrigerator petered out, too, but nothing hindered the good time the girls had planned. Now, all is well again, and a group of ten girls and three grown-ups were ready for a camping trip Friday and Saturday.

Have you heard about the new Brownie Scout in the Albright family? Now mama Frances, who has been in Scouting for nearly six years, will have to stay in for a long time with Nancy's baby sister. Don't know the young lady's name.

Don't forget to register at the office for day camp and summer activities. Almost forgot to say that Agnes Jones and Beverly Hatchell, who did an excellent job last year, will again teach the swimming classes.

Hagle, Miss Daisy Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Noah W. Cross, Dianna and Kay.

Ice cream and cake were served. There were two huge birthday cakes and the lighting of the candles the family gathered around the table and sang "Happy Birthday". Other friends called during the day wishing Mr. DePrato many happy birthdays, including Dr. A. B. Browne and Percy Henry Farmer.

Mr. DePrato received many nice gifts, of which he said he was very appreciative. He is very active for his age, and his many, many friends in Ferriday and Concordia parish wish him many more happy birthdays."

MIRO BOOK CLUB MEMBERS ENJOY SOCIAL MEETING

The social meeting of the Miro Book Club was held Monday, 1:00 p.m. at the Lotus Club.

The committees in charge were: club arrangements, Mrs. F. L. Smith; place cards, Mrs. George Temple; table decor, Mrs. Neal McHenry, Mrs. D. M. Moore; reservations, Mrs. Irving J. Wolff.

All members present enjoyed a festive board made attractive with a beautiful, artistic centerpiece of pink roses and daisies. The place cards bore the club colors, having a silver background with bright blue hydrangea painted in the left corner. A book-size calendar was placed in front of each service plate; this Memo was from the president calling to the attention important dates to be remembered.

Mrs. B. L. Mulhern presided at the luncheon and, once again, expressed her gratitude to each member for having made her term of office, not only successful, but so delightfully agreeable. Mrs. Thos. Jett, year-book chairman distributed the year-books, which held not only volumes of very interesting study, - the subject being: "Human Events," but also was very attractive in club colors of silver and royal blue.

Mrs. Mulhern introduced the guest, Miss Frances Flanders, who gave an informative talk on "The American Public Library and its Relation to American Citizenship." Members look forward to Miss Flanders interesting messages of the rise of libraries and the vast amount of work accomplished in the field.

Miss Flanders said in part: "The Boston Public Library was the first library authorized by an act of the legislature in 1848 and was opened in 1854. The Library development in Louisiana has taken place almost entirely since 1925. The Monroe Public Library established in 1915 was the work of the Civic League.

"The American Public Library is doing much today to promote citizenship. It provides material on all sides of a question; it uses all methods of communication, not just books; it works to develop an informed public in giving forums, classes, great books programs, etc.

"Through the American Library Association, local public libraries become centers of leadership, community discussion programs on the American heritage in time of crisis. Its purpose is to establish for the future a pattern of adult community discussion under library leadership all over the country."

Mrs. Mulhern presented Miss Flanders with a token of appreciation for her cooperation to the club during the past year.

Club women are proud of the fact that the American Library Association credits women's clubs with establishing or sponsoring 85 per cent of all libraries in America today. In the early years, traveling libraries were circulated by clubwomen. Many clubs owned and operated their own libraries. This is quoted from a General Federation of Women's Club pamphlet: "Sixty Years of Achievement, 1890-1950," prepared by Sally McAdoo Clagett. These facts, pointing to our cooperation in the work of democracy brought us a pleasant satisfaction.

After the talk, Mrs. Mulhern named each in-coming officer in the order of their respective offices; each rose and accepted their particular responsibility as well as the words of praise from the outgoing officer. Mrs. D. M. Moore, in-coming president, solicited the cooperation of every member present, stating that, "It is through their efforts, the wheels of progress are kept in motion; each spoke of the wheel bearing its particular weight. Let's strive for success. We are a small club and this would make any imperfection more prominent, but we must avoid this in working together. Thanks for your trust in me. I shall try to live up to your confidence."

Then, Mrs. Jett in a few well chosen words expressed to Mrs. Mulhern, once again, appreciation for her splendid services by saying: "It is not our custom to give gifts to the retiring officer, but we do give you our love and gratitude."

Those attending were: Mrs. B. L. Mulhern, Mrs. Thos. Jett, Mrs. Neal McHenry, Mrs. J. W. Murphey, Mrs. A. B. Myatt, Mrs. George Temple, Mrs. R. L. Wood, Mrs. A. S. Tidwell, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, Mrs. Irving J. Wolff, Mrs. F. L. Smith, Mrs. Roy Cole, Mrs. D. M. Moore and the last elected and welcomed member, Mrs. A. C. Bennett.

First commercial use of rayon was in bristles for toothbrushes and hairbrushes.

Lots of fun and a lot of new experiences are in store for the girls who take advantage of several of these opportunities. To Bobbie Gilbert goes the honor of being first to sign up for day camp in July, the position at the head of the list held for the two past summers by Gloria Jean Rogillio.

Last week end Troop 55 spent that long-looked-for-day at camp with Mrs. Joe Gimler, Mrs. T. L. Moore, Mrs. Jack Masur, Mrs. D. Thompson, Mrs. Merling Milstead and Mrs. J. S. Amman going along. It was the first trip for these new Brownies and full of fun and excitement. They went on a walk to the river where they found clam shells and other treasures and an obliging echo which sent back the message they yelled across the river. Returning to camp, with the mamas needing a rest whether the girls did or not, they selected a shady spot under a big tree and made blue prints of the leaves they had learned to identify. Did an excellent job, too, according to their leaders.

To everyone's regret, Mrs. E. H. Lyons, leader of Troop 31 at St. Paschal's school, is leaving this week for Texas. To show their appreciation for the interest she has shown, the girls of the troop presented Mrs. Lyons with an aluminum pitcher and a set of glasses. The occasion was an outing for the troop last week. We hear the troop is going camping soon, with Mrs. R. C. Jolissaint, another leader of the troop, in charge.

Nothing stops enthusiastic campers. The storm on the Friday that troop 10 went to camp broke just as the girls got out of school, causing a slight delay. Then, a few miles from camp, they found a large pine tree lying across the the road and had to change their route. Arriving at camp, they kindled a fire and enjoyed a cozy evening. The refrigerator petered out, too, but nothing hindered the good time the girls had planned. Now, all is well again, and a group of ten girls and three grown-ups were ready for a camping trip Friday and Saturday.

Have you heard about the new Brownie Scout in the Albright family? Now mama Frances, who has been in Scouting for nearly six years, will have to stay in for a long time with Nancy's baby sister. Don't know the young lady's name.

Don't forget to register at the office for day camp and summer activities. Almost forgot to say that Agnes Jones and Beverly Hatchell, who did an excellent job last year, will again teach the swimming classes.

MIRO BOOK CLUB MEMBERS ENJOY SOCIAL MEETING

The social meeting of the Miro Book Club was held Monday, 1:00 p.m. at the Lotus Club.

The committees in charge were: club arrangements, Mrs. F. L. Smith; place cards, Mrs. George Temple; table decor, Mrs. Neal McHenry, Mrs. D. M. Moore; reservations, Mrs. Irving J. Wolff.

All members present enjoyed a festive board made attractive with a beautiful, artistic centerpiece of pink roses and daisies. The place cards bore the club colors, having a silver background with bright blue hydrangea painted in the left corner. A book-size calendar was placed in front of each service plate; this Memo was from the president calling to the attention important dates to be remembered.

Mrs. B. L. Mulhern presided at the luncheon and, once again, expressed her gratitude to each member for having made her term of office, not only successful, but so delightfully agreeable. Mrs. Thos. Jett, year-book chairman distributed the year-books, which held not only volumes of very interesting study, - the subject being: "Human Events," but also was very attractive in club colors of silver and royal blue.

Mrs. Mulhern introduced the guest, Miss Frances Flanders, who gave an informative talk on "The American Public Library and its Relation to American Citizenship." Members look forward to Miss Flanders interesting messages of the rise of libraries and the vast amount of work accomplished in the field.

Miss Flanders said in part: "The Boston Public Library was the first library authorized by an act of the legislature in 1848 and was opened in 1854. The Library development in Louisiana has taken place almost entirely since 1925. The Monroe Public Library established in 1915 was the work of the Civic League.

"The American Public Library is doing much today to promote citizenship. It provides material on all sides of a question; it uses all methods of communication, not just books; it works to develop an informed public in giving forums, classes, great books programs, etc.

"Through the American Library Association, local public libraries become centers of leadership, community discussion programs on the American heritage in time of crisis. Its purpose is to establish for the future a pattern of adult community discussion under library leadership all over the country."

Mrs. Mulhern presented Miss Flanders with a token of appreciation for her cooperation to the club during the past year.

Club women are proud of the fact that the American Library Association credits women's clubs with establishing or sponsoring 85 per cent of all libraries in America today. In the early years, traveling libraries were circulated by clubwomen. Many clubs owned and operated their own libraries. This is quoted from a General Federation of Women's Club pamphlet: "Sixty Years of Achievement, 1890-1950," prepared by Sally McAdoo Clagett. These facts, pointing to our cooperation in the work of democracy brought us a pleasant satisfaction.

After the talk, Mrs. Mulhern named each in-coming officer in the order of their respective offices; each rose and accepted their particular responsibility as well as the words of praise from the outgoing officer. Mrs. D. M. Moore, in-coming president, solicited the cooperation of every member present, stating that, "It is through their efforts, the wheels of progress are kept in motion; each spoke of the wheel bearing its particular weight. Let's strive for success. We are a small club and this would make any imperfection more prominent, but we must avoid this in working together. Thanks for your trust in me. I shall try to live up to your confidence."

Then, Mrs. Jett in a few well chosen words expressed to Mrs. Mulhern, once again, appreciation for her splendid services by saying: "It is not our custom to give gifts to the retiring officer, but we do give you our love and gratitude."

Those attending were: Mrs. B. L. Mulhern, Mrs. Thos. Jett, Mrs. Neal McHenry, Mrs. J. W. Murphey, Mrs. A. B. Myatt, Mrs. George Temple, Mrs. R. L. Wood, Mrs. A. S. Tidwell, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, Mrs. Irving J. Wolff, Mrs. F. L. Smith, Mrs. Roy Cole, Mrs. D. M. Moore and the last elected and welcomed member, Mrs. A. C. Bennett.

First commercial use of rayon was in bristles for toothbrushes and hairbrushes.

A HAPPY NOTE OR TWO

By J. PAUL HEWITT

SELF CONFIDENCE is an important character attribute to any child. Although parents certainly don't have the power to "dole out" virtues of any sort to their children . . . they do have the power and opportunity to guide to the ultimate achievement of a sense of well being. Music can do a fine job in this respect. It can be an important help in giving the child a pride of accomplishment . . . a pleasure in creation for himself and others. It can inspire self confidence to help him through the rough times when everything else seems to fail.

Mastering a special skill in learning to play any instrument requires special concentration. It's important that it gives the person a feeling of achievement. Disciplined study and practice help to create good habits which carry over into other activities and make the child better equipped to cope with life's devious ways.

Don't underestimate the power of music in your home. It's "bread and butter" for the spirit . . . which must also in its own way be fed.

"Coffee hour" in the afternoon is made more delightful at Bond's Bakery — in downtown Monroe with Mrs. Bliss at the console of the Hammond Spinet Organ.

Proper teaching . . . and the right instrument are all-important in music studies. Come in and see our fine selection of pianos. Try the Steinway . . . the aristocrat of the pianos . . . And priced to fit your pocketbook. Visit with us about your music problems at HEWITT, INC., 216 Grammont. Phone: 2-1491.

A HAPPY NOTE OR TWO

By J. PAUL HEWITT

SELF CONFIDENCE is an important character attribute to any child. Although parents certainly don't have the power to "dole out" virtues of any sort to their children . . . they do have the power and opportunity to guide to the ultimate achievement of a sense of well being. Music can do a fine job in this respect. It can be an important help in giving the child a pride of accomplishment . . . a pleasure in creation for himself and others. It can inspire self confidence to help him through the rough times when everything else seems to fail.

Mastering a special skill in learning to play any instrument requires special concentration. It's important that it gives the person a feeling of achievement. Disciplined study and practice help to create good habits which carry over into other activities and make the child better equipped to cope with life's devious ways.

Don't underestimate the power of music in your home. It's "bread and butter" for the spirit . . . which must also in its own way be fed.

"Coffee hour" in the afternoon is made more delightful at Bond's Bakery — in downtown Monroe with Mrs. Bliss at the console of the Hammond Spinet Organ.

Proper teaching . . . and the right instrument are all-important in music studies. Come in and see our fine selection of pianos. Try the Steinway . . . the aristocrat of the pianos . . . And priced to fit your pocketbook. Visit with us about your music problems at HEWITT, INC., 216 Grammont. Phone: 2-1491.

NEWS FROM THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

Last week this column was devoted to an account of the Summer reading club for children, based on Our American Heritage. Summer is also a time when grown people have more time to read than at other seasons. Most of the clubs are no longer meeting, the children are out of school and parents find that they have more free time to spend in reading.

In the past few weeks many new books have been added to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. There are books for every reader. Why not come in and get yours?

There are many people who love to read mystery stories. Let's look at the new titles in that field. "Heavy, Heavy Hangs" by Doris Miles Disney, "The Golden Hand" by Edith Simon, "A Town of Masks" by Dorothy Davis, "The King Is Dead" by Ellery Queen, "The Elk and the Evidence" by Margaret Scherf and "Dead as a Dinosaur" by Frances and Richard Lockridge are all most interesting titles.

Stories with a historical setting are popular with a large number of readers. If you like this type you will want to read "Rebel Drums" by Nancy Faulkner and "The Strange Brigade" by John Hennings.

Summer is a time when people prefer lighter fare than at other seasons. If you are reading for pure pleasure, try "My Love is a Gypsy" by Neta Lohnes Frazier, "The Neighbors" by Jane Abbott, "The Lovely Season" by Virginia Evans or "Angel Cake" by P. G. Wodehouse.

Stories with a modern setting concerned with some of the problems that confront us in todays world are "Beyond the Breakers" by Sara Ware Bassett, "Three Lives of Elizabeth" by Shirley Seifert, "Love is a Wound" by Worth Heddon, "The Sea Gulls Woke Me" by Mary Stolz", "Brave Interval" by Elizabeth Yates and "Windom's Way" by James Ramsey Ullman.

"The Nine Brides and Granny Hite" by Neil C. Wilson is a most interesting story with a background of the southern mountain regions, while "The Big Stretch" by Duane Decker is another one for the baseball enthusiasts.

If you are not planning a trip this summer, the next best thing is reading about one taken by someone else. "Let's Talk Turkey" by Willie Snow Ethridge is a fascinating account of a trip she and her husband took to Turkey last summer, "Purely by Accident" she says. It is a hillarious story. "Wild Scott is a fascinating account of a trip to the Polar regions. "Window's For the Crown Prince" by Elizabeth Gray Vining is the story of a remarkable American woman and her visit to Japan as a teacher of the Crown Prince. She spent nearly four years there and made a remarkable contribution to international understanding.

If you are interested in American history, you will want to read the book "News of a Nation" by Sylvan Hoffman. This is an entirely new approach to American history, presented in newspaper form, it writes up all of the outstanding events of our history, as a contemporary newspaper would have done. It is really worth seeing.

If you are a student of the national and international scene, which are so closely interwoven today, that it is hard to tell where one begins and the other leaves off, there are books of great interest to you. "How to keep our Liberty" by Raymond Moley is a thoughtful and important book by one of the outstanding modern columnists. "I Was Stalin's Prisoner" by Robert Vogeler is the true story of a man who suffered untold agonies as a prisoner of the Communists. "American diplomacy, 1900-1950" by George Kennan is a valuable contribution to our knowledge of American foreign relations. "Blood, Oil and Sand" by Ray Brock is a book of first hand information about life in Arabia today. "A man of Courage" by Caroline T. Harnsberger is a remarkable portrait of the man who might be the next President of the United States, Robert A. Taft.

You have a wealth of reading material at your finger tips by merely going to the nearest branch of your public library. If you are not using it now, do so as soon as possible.

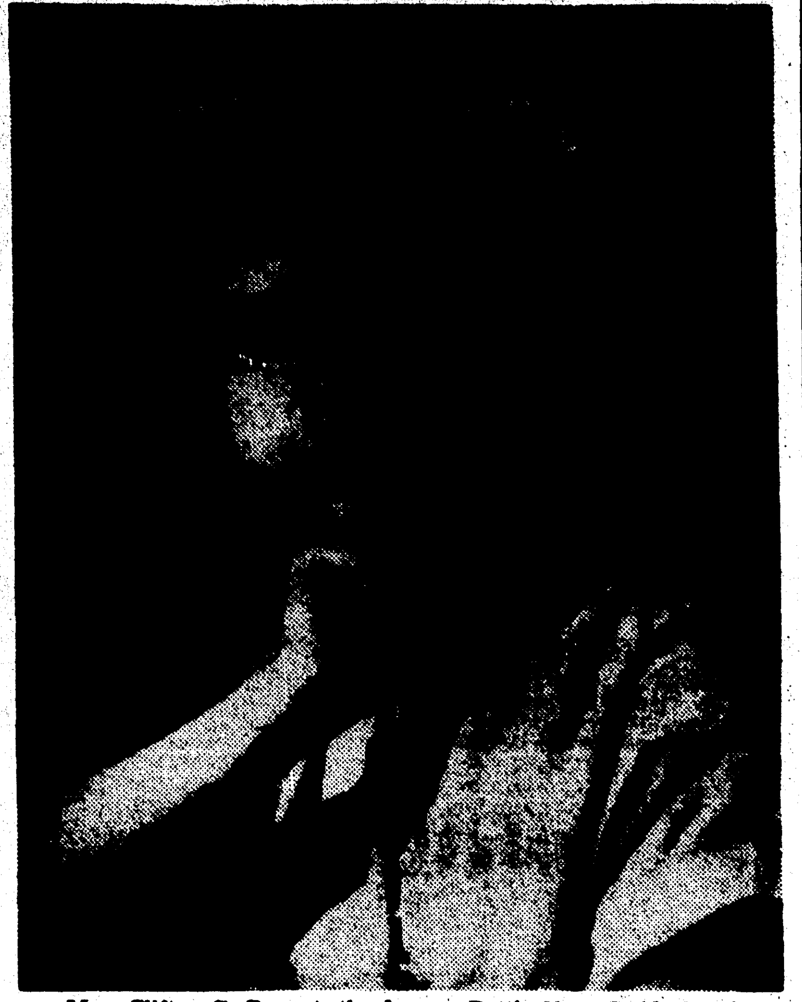
BRIDE OF RECENT DATE



Mrs. Clifton G. Bryant, the former Bettie Nean Reid, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Reid, of this city, before her recent marriage. Cpl. Bryant is the son of Mrs. E. D. Hughes of Bastrop.

MISS EDWINA TILLMAN IS BRIDE OF JOSEPH HOWARD

In an informal wedding on May twenty - fourth at the home of her parents, Miss Edwina Tillman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Tillman of Mangham became the bride of Joseph Treich Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Howard of Hammond, La.

The reception rooms were fragrant with lovely arrangements of Madonna lilies interspersed with white and blush carnations. The prie-dieu was centered between tall candelabra, bearing gleaming tapers and here knelt the young couple to receive the sacrament of marriage given by the Rev. Father R. W. Lawrence, pastor of the Sacred Heart in Rayville.

The bride given in marriage by her father, was a picture of loveliness in her ballerina length frock of white Liecester lace studded with rhinestones. Her calotte of starched white lace bore her brief veil. Her flowers were carried on a white prayer book and were grapevine orchids with satin shower ribbons.

The maid-of-honor, Mrs. W. L. Ellerbe, wore ecru batiste with topaz brown accessories and cloche.

Mrs. Tillman, mother of the bride, wore a model in silk shantung of night blue with accessories matching her blush pink carnation corsage.

The mother of the groom, Mrs. Howard, chose an afternoon model in beige handworked linen, also worn with blush carnations and complementary accessories.

The groom and his brother, Fedgie Howard, who served him as groomsman were in night sky tropical suits.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held, Mrs. Coyle Reese presiding at the punch bowl. Mrs. John F. Johnson and Mrs. Travis Lanier assisted in the courtesies.

Only the two families and intimate friends of the couple were present. After the tiered wedding cake was cut the couple left for their wedding trip to Mexico City. Upon their return they will live in New Orleans where the groom is in business.

NEWS FROM THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

Last week this column was devoted to an account of the Summer reading club for children, based on Our American Heritage. Summer is also a time when grown people have more time to read than at other seasons. Most of the clubs are no longer meeting, the children are out of school and parents find that they have more free time to spend in reading.

In the past few weeks many new books have been added to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. There are books for every reader. Why not come in and get yours?

There are many people who love to read mystery stories. Let's look at the new titles in that field. "Heavy, Heavy Hangs" by Doris Miles Disney, "The Golden Hand" by Edith Simon, "A Town of Masks" by Dorothy Davis, "The King Is Dead" by Ellery Queen, "The Elk and the Evidence" by Margaret Scherf and "Dead as a Dinosaur" by Frances and Richard Lockridge are all most interesting titles.

Stories with a historical setting are popular with a large number of readers. If you like this type you will want to read "Rebel Drums" by Nancy Faulkner and "The Strange Brigade" by John Hennings.

Summer is a time when people prefer lighter fare than at other seasons. If you are reading for pure pleasure, try "My Love is a Gypsy" by Neta Lohnes Frazier, "The Neighbors" by Jane Abbott, "The Lovely Season" by Virginia Evans or "Angel Cake" by P. G. Wodehouse.

Stories with a modern setting concerned with some of the problems that confront us in todays world are "Beyond the Breakers" by Sara Ware Bassett, "Three Lives of Elizabeth" by Shirley Seifert, "Love is a Wound" by Worth Heddon, "The Sea Gulls Woke Me" by Mary Stolz", "Brave Interval" by Elizabeth Yates and "Windom's Way" by James Ramsey Ullman.

"The Nine Brides and Granny Hite" by Neil C. Wilson is a most interesting story with a background of the southern mountain regions, while "The Big Stretch" by Duane Decker is another one for the baseball enthusiasts.

If you are not planning a trip this summer, the next best thing is reading about one taken by someone else. "Let's Talk Turkey" by Willie Snow Ethridge is a fascinating account of a trip she and her husband took to Turkey last summer, "Purely by Accident" she says. It is a hillarious story. "Wild Scott is a fascinating account of a trip to the Polar regions. "Window's For the Crown Prince" by Elizabeth Gray Vining is the story of a remarkable American woman and her visit to Japan as a teacher of the Crown Prince. She spent nearly four years there and made a remarkable contribution to international understanding.

If you are interested in American history, you will want to read the book "News of a Nation" by Sylvan Hoffman. This is an entirely new approach to American history, presented in newspaper form, it writes up all of the outstanding events of our history, as a contemporary newspaper would have done. It is really worth seeing.

If you are a student of the national and international scene, which are so closely interwoven today, that it is hard to tell where one begins and the other leaves off, there are books of great interest to you. "How to keep our Liberty" by Raymond Moley is a thoughtful and important book by one of the outstanding modern columnists. "I Was Stalin's Prisoner" by Robert Vogeler is the true story of a man who suffered untold agonies as a prisoner of the Communists. "American diplomacy, 1900-1950" by George Kennan is a valuable contribution to our knowledge of American foreign relations, "Blood, Oil and Sand" by Ray Brock is a book of first hand information about life in Arabia today. "A man of Courage" by Caroline T. Harnsberger is a remarkable portrait of the man who might be the next President of the United States, Robert A. Taft.

You have a wealth of reading material at your finger tips by merely going to the nearest branch of your public library. If you are not using it now, do so as soon as possible.

The queen was lovely in a lilac overglaze cotton dress, with a beautiful white corsage. The club members presented the queen with a beautiful necklace.

A review of the year's work was given by Jean Early. She stated that the club is proud of its accomplishments this year, but has plans for even a bigger and better year ahead.

The club also elected officers to serve for the 1952-53 session as follows: Betty Jo Slampa, president; Frozine Sanson, vice-president; Yvonne Gulledge, secretary; Jacqueline Holdcraft, treasurer; Earline Dollar, parliamentarian; Carolyn Harrington, reporter; Reta Poole, historian and Joyce Wade, song leader.

Following the election there was a candlelight installation ceremony in the home economics department. The new officers are meeting this summer with their adviser to make thorough and bigger plans for next year's club work. On Thursday May 29th the club is having its annual picnic on Lake St. John. Answer to Previous Puzzle

IT'S YOUR DEAL

Get Good Combos In Cribbage

When you are discarding for your own crib, you look for good combinations, such as two cards that add up to 15, a pair, two cards in succession, two cards almost in succession (for example a nine and a seven), two cards that add up to five, a five, a seven or eight, or a card lower than a five.

The least valuable cards are a king, a queen, and an ace.

When you can discard a combination that is good for two reasons you are really making a fine discard. Thus, an eight-seven is the best discard. Not only do you have a fifteen, you you also have a start towards a sequence.

Your next best discard is a pair of fives. This gives you a pair and fine chances for fifteens in combination with the opponent's discard and the starter.

After that, your next best discard is a five and some ten-point card. A five-ten or five - jack is better than five - queen; and five-queen is better than five-king.

Any such pair of cards will give you a fifteen, and if you find another ten-point card in the crib (or in the starter) you will have a second fifteen.

Your next best discard for your own crib is a pair of good cards; eights, sevens, fours, threes, or deuces. The remaining pairs are valuable in the following order: nines, sixes, jacks or tens, queens, aces, kings. The combination of nine-six is about as good a discard as a pair of nines or sixes.

A sequence combination of six-five or five-four is as good as most pairs. Split sequences are not as good as touching sequences because they offer less chance of developing into scoring combinations.

The problem of discarding into your opponent's crib is almost the exact reverse of discarding into your own. What is a good discard for your own crib is a bad discard for your opponent's.

You want to avoid discarding fifteens, pairs, potential sequences, and fives. The king is the best individual card to give to your opponent. A king and nine of different suits are the ideal two-card discard.

Incidentally, cribbage players call such a discard "the dog," perhaps because K-9 can be pronounced "canine."

Class Will Tell In Bridge Tourney

By Oswald Jacoby

Written for NEA Service

One of the most important bridge tournaments of the year is the annual Bridge Week, held this week in Los Angeles, and at the end of August in San Francisco.

The quality of the play in this West Coast classic may be gauged from the hand shown today, played by Clarence Strouse, of Hollywood, in last year's Bridge Week.

Mr. Strouse's decision to bid four spades was based largely on the fact that the opponents had bid clubs so strongly. It seemed highly probable that North had no high cards in clubs and must therefore have some strength in the red suits, where it could be used.

West opened the deuce of diamonds, and Mr. Strouse properly spotted this as a singleton. He therefore put up the ace of diamonds, and Mr. Strouse properly spotted this as a singleton. He therefore put up the ace of diamonds at once and tried to draw trumps quickly with the ace and jack of spades.

West took the second round of trumps with his king and led a heart, still hoping to get a ruff. Mr. Strouse blocked this plot by taking the ace of hearts instead of trying a finesse.

He then led the ten of spades from dummy and dropped the nine from his own hand. With the trumps thus drawn, he led the nine of diamonds from dummy intending to let it ride for a finesse if East played low.

East saw that his diamonds were located, so he put up the king of diamonds and returned a low club.

Mr. Strouse had to ruff the club, but now it was easy to cash the queen of diamonds, ruff a low diamond in dummy, and force entry to his hand by returning a heart. East could take the third defensive trick with the king of hearts, but then declarer had the last trump and two good red cards to win the rest.

Q—The bidding has been:

North	East	South	West
1 Heart	1 Spade	?

You, South, hold: Spades None, Hearts 7-5-3, Diamonds A-K-Q-J-7-4, Clubs A-J-6-5. What do you do?

A—Bid three diamonds. There will be lots of time later on to show the void in spades (if you decide to do it at all). The first thing to do is to make sure that your partner and you are quite sure what the eventual trump suit will be. In this case you intend to insist on diamonds.

TODAY'S QUESTION

The bidding is the same as in the question just answered. You, South, hold: Spades None, Hearts 5-Q-3-2, Diamonds A-K-J-7-4, Clubs A-J-6-5. What do you do?

Judge Braggart Gently

Most Boasters Insecure, Not Really Malicious

By DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX: I will be grateful if you can help me. I am 25, engaged to a man 26. When I first knew him, I believed I loved him; now I'm not so sure. He told me he had money to give me a good home and was working at a good job. I had complete confidence in him and believed every word. He told me these things when I first knew him—before he was sure of me. Now, when I know him better, I find out he doesn't have any money, and isn't working at the job he claimed he was. He has no family, so there's no background for me to use as a gauge of his stability. He has bought me a beautiful engagement ring, and has given me nice gifts, so I'm sure he means well, but I can't understand these early untruths.

He is at present earning a good living, but his job is not as exalted a one as I was led to believe. Am I right in believing that my confidence has been betrayed?

MONA F. S.

ANSWER: Very, very few people are completely honest, and in evaluating the seriousness of most untruths, we must search closely for the reason behind them. The range of lies runs from the small, white fib to dark treachery, and most folks are guilty, at least occasionally, of evading the truth in one degree or another between the two extremes. Of course, there is no moral or ethical condonation for any form of lying, but since it is one of the most commonplace of human weaknesses, we cannot tar all fibbers with the pitch of social ostracism.

HE NEEDS SYMPATHY

Bragging is a form of deception that yields very easily to analysis. It is significant evidence of a need for understanding, sympathy or love. Lacking these essentials to a balanced emotional life, a person soon finds that a little boasting or bragging produces the desired response in another, and proceeds to work the weapon to death.

Your fiance was brought up without family ties, and never had the love and security that comes from a happy home life. When he met you and realized that you held the key to his future happiness, he was naturally bound to get and keep you by any means available. Can you judge him too harshly for this very human desire? Now, since he is sure of you, the necessity for deception has passed, and the truth has been laid at your feet. Probably the only standard by which your fiance has been able to judge his fellow men is financial; consequently it became so important to him that he built himself up as a material success in your eyes.

Marrying a man who has never known the warmth of a family produces many complications for a girl. She must teach him what most people have already learned—how to create a home, with all its component and complex relationships.

If you love your fiance enough to understand the reasons behind his apparently infantile bragging, to make allowances for his ignorance of daily, family living, you will doubtless reap a rich reward in his appreciative response. You, and you alone, can be the judge of that problem.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a very lonely girl of 13. My friends say I'm attractive and, while I have some boy friends, I have no girl chum. When I see girls going for walks on Sunday, I feel very lonely, since I'm left at home. How can I find a girl friend?

RHODA

ANSWER: As you requested, I omitted part of your letter, from which I gather that you are very particular about the kind of friends you choose. Such discernment is praiseworthy indeed, but it is bound to limit your friendships. You will find, however, that when you do make friends, they are of above average character, and will remain loyal and true long after more casually acquired pals would forget you.

Remain true to your ideals, even though it means occasional loneliness for you.

Are you sure you have no traits that would tend to make you unpopular with girls? Do you brag of your boy friends, put too much stress on your own attractiveness, neglect to defer to the opinion of others? Any of these faults will keep friends away from you; remember, the kind of people you want to attract will be just as discriminating about the company they keep as you are.

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband and I have two boys, 6 and 2½. We would like very much to have a little girl, as we feel she would make our family circle complete. Another child of our own might be a boy, so we wonder if we could adopt a little girl about 4 or 5 years old. Do you think an agency would give us a child under these circumstances?

M. M.

ANSWER: Yours is the most fantastically ridiculous proposition I've encountered in a long time. Since you are capable of having children of your own, thank God for the privilege and take them as they come. There is nothing unbalanced in a all-boy or an all-girl family. Either one is fine, as thousands of parents whose children are all of one sex would be happy to affirm.

There aren't enough adoptive children to go around now, and it would be most unfair of you to deprive a childless couple of a youngster they need much more than you do.

I doubt very much if a reputable agency would give you a girl under these circumstances. For one thing, your attitude in the matter shows a mental quirk that would be an immediate stumbling block to an adoption.

In leaflet D-10, "Attentions from Married Man," Dorothy Dix advises girls facing this problem. To obtain a copy, send a 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope to Miss Dix, c/o this newspaper.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. S.

Answer To Question No. 1

1. Yes, if they read authoritative books. I feel safe in recommending a few: "Marriage For Moderns," by Henry Bowman; "Family Living" by E. M. Duvall; Modern Marriage," by Paul Popenoe, "Marriage Handbook" by Landis and Landis, "Preparation for Marraige," by Clifford Adams. Ask your library for these.

Answer To Question No. 2

2. Yes. Psychologist Milton Rokeach gave a standard Prejudice Test to 144 students. They then had to define: Buddhism, Atheism, Catholicism, Christianity, Democracy, Fascism, Socialism, Capitalism, Judaism, Protestantism. The least prejudiced defined these words as theoretical, mental abstractions. The most prejudiced defined them in concrete terms; such as Communism — "Every one on an equal basis;" Capitalism —"Right to make as much money as you can." Prejudiced and tolerant people are different kinds of human beings.

Answer To Question No. 3

3. Yes. Dr. C. C. Trillingham, superintendent, Los Angeles County schools, says that in our parents' and grandparents' day many slow children and poor readers didn't go to school. Now, children are compelled to attend. Psychologists have found that some children develop "reading readiness" before five; others do not grow into readiness until 7 or 8, or later. You can't teach something before the child's physical system has matured sufficiently to understand it. Our booklet "How To Read Faster and Better," is helpful for older children and adults. Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Use a nail brush on roughened skin of the feet.

'Leggy' Season Begins; Get Legs, Feet In Shape

Here we are at the beginning of the "leggy" season. For the next few months women will want to wear swim suits, shorts, and cool play clothes. Stockings will often be left in the bureau drawer. All of which means that if we are going to look attractive as well as feel comfortable, we must give special attention to our legs and our feet.

Let's consider our feet first. We will find ourselves barefoot many times during the next few months and shoes will sometimes be only a pleasing combination of soles and straps. Heels and toes will be completely exposed or partially so, through very sheer hose.

Dry Condition

At the end of the winter, most women find that the skin of their feet, and especially their heels, is extremely dry and rough. I am not talking now about those callouses which come from incorrectly fitted shoes or from weak arches but about the condition of normal feet after winter weather.

A nightly routine can make a big difference in this situation even in a week's time. Soak the feet well in warm, soapy water, using a nail brush on the roughened areas. Rinse and rub with rough towel. Massage the feet well with one of the fine body lotions. Afterwards massage an oily cream into the skin of the heels and sleep in those cute little heel mitts.

Of course our toenails should be well manicured just as our fingernails are if we are not to look revolting in toeless shoes or sandals. The cuticle around the toenails is no doubt roughened. Add this to your nightly routine; massage cuticle cream or oil into the skin about the toenails. Believe me, one week and you will have a pair of new feet.

Play Shoes

The type play shoe you select makes a big difference in foot attractiveness. If you have a big ball at the base of the big toe be certain that a strap hides it. If your big toe is not a thing of beauty, avoid those play shoes which have a strap between the big toe and the next one. If you have a fat foot minimize it by buying a shoe with slanting straps, for slenderizing. If you have a thin foot wear a shoe with material going straight across it.

One more thing. Many women remove superfluous hair from the legs but forget the hair on top of the instep. Many women have this. Yes, your feet are coming out in the open. Give them a chance. Just to be sure your arches will stand the lack of support you might do at least one exercise each night. One of the most playful ones is the habit of picking marbles up from the floor with the toes. Holding tightly for a few moments and then return to the floor.

If you would like to have my exercises for the feet, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for Leaflet No. 14, "Take Care Of Your Feet," to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Tomorrow: "Why Keep Hair On Legs? It Can Be Removed Easily."

BORDEN'S BUYS OUT GOLD SEAL

Local Group Of Cooperative Dairymen Disposes Of Interests

Announcement of the sale of Cooperative Dairies, Inc., distributors of Gold Seal Milk products, to The Borden Company was made today by C. W. Earle, president of the Monroe dairy operation.

Cooperative Dairies, Inc. was founded in 1933 by a group of local dairymen and has been operated throughout by a similar group.

The company's operation includes the processing and distribution of homogenized vitamin D milk, Grade A pasteurized milk, buttermilk, cottage cheese, cream, chocolate milk.

With the announcement of the sale, Earle stated, "In fairness to our many good friends and customers, we wanted to sell our business to a company that would treat our employees and producers fairly — maintain high standards of business practice. . .and deliver quality dairy products.

"After looking over the field, we chose The Borden Company. Borden's has a fine reputation for fair dealing with employees and producers. They are backed by 95 years of dairy products experience. Their scientific control laboratories assure the finest quality. They develop the dairy business to the benefit of everybody connected with the industry in every market they enter".

In confirming the acquisition, The Borden Company, southern division, stated there would be no changes in present personnel, management or policies. Mr. Gene Pettis' new title with Borden's is sales manager. The same organization built by Mr. Earle and his associates will continue to serve the people of Monroe.

"Borden's is proud to now become a member of Monroe's growing family of industries. It is a pleasure to acquire Cooperative Dairies, Inc. with its outstanding organization, and excellent reputation in the community. We pledge to continue their high standards and, as is Borden's policy everywhere, to work in building a greater dairy industry".

FEWER CORN BORERS

DES MOINES, Ia. (AP)— Fewer live corn borers were found in Iowa corn fields this spring than at this time last year, Harold Gunderson, Iowa State College extension entomologist, reports.

In the annual spring borer survey nearly half of the borers found in disk stalk fields were dead. But the counts vary widely, both in per cent of dead borers and in total number per acre. Percentage of dead borers varied from 30 to 68 in five western Iowa counties surveyed.

Our Children

HAVE FAITH

Most of us have to take life on trust. There seems to be no other way. Nobody knows what the next hour, the next day, will bring and it is not possible for us to plan so as to come out safe and happy all the time. Plans must always be firm enough to give us a feeling of going somewhere and fluid enough to allow us to change our course and our destination if that must be. It often is.

What makes people unhappy in this situation is their determination to take things in their own hands and make life bend to their will. Sometimes that can be done but at one time or another the hour comes when it is we who must bend while life goes straight ahead to its unknown goal. The self - willed and determined people who have said, "I'll do this and nothing, and nobody, can stop me." are bitter in their disappointment. Like Job they are ready to curse God and die. Still Job changed his mind. That is what we all have to do occasionally, even the most self-willed.

There are parents who lay down plans for their children as soon as they are born. The plan may work out. If it is in accord with the plan set in the child at the beginning, it will work well. If it is not in accord with the original plan, it must fail and both parents and child be very unhappy.

It is well to plan for the children, but as we plan we must watch to see if the plan fits, where it needs a little widening, or a little narrowing, where this idea must be dropped and another taken in its stead. Only when we understand that we are not alone in this duty of rearing a child to full power in maturity, only when we understand that there are other forces at work within him, and, when we cannot see our way any further, take his future on trust and do the best we can to help him develop what gifts he has, can we live in harmony with him.

Good fathers and mothers before now have found that their efforts to help their children in the way they thought best have failed. That does not always mean that the child has failed or will fail. Every child has within him at his birth the strength he will require for his growth and development. What these may lead to nobody knows but we can, after doing our very best, trust in the goodness of humanity, in the rightness of God's way with his children, and in faith, carry on.

There is more to living than any human planning can cover. The rest is trust.

Useful habits are the groundwork for happy living. When children are very young they should learn good habits for eating, sleeping and good manners; then these habits will be routine. Dr. Patri explains in leaflet P-14. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to him, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

GIBSON STARTS 3RD TERM POST

Ferriday Man Again To Head Concordia Parish Police Jury

FERRIDAY, May 31 (Special)—Herman Gibson, Ferriday, entered his third term as president of the Concordia parish police jury Wednesday following his re-election. He was unopposed.

Other officers, also re-elected were S. L. Winston, Jr., fourth ward, vice president; and Harry H. Meng, Jr., of Vidalia, secretary-treasurer.

The new police jury was formed including 13 members. The police jury turned down a request from Hugh Bateman, principal of the Ferriday high school for money to purchase baseball uniforms for 18 boys in the under-18 years league now being formed in the parish. Jurors said that the state auditors would not okay such a donation and had refused to okay a donation made to the Red Cross for a revolving fan several months ago.

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

Gods Standard of Honesty

What does it mean to be honest?

The question and the answer are not just as simple as one might suppose. To be honest means to be honest—isn't that all there is to it?

By no means! When one gets out into life, and begins to observe society, one quickly finds that there are varying standards of honesty.

There is, for instance, that old, and very true, observation from experience, that "honesty is the best policy," which leaves one wondering just how inherently honest is a man who is honest just because it pays to be. I have known men to be honest where it cost them a lot to stand by their idea of what was right and just.

Then there is the type whose idea of honesty is bound up with ideas of law and legality. As long as the law allows it, why shouldn't he do it?

There is a great amount of that sort of legalized honesty prevalent in the world today, and much of it in very respectable quarters; but what does God think of it? The law of the land, some of it often made by legislators, who are not particularly honest, or who are under the domination of unsavory influences, does not always conform to the law of God, or rightfulness among men.

There is the man, too, who wouldn't put his hand in your pocket and steal your wallet, but who sees nothing wrong about manipulating companies and corporations in a way that your investments are wiped out to his gain.

So there are grades, and varieties, and standards of honesty, and so there is some point in asking, "What is God's standard?"

I think God's standard of honesty is related to truth and inherent right. Truth and inherent right are not something that man makes.

Man may make his codes and creeds, and seek to give them divine authority, but that doesn't make them either true or right. In the world of science men have theories concerning facts and phenomena, but they have to abandon such theories, when further and conflicting light and evidence appear.

Though we may not always realize it, the same thing is true in religious experience. Many have had to abandon, or change, their beliefs, when they found that these did not stand the test of further light and evidence.

A striking instance is the general abandonment of the literalistic belief that the world was created in six twenty-four-hour days. A great poem of creation is not a scientific treatise, but science and Genesis agree that creation was a bringing of order out of chaos.

Honesty according to God's standard is to bring one's life and action into harmony with the truth as one sees it. That is true honesty, and nothing less is true honesty.

SOUTHWESTERN ART IN CHURCH

Students In Lafayette Have 8 Ceramic Plaques Placed

LAFAYETTE, May 31. (Special)—Eight ceramic plaques for a new Catholic church at Berwick, La., are being completed by art students at Southwestern Louisiana Institute.

The plaques, designed and constructed by students of Delio Garza, are now being glazed in the art department's kilns.

The plaques represent four industries, agriculture, oil, sugar cane and fishing, and the coat of arms of Pope Pius XII; the Most Rev. Jules B. Jeanmard, bishop of Lafayette; the Most Rev. Maurice Schexnayder, auxiliary bishop of Lafayette, and the coat of arms of the diocese of Lafayette.

The plaques were made as a class project during the current school term. Last year the students painted the stations of the cross, which attracted wide attention and were exhibited several times in the state. These were also contributed to the new Catholic church by the students.

The plaques will be erected at the entrance of the new church. The stations will be placed inside.

GETS DEATH SENTENCE

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (AP)—A 23 - year - old Indonesian terrorist made a last minute attempt to save himself from the gallows by proclaiming in court that he would fight on the side of the government against the Reds.

HEALTH CENTER CONCORDIA NEED

Dr. Coleman Points Out Essentials To Carry Out Program

FERRIDAY, May 31 (Special)—Dr. J. A. Coleman, Concordia parish health officer, Wednesday told police jurors that three serious needs exist in health matters in the parish.

These he listed as adequate health housing, a second health nurse, and an x-ray machine in an effort to check the high incidence of tuberculosis found in the parish.

Dr. Coleman said the health needs of the parish have grown and urged jurors to establish a health center for the parish. He said that one had just been completed at Jena at a cost of $25,000. Of this the state of Louisiana provided 15 per cent $3,825), the federal government 65 per cent ($16,575) and the parish 20 per cent, $5,100.

The parish, he said, is badly in need of another nurse. During the last time the X-ray machine belonging to the state was in the parish, 1,100 small films were made. It is the job of unit to show any suspicious cases by having large x-ray pictures made, the doctor pointed out.

He said that according to statistics made lately that Concordia parish has the second highest rate of any parish in the state and that the disease was not confined to Negroes alone, but that white people suffered in proportion to their ratio of population.

"If the police jury would see fit to purchase an x-ray machine for the purpose of taking pictures, the state would furnish the film, and we could send the pictures to the state laboratory for reading, he said.

Dr. Coleman suggested a one and one-half or two-mill tax to finance needed health matters in the parish.

GRADUATES ARE GIVEN HONORS

Gordon Ave. Church Devotes Sunday Night Service To Students

On Sunday night, the Gordon Avenue Methodist Church held a special service for graduates of Ouachita and Neville who were in any way connected with the Gordon Avenue Church, either by membership or family ties.

An anthem, "The Lord Is My Shepherd", was beautifully rendered by the youth choir, under the direction of Mr. Homer Cook.

Rev. M. D. Feider delivered an inspiring address, taking as his text "choose you this day whom you will serve". In his address he stressed the importance to the young grads of choosing God instead of Mamon at this very important turning point in their lives. He gave them a good word picture of how they could "seek God and his righteousness first", no matter what field or work they choose, and stressed again and again the importance of doing just that. He also gave considerable time to expounding the importance of choosing a life mate who would be a willing helpmate in this work of "choosing God first".

At the end of the service, each graduate stood at the altar and was presented with a "diploma" from the church. Inscribed on the diplomas were the words "Choose You This Day Whom You Will Serve".

After the benediction, a reception was held in the educational building for the grads and their parents. At the reception, all joined in singing "School Days", after which refreshments were served.

Frieze, 100 To 7 Shot, Home 1st In 174th Oaks

EPSOM DOWNS, England, May 30 (AP)— Capt. A. M. Keith's English bred Frieze, a 100 to 7 long shot, today won the 174th running of the rich Oaks by three lengths.

Second place in the mile and a half classic for three - year old fillies went to Zabara, second favorite at 9 to 2, while third place was captured by Moon Star, another English - bred owned by William Woodward, the New York banker. Moon Star, a 9 to 1 outsider, finished a length and a half behind Zabara.

Frieze's triumph in the excellent time of 2 minutes, 35 4-5 seconds earned $46,000 for her English owner. The daughter of Phideas-Cornice bettered the performance of the Aga Khan's Tulyar, which won the English Derby earlier in the week in 2:36 2-5 for the same distance over the same course.

• JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Class Will Tell In Bridge Tourney

By Oswald Jacoby

Written for NEA Service

One of the most important bridge tournaments of the year is the annual Bridge Week, held this week in Los Angeles, and at the end of August in San Francisco.

The quality of the play in this West Coast classic may be gauged from the hand shown today, played by Clarence Strouse, of Hollywood, in last year's Bridge Week.

Mr. Strouse's decision to bid four spades was based largely on the fact that the opponents had bid clubs so strongly. It seemed highly probable that North had no high cards in clubs and must therefore have some strength in the red suits, where it could be used.

West opened the deuce of diamonds, and Mr. Strouse properly spotted this as a singleton. He therefore put up the ace of diamonds, and Mr. Strouse properly spotted this as a singleton. He therefore put up the ace of diamonds at once and tried to draw trumps quickly with the ace and jack of spades.

West took the second round of trumps with his king and led a heart, still hoping to get a ruff. Mr. Strouse blocked this plot by taking the ace of hearts instead of trying a finesse.

He then led the ten of spades from dummy and dropped the nine from his own hand. With the trumps thus drawn, he led the nine of diamonds from dummy intending to let it ride for a finesse if East played low.

East saw that his diamonds were located, so he put up the king of diamonds and returned a low club.

Mr. Strouse had to ruff the club, but now it was easy to cash the queen of diamonds, ruff a low diamond in dummy, and force entry to his hand by returning a heart. East could take the third defensive trick with the king of hearts, but then declarer had the last trump and two good red cards to win the rest.

Q—The bidding has been:

North	East	South	West
1 Heart	1 Spade	?

You, South, hold: Spades None, Hearts 7-5-3, Diamonds A-K-Q-J-7-4, Clubs A-J-6-5. What do you do?

A—Bid three diamonds. There will be lots of time later on to show the void in spades (if you decide to do it at all). The first thing to do is to make sure that your partner and you are quite sure what the eventual trump suit will be. In this case you intend to insist on diamonds.

TODAY'S QUESTION

The bidding is the same as in the question just answered. You, South, hold: Spades None, Hearts 5-Q-3-2, Diamonds A-K-J-7-4, Clubs A-J-6-5. What do you do?

Good — Adverse — Neutral

Get Good Combos In Cribbage

When you are discarding for your own crib, you look for good combinations, such as two cards that add up to 15, a pair, two cards in succession, two cards almost in succession (for example a nine and a seven), two cards that add up to five, a five, a seven or eight, or a card lower than a five.

The least valuable cards are a king, a queen, and an ace.

When you can discard a combination that is good for two reasons you are really making a fine discard. Thus, an eight-seven is the best discard. Not only do you have a fifteen, you you also have a start towards a sequence.

Your next best discard is a pair of fives. This gives you a pair and fine chances for fifteens in combination with the opponent's discard and the starter.

After that, your next best discard is a five and some ten-point card. A five-ten or five - jack is better than five - queen; and five-queen is better than five-king.

Any such pair of cards will give you a fifteen, and if you find another ten-point card in the crib (or in the starter) you will have a second fifteen.

Your next best discard for your own crib is a pair of good cards; eights, sevens, fours, threes, or deuces. The remaining pairs are valuable in the following order: nines, sixes, jacks or tens, queens, aces, kings. The combination of nine-six is about as good a discard as a pair of nines or sixes.

A sequence combination of six-five or five-four is as good as most pairs. Split sequences are not as good as touching sequences because they offer less chance of developing into scoring combinations.

The problem of discarding into your opponent's crib is almost the exact reverse of discarding into your own. What is a good discard for your own crib is a bad discard for your opponent's.

You want to avoid discarding fifteens, pairs, potential sequences, and fives. The king is the best individual card to give to your opponent. A king and nine of different suits are the ideal two-card discard.

Incidentally, cribbage players call such a discard "the dog," perhaps because K-9 can be pronounced "canine."

Judge Braggart Gently

Most Boasters Insecure, Not Really Malicious

By DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX: I will be grateful if you can help me. I am 25, engaged to a man 26. When I first knew him, I believed I loved him; now I'm not so sure. He told me he had money to give me a good home and was working at a good job. I had complete confidence in him and believed every word. He told me these things when I first knew him—before he was sure of me. Now, when I know him better, I find out he doesn't have any money, and isn't working at the job he claimed he was. He has no family, so there's no background for me to use as a gauge of his stability. He has bought me a beautiful engagement ring, and has given me nice gifts, so I'm sure he means well, but I can't understand these early untruths.

He is at present earning a good living, but his job is not as exalted a one as I was led to believe. Am I right in believing that my confidence has been betrayed?

MONA F. S.

ANSWER: Very, very few people are completely honest, and in evaluating the seriousness of most untruths, we must search closely for the reason behind them. The range of lies runs from the small, white fib to dark treachery, and most folks are guilty, at least occasionally, of evading the truth in one degree or another between the two extremes. Of course, there is no moral or ethical condonation for any form of lying, but since it is one of the most commonplace of human weaknesses, we cannot tar all fibbers with the pitch of social ostracism.

HE NEEDS SYMPATHY

Bragging is a form of deception that yields very easily to analysis. It is significant evidence of a need for understanding, sympathy or love. Lacking these essentials to a balanced emotional life, a person soon finds that a little boasting or bragging produces the desired response in another, and proceeds to work the weapon to death.

Your fiance was brought up without family ties, and never had the love and security that comes from a happy home life. When he met you and realized that you held the key to his future happiness, he was naturally bound to get and keep you by any means available. Can you judge him too harshly for this very human desire? Now, since he is sure of you, the necessity for deception has passed, and the truth has been laid at your feet. Probably the only standard by which your fiance has been able to judge his fellow men is financial; consequently it became so important to him that he built himself up as a material success in your eyes.

Marrying a man who has never known the warmth of a family produces many complications for a girl. She must teach him what most people have already learned—how to create a home, with all its component and complex relationships.

If you love your fiance enough to understand the reasons behind his apparently infantile bragging, to make allowances for his ignorance of daily, family living, you will doubtless reap a rich reward in his appreciative response. You, and you alone, can be the judge of that problem.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a very lonely girl of 18. My friends say I'm attractive and, while I have some boy friends, I have no girl chum. When I see girls going for walks on Sunday, I feel very lonely, since I'm left at home. How can I find a girl friend?

RHODA

ANSWER: As you requested, I omitted part of your letter, from which I gather that you are very particular about the kind of friends you choose. Such discernment is praiseworthy indeed, but it is bound to limit your friendships. You will find, however, that when you do make friends, they are of above average character, and will remain loyal and true long after more casually acquired pals would forget you.

Remain true to your ideals, even though it means occasional loneliness for you.

Are you sure you have no traits that would tend to make you unpopular with girls? Do you brag of your boy friends, put too much stress on your own attractiveness, neglect to defer to the opinion of others? Any of these faults will keep friends away from you; remember, the kind of people you want to attract will be just as discriminating about the company they keep as you are.

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband and I have two boys, 6 and 2½. We would like very much to have a little girl, as we feel she would make our family circle complete. Another child of our own might be a boy, so we wonder if we could adopt a little girl about 4 or 5 years old. Do you think an agency would give us a child under these circumstances?

M. M.

ANSWER: Yours is the most fantastically ridiculous proposition I've encountered in a long time. Since you are capable of having children of your own, thank God for the privilege and take them as they come. There is nothing unbalanced in a all-boy or an all-girl family. Either one is fine, as thousands of parents whose children are all of one sex would be happy to affirm.

There aren't enough adoptive children to go around now, and it would be most unfair of you to deprive a childless couple of a youngster they need much more than you do.

I doubt very much if a reputable agency would give you a girl under these circumstances. For one thing, your attitude in the matter shows a mental quirk that would be an immediate stumbling block to an adoption.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

Answer To Question No. 1

1. Yes, if they read authoritative books. I feel safe in recommending a few: "Marriage For Moderns," by Henry Bowman; "Family Living" by E. M. Duvall; Modern Marriage," by Paul Popenoe, "Marriage Handbook" by Landis and Landis, "Preparation for Marraige," by Clifford Adams. Ask your library for these.

Answer To Question No. 2

2. Yes. Psychologist Milton Rokeach gave a standard Prejudice Test to 144 students. They then had to define: Buddhism, Atheism, Catholicism, Christianity, Democracy, Fascism, Socialism, Capitalism, Judaism, Protestantism. The least prejudiced defined these words as theoretical, mental abstractions. The most prejudiced defined them in concrete terms; such as Communism — "Every one on an equal basis;" Capitalism —"Right to make as much money as you can." Prejudiced and tolerant people are different kinds of human beings.

Answer To Question No. 3

3. Yes. Dr. C. C. Trillingham, superintendent, Los Angeles County schools, says that in our parents' and grandparents' day many slow children and poor readers didn't go to school. Now, children are compelled to attend. Psychologists have found that some children develop "reading readiness" before five; others do not grow into readiness until 7 or 8, or later. You can't teach something before the child's physical system has matured sufficiently to understand it. Our booklet "How To Read Faster and Better," is helpful for older children and adults. Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Use a nail brush on roughened skin of the feet.

'Leggy' Season Begins; Get Legs, Feet In Shape

Here we are at the beginning of the "leggy" season. For the next few months women will want to wear swim suits, shorts, and cool play clothes. Stockings will often be left in the bureau drawer. All of which means that if we are going to look attractive as well as feel comfortable, we must give special attention to our legs and our feet.

Let's consider our feet first. We will find ourselves barefoot many times during the next few months and shoes will sometimes be only a pleasing combination of soles and straps. Heels and toes will be completely exposed or partially so, through very sheer hose.

Dry Condition

At the end of the winter, most women find that the skin of their feet, and especially their heels, is extremely dry and rough. I am not talking now about those callouses which come from incorrectly fitted shoes or from weak arches but about the condition of normal feet after winter weather.

A nightly routine can make a big difference in this situation even in a week's time. Soak the feet well in warm, soapy water, using a nail brush on the roughened areas. Rinse and rub with rough towel. Massage the feet well with one of the fine body lotions. Afterwards massage an oily cream into the skin of the heels and sleep in those cute little heel mitts.

Of course our toenails should be well manicured just as our fingernails are if we are not to be revolting in toeless shoes or sandals. The cuticle around the toenails is no doubt roughened. Add this to your nightly routine; massage cuticle cream or oil into the skin about the toenails. Believe me, one week and you will have a pair of new feet.

Play Shoes

The type play shoe you select makes a big difference in foot attractiveness. If you have a big ball at the base of the big toe be certain that a strap hides it. If your big toe is not a thing of beauty, avoid those play shoes which have a strap between the big toe and the next one. If you have a fat foot minimize it by buying a shoe with slanting straps for slenderizing. If you have a thin foot wear a shoe with material going straight across it.

One more thing. Many women remove superfluous hair from the legs but forget the hair on top of the instep. Many women have this. Yes, your feet are coming out in the open. Give them a chance. Just to be sure your arches will stand the lack of support you might do at least one exercise each night. One of the most playful ones is the habit of picking marbles up from the floor with the toes, holding tightly for a few moments and then return to the floor.

If you would like to have my exercises for the feet, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for Leaflet No. 14, "[illegible]" to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Our Children

HAVE FAITH

Most of us have to take life on trust. There seems to be no other way. Nobody knows what the next hour, the next day, will bring and it is not possible for us to plan so as to come out safe and happy all the time. Plans must always be firm enough to give us a feeling of going somewhere and fluid enough to allow us to change our course and our destination if that must be. It often is.

What makes people unhappy in this situation is their determination to take things in their own hands and make life bend to their will. Sometimes that can be done but at one time or another the hour comes when it is we who must bend while life goes straight ahead to its unknown goal. The self - willed and determined people who have said, "I'll do this and nothing, and nobody, can stop me." are bitter in their disappointment. Like Job they are ready to curse God and die. Still Job changed his mind. That is what we all have to do occasionally, even the most self-willed.

There are parents who lay down plans for their children as soon as they are born. The plan may work out. If it is in accord with the plan set in the child at the beginning, it will work well. If it is not in accord with the original plan, it must fail and both parents and child be very unhappy.

It is well to plan for the children, but as we plan we must watch to see if the plan fits, where it needs a little widening, or a little narrowing, where this idea must be dropped and another taken in its stead. Only when we understand that we are not alone in this duty of rearing a child to full power in maturity, only when we understand that there are other forces at work within him, and, when we cannot see our way any further, take his future on trust and do the best we can to help him develop what gifts he has, can we live in harmony with him.

Good fathers and mothers before now have found that their efforts to help their children in the way they thought best have failed. That does not always mean that the child has failed or will fail. Every child has within him at his birth the strength he will require for his growth and development. What these may lead to nobody knows but we can, after doing our very best, trust in the goodness of humanity, in the rightness of God's way with his children, and in faith, carry on.

There is more to living than any human planning can cover. The rest is trust.

Useful habits are the groundwork for happy living. When children are very young they should learn good habits for eating, sleeping and good manners; then these habits will be routine. Dr. Patri explains in leaflet P-14. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to him, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

GIBSON STARTS 3RD TERM POST

Ferriday Man Again To Head Concordia Parish Police Jury

FERRIDAY, May 31 (Special)—Herman Gibson, Ferriday, entered his third term as president of the Concordia parish police jury Wednesday following his re-election. He was unopposed.

Other officers, also re-elected were S. L. Winston, Jr., fourth ward, vice president; and Harry H. Meng, Jr., of Vidalia, secretary-treasurer.

The new police jury was formed including 13 members. The police jury turned down a request from Hugh Bateman, principal of the Ferriday high school for money to purchase baseball uniforms for 18 boys in the under-18 years league now being formed in the parish. Jurors said that the state auditors would not okay such a donation and had refused to okay a donation made to the Red Cross for a revolving fan several months ago.

Bible Comment

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

Gods Standard of Honesty

What does it mean to be honest? The question and the answer are not just as simple as one might suppose.To be honest means to be honest—isn't that all there is to it?

By no means! When one gets out into life, and begins to observe society, one quickly finds that there are varying standards of honesty.

There is, for instance, that old, and very true, observation from experience, that "honesty is the best policy," which leaves one wondering just how inherently honest is a man who is honest just because it pays to be. I have known men to be honest where it cost them a lot to stand by their idea of what was right and just.

Then there is the type whose idea of honesty is bound up with ideas of law and legality. As long as the law allows it, why shouldn't he do it?

There is a great amount of that sort of legalized honesty prevalent in the world today, and much of it in very respectable quarters; but what does God think of it? The law of the land, some of it often made by legislators, who are not particularly honest, or who are under the domination of unsavory influences, does not always conform to the law of God, or rightfulness among men.

There is the man, too, who wouldn't put his hand in your pocket and steal your wallet, but who sees nothing wrong about manipulating companies and corporations in a way that your investments are wiped out to his gain.

So there are grades, and varieties, and standards of honesty, and so there is some point in asking, "What is God's standard?"

I think God's standard of honesty is related to truth and inherent right. Truth and inherent right are not something that man makes.

Man may make his codes and creeds, and seek to give them divine authority, but that doesn't make them either true or right. In the world of science men have theories concerning facts and phenomena, but they have to abandon such theories, when further and conflicting light and evidence appear.

Though we may not always realize it, the same thing is true in religious experience. Many have had to abandon, or change, their beliefs, when they found that these did not stand the test of further light and evidence.

A striking instance is the general abandonment of the literalistic belief that the world was created in six twenty-four-hour days. A great poem of creation is not a scientific treatise, but science and Genesis agree that creation was a bringing of order out of chaos.

Honesty according to God's standard is to bring one's life and action into harmony with the truth as one sees it. That is true honesty, and nothing less is true honesty.

The plaques, designed and constructed by students of Delio Garza, are now being glazed in the art department's kilns.

The plaques represent four industries, agriculture, oil, sugar cane and fishing, and the coat of arms of Pope Pius XII; the Most Rev. Jules B. Jeanmard, bishop of Lafayette; the Most Rev. Maurice Schexnayder, auxiliary bishop of Lafayette, and the coat of arms of the diocese of Lafayette.

The plaques were made as a class project during the current school term. Last year the students painted the stations of the cross, which attracted wide attention and were exhibited several times in the state. These were also contributed to the new Catholic church by the students.

The plaques will be erected at the entrance of the new church. The stations will be placed inside.

HEALTH CENTER CONCORDIA NEED

Dr. Coleman Points Out Essentials To Carry Out Program

FERRIDAY, May 31 (Special)—Dr. J. A. Coleman, Concordia parish health officer, Wednesday told police jurors that three serious needs exist in health matters in the parish.

These he listed as adequate health housing, a second health nurse, and an x-ray machine in an effort to check the high incidence of tuberculosis found in the parish.

Dr. Coleman said the health needs of the parish have grown and urged jurors to establish a health center for the parish. He said that one had just been completed at Jena at a cost of $25,000. Of this the state of Louisiana provided 15 per cent $3,825), the federal government 65 per cent ($16,575) and the parish 20 per cent, $5,100.

The parish, he said, is badly in need of another nurse. During the last time the X-ray machine belonging to the state was in the parish, 1,100 small films were made. It is the job of unit to show any suspicious cases by having large x-ray pictures made, the doctor pointed out.

He said that according to statistics made lately that Concordia parish has the second highest rate of any parish in the state and that the disease was not confined to Negroes alone, but that white people suffered in proportion to their ratio of population.

"If the police jury would see fit to purchase an x-ray machine for the purpose of taking pictures, the state would furnish the film, and we could send the pictures to the state laboratory for reading, he said.

Dr. Coleman suggested a one and one-half or two-mill tax to finance needed health matters in the parish.

GRADUATES ARE GIVEN HONORS

Gordon Ave. Church Devotes Sunday Night Service To Students

On Sunday night, the Gordon Avenue Methodist Church held a special service for graduates of Ouachita and Neville who were in any way connected with the Gordon Avenue Church, either by membership or family ties.

An anthem, "The Lord Is My Shepherd", was beautifully rendered by the youth choir, under the direction of Mr. Homer Cook.

Rev. M. D. Felder delivered an inspiring address, taking as his text "choose you this day whom you will serve". In his address he stressed the importance to the young grads of choosing God instead of Mamon at this very important turning point in their lives. He gave them a good word picture of how they could "seek God and his righteousness first", no matter what field or work they choose, and stressed again and again the importance of doing just that. He also gave considerable time to expounding the importance of choosing a life mate who would be a willing helpmate in this work of "choosing God first".

At the end of the service, each graduate stood at the altar and was presented with a "diploma" from the church. Inscribed on the diplomas were the words "Choose You This Day Whom You Will Serve".

After the benediction, a reception was held in the educational building for the grads and their parents. At the reception, all joined in singing "School Days", after which refreshments were served.

Frieze, 100 To 7 Shot, Home 1st In 174th Oaks

EPSOM DOWNS, England, May 30 (AP)— Capt. A. M. Keith's English bred Frieze, a 100 to 7 long shot, today won the 174th running of the rich Oaks by three lengths.

Second place in the mile and a half classic for three - year old fillies went to Zabara, second favorite at 9 to 2, while third place was captured by Moon Star, another English - bred owned by William Woodward, the New York banker. Moon Star, a 9 to 1 outsider, finished a length and a half behind Zabara.

Frieze's triumph in the excellent time of 2 minutes, 35 4-5 seconds earned $46,000 for her English owner. The daughter of Phideas-Cornice bettered the performance of the Aga Khan's Tulyar, which won the English Derby earlier in the week in 2:36 2-5 for the same distance over the same course.

'CAPERS' SHOW PRODUCES SKILL

Norma Kirkhams' Dance Class Entertains At Northeast State

"Spotlight Capers," a musical comedy given at Northeast Louisiana State Friday night, proved an unusually attractive show and surprised many by the talent that the young generation possess. Those presented were members of the dancing class of Norma Lee Register Kirkham. Mrs. R. F. McCook, well known pianist, officiated in that capacity.

The costumes of the performers, which in many cases were as young as four or five years of age, were such as to furnish a riot of color; scenery was attractive and every number received hearty applause.

Curtis Rape, Susan Lee and Elizabeth Ann Hodge cleverly initiated the program in the first scene, "Along the Broadway Beat" in song, eccentric dancing and ballet numbers.

The second scene was Ragtime Roundup, which was followed by scene 3, "Old Hawaiian Customs."

'CAPERS' SHOW PRODUCES SKILL

Norma Kirkhams' Dance Class Entertains At Northeast State

"Spotlight Capers," a musical comedy given at Northeast Louisiana State Friday night, proved an unusually attractive show and surprised many by the talent that the young generation possess. Those presented were members of the dancing class of Norma Lee Register Kirkham. Mrs. R. F. McCook, well known pianist, officiated in that capacity.

The costumes of the performers, which in many cases were as young as four or five years of age, were such as to furnish a riot of color; scenery was attractive and every number received hearty applause.

Curtis Rape, Susan Lee and Elizabeth Ann Hodge cleverly initiated the program in the first scene, "Along the Broadway Beat" in song, eccentric dancing and ballet numbers.

The second scene was Ragtime Roundup, which was followed by scene 3, "Old Hawaiian Customs."

TARZAN
By Edgar Rice Burroughs
SOON THE TWO MEN EMERGED FROM THE CAVE, WITH JORGE PURPOSELY ASCENDING A TREACHEROUS, SCALY CLIFF.
TARZAN GRIMACED. HIS NIMBLE-FOOTED ENEMY OBVIOUSLY HOPED TO LEAD HIM INTO A PITFALL-- NEVERTHELESS, HE CONTINUED ON, NOW LASSOING A JAGGED ROCK.
BUT AS TARZAN BEGAN CLIMBING, JORGE SNEAKED TOWARD THE ROCK UNSEEN. SMILING IN TRIUMPH, HE FIRMLY GRIPPED HIS PICK-- AND STRUCK AGAIN AND AGAIN, SHREDDING THE ROPE!
THE WEAKENED FIBERS SNAPPED AND THE APE-MAN PLUNGED DOWNWARD-- TWISTING, TURNING HELPLESSLY THROUGH THE AIR!
